At three o'clock P. M. the Senate reconvened.

Lieutenant-Governor Warren R. Porter, President of the Senate, in the chair.

QUESTION OF PERSONAL PRIVILEGE.

Senator Miller arose to a question of personal privilege, and spoke as follows:

Mr. President and Gentlemen of the Senate: I rise to a question of personal privilege. On yesterday in the Assembly, Assemblyman Drew, in discussing the Fresno-Kings boundary bill and in urging non-concurrence on the part of the Assembly to the amendments that had been arranged by Senator Cartwright and myself—which amendments were made at the suggestion of the Governor of this State—took occasion to make certain remarks about me to which I desire to reply.

He said: "Senator Miller now concedes that my argument of yesterday in favor of going into conference on the ground that the bill was defective with reference to the reclamation districts—that it would throw them into turmoil and confusion—was correct, and that the bill should be amended." I desire to say that this statement is wholly, entirely, and absolutely false and without the slightest foundation in fact. I think the law sufficient as it exists now, and so stated to Mr. Short, but he was of a different opinion; and I told him I would be glad to introduce a bill to meet his views. I never had any conversation with Mr. Drew on the subject. Mr. Drew stated at that same time and place, "They have now introduced in the Senate, which they propose to jam through, intended to meet my objections to the Webber bill. Now, I want to ask, why it is that the organization and Senator Miller have been so opposed to this measure going into conference? I will tell you why it is: It is because they are not willing to trust the Lieutenant-Governor, and President of the Senate, and Speaker of this House, to appoint a committee. I do not believe there is a man in this House but would trust the Speaker to appoint a fair committee. He is not going to appoint a committee to favor either side. I will agree to this amendment if Mr. Webber will agree, but this bill should go to conference and be amended. Why is it, gentlemen, that this bill has been jammed through in this way? Why is it? I will tell you. It is a political job. I did not want to bring politics into this fight, but it has already been brought in. I say it is a political job. Senator Miller has gone into training for the next Governor, with Jerry Burke as his principal rubber, and he (Burke) is trying to make political capital for Senator Miller."

Mr. President and gentlemen of the Senate, I deny absolutely, in toto, that I have been or am now a candidate for Governor. I further deny that I have been in training with Jerry Burke and the machine, or either of them, or any other person. I further state that I have never had any political affiliations with the Southern Pacific Railroad Company or Mr. Burke, and any statement to that effect is absolutely false. My record in this session and in the last is an open book, and is familiar to all of you. I submit my standing on that record. I have had during this session to talk with Mr. Burke in connection with the reciprocal demurrage bill, and in regard to the "fuel crew" bill, which I had in charge, and other matters in committee, where he appeared on behalf of the railroad company which he represents; but so far as my being with the organization, or having any desire to be, it is wholly unwarranted and is absolutely untrue, and I resent the attack.

COMMUNICATIONS.

SAN FRANCISCO, CAL., March 20th 1909

Hon. WARREN R. PORTER, Lieutenant-Governor of California,
President of the Senate, State Capitol, Sacramento, Cal.

HONORABLE AND DEAR SIR: Will you kindly convey to the members of the Senate our appreciation of the passage of Senate Bills Nos. 226 and 227, known as "The Islais Creek Bills", and Senate Bill No. 485, known as "The San Francisco Harbor Improvement Bill", which mean much to this city, this harbor, and this State. We feel grateful for the support given by the Senators to these measures, which we especially requested their approval of.

Yours very respectfully,

JAMES ROLPH, JR.

President of The Merchants' Exchange of San Francisco.

Also:

PALO ALTO, CAL., March 22, 1909.

Hon. WARREN R. PORTER, Lieutenant-Governor, Sacramento, Cal.

I beg to inform you, and through you Senate of California, that I regard resolution adopted Saturday in reference to my absence as discontinuous, as a reflection on my honor and integrity, and as proposing infringement of my privilege and rights as a Senator and citizen. I therefore have declined to see persons sent here under this resolution, and shall continue to decline to see them until my physicians inform me that I can with safety return to Sacramento. Ample evidence of my physical condition has been presented your representatives by four capable and reputable physicians, and these physicians have furnished, and will furnish, evidence of my condition from time to time as requested by you or by the Senate.

MARSHALL BLACK.

Also:

PALO ALTO, CAL., March 22, 1909.

Lieutenant-Governor WARREN R. PORTER.
President of the State Senate of California, Sacramento, Cal.

I arrived in Palo Alto, accompanied by Dr. Douglass W. Montgomery, at 9 P. M., March 21, 1909. After consultation with Dr. Howard Black and his consultants, Dr. H. B. Reynolds, Dr. J. C. Spencer, and Dr. R. L. Wilbur, Dr. Douglass W. Montgomery asked to see Senator Marshall Black before giving an opinion. This request was referred to Senator Marshall Black by Dr. Howard Black. Dr. Howard Black returned, stating that Senator Marshall Black declined to see Dr. Douglass W. Montgomery, stating he was satisfied with the opinion of his own physicians. The matter so rested on the night of March 21, 1909. In company with Dr. Douglass W. Montgomery I again called on Dr. Howard Black at 10 A. M., March 22, 1909. Again Dr. Montgomery requested to see Senator Marshall Black, and again the matter was referred to Senator Black for his decision, and again Dr. Montgomery was told that Senator Black would not see him.

J. L. MARTIN, Sergeant-at-Arms of the Senate.

And:

PALO ALTO, CAL., March 22, 1909.

Lieutenant-Governor WARREN R. PORTER.
President State Senate, Sacramento, Cal.

On the afternoon of March 21, 1909, about 4:30 P. M., J. L. Martin, Sergeant-at-Arms of the Senate of the State of California, called on me and informed me that I had been designated by the President of the Senate to proceed with him to Palo Alto, and to consult with the physicians of Senator Marshall Black, to ascertain if Senator Black's health was such as to permit him to go to Sacramento. I arrived at the office of Dr. Howard Black, Senator Black's physician, at about 9:30 P. M., March 21, 1909, and there met Dr. Howard Black, Dr. H. B. Reynolds, Dr. J. C. Spencer, and Dr. R. L. Wilbur. These physicians said they had held a consultation and had made an examination of Senator Marshall Black that afternoon; according to their statement, Senator Marshall Black had arrived in Palo Alto about five days previously suffering from inflammation of the eyes, commonly called "pink eye," and that this inflammation of the eyes had almost entirely cleared up, but that the inflammation traveled down the throat and bronchial tubes. According to their statement to me on the evening of March 21, 1909, Senator Marshall Black was suffering from broncho-pneumonia, and symptoms of inflammation in the lower lobe of the left lung, the temperature that afternoon was ninety-nine and the pulse ninety. The heart was in good condition. The cough was severe and the expectoration abundant. I stated to these physicians that I was delegated by the Senate of the State of California to make a thorough and complete examination of Senator Black for the purpose of ascertaining at what time it would be safe for Senator Black to proceed to Sacramento. I was informed by Dr. Howard Black that Senator Marshall Black would not permit me to see him. I then asked Senator Black's physicians, individually and collectively, if in their opinion, in Senator Black's present physical condition any serious inconvenience or injury would accrue to Senator Black from a personal examination by me. They all stated that, on their part, they were perfectly willing that such examination should be held by the Senate physician, and that such an examination in their opinion could do no injury. I asked if the patient was in sound and disposing mind. I was answered he was. At about 10 A. M., March 22, 1909, I again called on Dr. Howard Black, renewing my request of the previous evening to see Senator Marshall Black. Senator Black, through the physician, still declined to receive me. I then asked Dr. Howard Black when, in his opinion, Senator Marshall Black would be in condition to proceed to Sacramento. He said that at the consultation of the previous day it was concluded that it would be a week before Senator Black would be in such a condition as to enable him with safety to undertake the journey. As this consultation was held on March 21st, it would, in their opinion, be March 28th before Senator Black would be in a condition to proceed to Sacramento. I asked if, in his opinion, Senator Black was convalescing. He said that in his opinion he was. He said that Senator Black's temperature this morning was 100, his pulse 90, his cough still severe, and there still was evidence of inflammation in the lower lobe of the left lung. Personally, from what I know of Senator Black's physicians, I believe these facts to be true. Taking it for granted that these facts are true, I do not find that, from them alone, I can conclude that Senator Black is unable to proceed to Sacramento. In order to concur in this opinion of Senator Black's physicians I would have to see the patient.

DOUGLASS W. MONTGOMERY, M. D.

Delegated by Lieutenant-Governor Warren R. Porter to examine into the state of health of Senator Marshall Black.

EXPLANATIONS OF VOTES.

On motion of Senator Wolfe, the following explanations of votes were ordered printed in the Journal:

MR. PRESIDENT: We voted to adopt the report of the Committee on Free Conference on Senate Bill No. 3, not because we believe it to be what is desired by the people of this State, but because we believe it to be the only bill that can be adopted at this late hour, as the Legislature is about to adjourn.

CURTIN,
CARTWRIGHT,
SANFORD.

Also:

MR. PRESIDENT: We voted for the direct primary bill because it seems to be the best law that can be obtained under existing political conditions. We are opposed to many of the features of this bill, and believe that the people at the first opportunity will instruct their representatives in the Legislature to radically amend the same in many particulars, notably in regard to the election for United States Senators, and the provisions that prevent the endorsement of a candidate by a political party or organization other than the one that first nominated such candidate.

CAMPBELL, HOLOHAN,
MILLER.

And:

MR. PRESIDENT: If I had not been unavoidably absent at the time the report of the Free Conference Committee on Senate Bill No. 3 was submitted (the primary election bill), I would have voted for the report.

BURNETT.

COMMUNICATION.

The following communication was presented by Senator Holohan, and ordered printed in the Journal:

To the Honorable, the Superior Court of the County of Santa Cruz, State of California.

We, the grand jury for the year 1907-08, do hereby respectfully submit our report as follows, to wit:

The grand jury met October 14, 1907, James B. Holohan, the foreman of the grand jury, presiding.

Geo. C. Staffler was elected secretary.

The grand jury has inspected the public institutions of the county, including the county jail, the county hospital, and the different county offices, and we find the county jail in good condition, being newly painted and kalsomined. The prisoners appeared to be well cared for.

The county hospital also impressed us as being well managed, the food good and wholesome, and the premises kept neat and clean. We call attention to the great need of fire escapes from the sleeping apartments, and recommend that action be taken by the board of supervisors at once to remedy the danger that menaces the old people who are housed there. We recommend that fire escapes be placed at both ends of the large two-story building especially.

We further recommend that the various buildings of the hospital be painted. We also recommend that the dilapidated old annex to the operating room be torn down and a new building of greater proportions built in its stead. Also that a ward for incurables be constructed at once, and so constructed as to prevent contagion.

We wish to mention that the foregoing recommendations have been made by one or both of the two last grand juries, and that said recommendations have been entirely disregarded, and we believe that these matters are of sufficient importance for the welfare of the patients of the hospital that the board of supervisors should carry into execution all of these recommendations.

In our opinion the nurse at the hospital has done, and is doing, good work, but it is impossible for one man to reach on everything. We therefore recommend that a night nurse be employed; said night nurse also to act in the capacity of watchman.

The Fraternal Order of Eagles brought to our attention the circumstances attending the death of Thomas Kelly, and in this respect we report that from the evidence introduced before the grand jury it was shown that the said Thomas Kelly while being employed in the city of Santa Cruz became afflicted with smallpox. The health officer of the city of Santa Cruz was immediately called in, and he directed that the said Thomas Kelly be sent to the pesthouse at the county hospital, and on the following morning, namely, Saturday, the 25 day of January, 1908, the patient was placed in charge of the county physician, who had the patient transported to the pesthouse at the county hospital.

Thereafter a committee of the Fraternal Order of Eagles waited upon the county physician and stated that they desired to furnish a nurse for Mr. Kelly. They secured the services of a nurse, but the nurse was unable to see the county physician in order to secure the proper permit to take care of the patient. After the patient had arrived at the pesthouse he was given medical attention, but no guard or nurse of any kind was provided for him, and he was left alone on Saturday night, and some time on Sunday night or Monday morning, presumably Monday morning, at an early hour, Mr. Kelly left the pesthouse, leaving part of his personal belongings there, and went away.

Search was made around the city of Santa Cruz, but no trace of the whereabouts of the said Kelly could be found. On the 25th day of January, however, the body of the said Thomas Kelly was found in a creek five miles north of the hospital. When the body was found it was in a bad state of decomposition, showing that he had been dead for some time.

The testimony did not show whether the said Kelly was delirious with fever at the time that he left the pesthouse, but the testimony went on to show that persons afflicted with the disease of smallpox oftentimes become delirious from the high fever that is attendant upon the disease, and it is fair to presume that at the time that the said Kelly left the pesthouse he did not know what he was doing, and that his death was caused by falling into the creek from exhaustion.

While there is nothing in the facts of this case which justifies an official action of the grand jury, yet we wish to emphatically state that negligence has been shown in the care of Mr. Kelly, for the following reasons:

1. A patient afflicted with a contagious disease and who has been committed to the pest house should never be permitted to remain there without a guard or nurse, for the reason that if the patient should escape, either through delirium or because he does not desire to be confined there, he would spread the disease among the people with whom he would come into contact and thereby cause an epidemic of the said disease.

2. A person afflicted with a disease of this kind should never be permitted to be left alone without some person being with him to attend to his wants in the event that he should become delirious with fever.

The grand jury inspected the rock crusher on the Big Tree road. The crusher does good work, but has been operated but a very few days since the time of its purchase. In our opinion a plant that cost as much money as the rock crusher did should not be lying idle so long. We are of the opinion that the crusher can be operated profitably by the county. Recently the sheriff has taken hold of the crusher and put the prisoners to work on it. The fact that Santa Cruz County prisoners are worked on the rock pile will probably influence the hobo tourist generally to eliminate Santa Cruz County from his itinerary.

The charge against A. W. Wyman, supervisor of Supervisor District No. 2, county of Santa Cruz, for willful and corrupt misconduct in office was investigated by the grand jury, and after hearing all of the evidence and proofs in said matter an accusation in writing was found against the said A. W. Wyman, and the same was, by the foreman, delivered to the district attorney.

Thereafter, to wit, on the 6th day of February, 1908, the trial of the said A. W. Wyman was commenced in the Superior Court of this county, and on the 15th day of February, 1908, the jury having been unable to agree, were discharged. Thereafter, to wit, on the 17th day of March, A. D. 1908, the second trial was commenced in the Superior Court, and on the 25th day of March, A. D. 1908, the jury rendered a verdict declaring that the allegations in the accusation were not true.

One of the most important points involved in this trial was whether or not the said A. W. Wyman received the full amount in the first payment from the Capitola Park Company, to wit, $450. During the investigation by the grand jury and before the accusation was found the said A. W. Wyman stated that he had received the full amount of this $450.

Thereafter, and before the first trial of the said A. W. Wyman was commenced in the Superior Court, the person by whom the said money was paid, namely, D. W. Johnston, was compelled by reason of his business to leave the State of California and he was not present during the first trial. At the said first trial the said A. W. Wyman, contrary to the testimony he gave before the grand jury, testified under oath that he had only received $200 of the said amount of $450 from D. W. Johnston.

Thereafter the said D. W. Johnston returned to the city of Santa Cruz, and was present during the second trial of said case, and the testimony and evidence of the said D. W. Johnston at the second trial showed clearly and proved beyond all doubt that the full amount of $450 was paid to the said A. W. Wyman on the first payment. This payment was made to him by means of two checks drawn by the said D. W. Johnston in favor of the said A. W. Wyman. The first one was drawn on July 3, 1908, and the second one was drawn on July 5, 1906, and were made payable to A. W. Wyman, and that A. W. Wyman cashed both checks and endorsed his name on the back thereof, and the said D. W. Johnston further showed by the stub check book, and also by his cashbook, that these amounts applied to the Capitola Park road matter. A. W. Wyman did not testify on his own behalf in the second trial.

The foregoing facts show that when A. W. Wyman testified at the first trial that he received only $200 on the first payment of $450, that his testimony was untrue. We called the attention of the district attorney to this matter for the purpose of considering the finding of an indictment against the said A. W. Wyman for the crime of perjury, but the district attorney has advised us that the law is to the effect that the grounds which will disqualify a petit juror will disqualify a grand juror in taking part in an indictment, and if a grand juror is biased by having formed an opinion of the guilt of the accused, based upon evidence heard by them in another action or based upon facts heard outside of the grand jury room, it will disqualify them in finding an indictment against the accused.

Inasmuch as a great many members of this grand jury heard the testimony given at the first trial herein, in which the alleged crime of perjury was committed, and inasmuch as a great many others have formed opinions as to the guilt or innocence of the said A. W. Wyman, based upon what they have heard outside of the grand jury room, we feel that if our disqualification were questioned in court, after their finding of the indictment, it might invalidate the indictment and a great amount of expense would be thus uselessly incurred in finding the indictment, and for this reason we return no indictment against A. W. Wyman for perjury, but we believe it to be the duty of the next grand jury in the face of all the existing facts to consider the matter of bringing in such an indictment.

In regard to the result of the second trial we consider it a rank miscarriage of justice, and we are at an utter loss to see how an acquittal could be had in the face of the evidence produced, but we attribute the verdict to some extent to the deplorable and inexcusable forgetfulness on the part of a great many witnesses for the prosecution.

We further report that during the summer of 1905, A. W. Wyman, as supervisor of Supervisor District No. 2, said county, was authorized by the board of supervisors to sell two sprinkling wagons belonging to said Supervisor District No. 2, and that thereafter said A. W. Wyman sold and delivered said two sprinkling wagons for the sum of $100. The sale of these wagons was not in accordance with law for the reason that all property belonging to the county, exceeding in value the sum of $75, should be advertised for sale for thirty days prior to the sale thereof, and we believe that this law should be complied with.

During the deliberations we ascertained that a part of the beach at Twin Lakes has been fenced in by private individuals, the portion which is fenced being public property, and we believe that the law has been violated by these private individuals in so fencing in public property, and we have instructed the district attorney to institute proceedings and to vigorously prosecute the same to a final determination, in order that this property shall be restored to public use.

We ascertained that there has been operated and carried on in the county of Santa Cruz certain unlawful gambling games, among others being the game of roulette, faro, tan, fan tan, and certain percentage games, such as craps, klondike, etc., and we have instructed all of the officers of the law, whose duty it is to prohibit the existence of these games, to arrest and continue to arrest and diligently prosecute all persions whom they have reasonable cause to believe to be maintaining, operating or carrying on any of such unlawful gambling games.

In our investigation of the records of the board of supervisors we have ascertained that in a great many instances the claims for work against the respective road districts have not been properly itemized, and it has been impossible in some instances for the grand jury to determine where work was done for which the county has paid, and we hereby instruct the board of supervisors and all of the county officers, whose duty it is to see that the law is strictly complied with, to disallow and reject any claim for road work which does not specifically set forth the point or place where the work was performed, as well as the nature of the service, together with the time that was consumed in doing the work.

In doing and performing road work throughout the respective road districts it is necessary for the supervisors to use certain tools, wagons, sensors and appliances for the purpose of doing this work, and we have ascertained that in some road districts proper and suitable accommodations have been provided for the housing and protection of these tools, wagons, sensors, appliances, etc., whereas in other road districts no such provisions have been made and we recommend that in such districts proper suitable accommodations have been made for the housing and protection of these tools, wagons, sensors, etc., that the board of supervisors immediately acquire or cause suitable means for the housing of these appliances.

The grand jury made a careful and complete examination of the books, records and accounts of all the officers of the county, and especially those pertaining to the revenue, and in all instances we found the books correct and in this respect we wish to compliment the several officers for the efficient way in which they have conducted their respective offices and kept their books, and we also desire to thank the officers for the courtesies which they have extended to this grand jury. In our judgment the services of an expert was not necessary, and we did not therefore employ one. The examination of all of these books, records and accounts was made by a committee organized by the grand jury.

THE HIGHLAND WAY.

During the year 1906 proceedings were taken by the board of supervisors to purchase a private road belonging to the F. A. Hihn Company, known as the Highland Way, for the sum of $15,000.00. This private road is situated partly in the Paparo Road District and partly in the Saguel Road District. Subsequently a suit was brought in the Superior Court in reference to said matter, which resulted in the adjournment of the proceedings of said board of supervisors held in said matter. No appeal was ever taken on the judgment of the court rendered in that suit and the same has become final.

We are informed that the board of supervisors are again contemplating the purchase of this private road. Knowing as we do from all different parts of Santa Cruz County, from the information we obtain in our respective neighborhoods, we deem this contemplated purchase unadvisable for many reasons, among which may be mentioned the following:

1. The road was constructed by a private corporation for its own use.
2. There is no public necessity for the requiring of this road.
3. The taxes of Santa Cruz County have been increased to such an extent as to become unreasonably burdensome to the property owners and that unnecessary expenditure of public moneys should be avoided to the end that taxes may be materially reduced in the near future.

There were other matters of less importance which came before the grand jury, but we do not deem them of sufficient importance to mention them in this report.

In reference to the purchase of the so-called Highland Way, the grand jury, adopted the resolution which is hereto attached and made a part of this report; and we believe that for the interest of the county of Santa Cruz this resolution should be carried out by the board of supervisors.

We further report that we investigated the testimony of Walter J. Barnett, which was given in the matter of the estate of Ellen M. Colton, deceased, and we have returned an indictment against the said Walter J. Barnett for perjury.

We further report that in the matter of the cutting of the redwood trees in the California Redwood Park we have made a supplementary report which is hereto attached and made a part hereof.

Dated Santa Cruz, April 17, 1909.

JAMES B. HOLOHAN, Foreman.

GEORGE C. STAFFLER, Secretary.

IN THE MATTER OF THE INVESTIGATION OF THE CUTTING OF REDWOOD TREES IN THE CALIFORNIA REDWOOD PARK.

The matter of the cutting of redwood trees in the California Redwood Park was brought to our attention by certain members of the Sempervirens Club and also by the statements made in the public journals throughout the State to the effect that live redwood trees had been cut in the State Park and a committee of this grand jury was appointed to investigate said charge for the purpose of ascertaining whether or not there was any fraud or crime involved in the making of the contract for the cutting of said redwood trees.

Said committee personally visited the park and made their report to this grand jury and thereupon numerous witnesses were subpoenaed and testified in reference to said matter and upon all of the testimony given before this grand jury and our findings are as follows:

A. That there has been no evidence to show that in the execution of said contract there has been any crime committed or any fraud perpetrated, which would justify this grand jury in bringing in an indictment.

B. We find that on March 16th, 1901, an Act of the Legislature of this State was approved authorizing the purchase of the California Redwood Park for the sum of two hundred and fifty thousand ($250,000) dollars, a portion of which Act reads as follows:

"Whereas, The redwood forests of California are rapidly disappearing before the demands of commerce and the ravages of fire, and will shortly be extinct unless adequate means are taken for their perpetuation; and

Whereas, These trees are the oldest and largest in the world, and, being peculiar to California, contribute to her fame, and are naturally the subject of State pride and protection, therefore, it is enacted that

"Section 1. The Governor of the State of California and four other commissioners appointed by the Governor shall constitute the California Redwood Park Commission, whose duty it shall be to select such land from that tract of land commonly known as the Big Basin, situate in Santa Cruz and San Mateo counties, in the State of California, upon which are growing trees of the species known as sequoia sempervirens, and which, in the judgment of said commission, is most suitable for a park, the purpose of which is to preserve a body of these trees from destruction, and maintain them for the honor of the State of California and for the benefit of succeeding generations. The commissioners appointed by the governor shall hold office for four years. Vacancies shall be filled by the governor."

C. Under and by virtue of the terms of this law the Honorable Henry T. Gage, who was then governor of California, appointed four commissioners namely, Rev. Robert E. Kenna, president of Santa Clara College; W. H. Dudley, professor of botany of the Stanford University; W. H. Mills, land agent of the Southern Pacific; A. W. Foster, president of the Northwestern Railway Company, also a Regent of the University of California, and afterwards H. S. Kron of the county of Santa Cruz, was appointed a member of said commission.

Thereafter, in 1905, the law was amended and under and by virtue of the terms of the new Act of the Legislature the management of the park was taken away from the commissioners hereinbefore named and the law created a new board composed of the Governor of the State of California, Secretary of State, the Attorney General, and the State Forester, whose office was created under the act of 1905.

D. We further find that on the 31st day of August, 1907, the commissioners of the California Redwood Park, by and through G. B. Lull, the State Forester, attempted to enter into a contract with one W. M. Elsom, under the terms of which the said W. M. Elsom was permitted "to cut and remove and manufacture into lumber and other timber products all of the dead and down fir wood, and all the marketable dead and down oak and madrone wood and all down redwood trees, in that portion of the said park situate east of Waddell Creek, and in addition such standing redwood trees therein as may be designated by the said first party," for which the said William M. Elsom was to pay the following sums, to wit:

All fir, oak and madrone at the rate of fifty (50) cents per cord.

All redwood used as lumber, or split or sawed into shingles, shakes, ties, posts, pickets, or other salable material, at the rate of one dollar and fifty cents ($1.50) per thousand feet.

All redwood cordwood free.

It is further stipulated in said contract that all such wood and timber products so to be paid for should be measured on board of cars at the shipping point by the said parties hereto, before the same are shipped.

It is further stipulated in said contract that the said W. M. Elsom should not in removing any of said timber cut, destroy or damage any green or growing timber or construct any roads or skid ways on said land.

It is further stipulated that said agreement shall terminate at the end of one year from the date thereof, but that the said William M. Elsom shall have such further time as may be reasonable within which to remove and ship all timber and wood then cut and manufactured by him under the terms of the contract.

E. We find that under the terms of this contract the very spirit and letter of the Act of the Legislature authorizing the purchase of said park has been grossly and inexcusably violated in this, to wit:

The Act authorizing the purchasing of the park provides that the purpose, for which it was purchased was to preserve a body of these trees from destruction, and maintain them for the honor of the State of California and for the benefit of succeeding generations:

Whereas, under the guise of said agreement fifty or sixty live redwood trees, some of which measured nine feet at the cut, have been cut and manufactured into ties, posts, pickets, grape-stakes, etc. That in the felling of said trees other live redwood trees have been injured and destroyed, as well as having destroyed much of the undergrowth which tends to beautify said park.

¶ We further find that in the manufacture of said live redwood trees into ties, etc., the debris, brush, and rubbish is permitted to remain upon the ground, and according to the testimony of witnesses who have had years of experience in the timber business, said brush and debris is the greatest fire menace that could exist.

Expert timber men have testified that said trees were not dead and that if they had been permitted to stand there would have been no fire menace as now exists and that on account of the debris, brush, etc., which now remains upon the ground the fire menace has been greatly increased.

In this respect we wish to suggest that the contract does not require the contractor to clean up and burn this debris, but that it must be cleared up and burned at the State's expense, and the testimony of the witnesses who have appeared before the grand jury say that the money derived by the State for the sale of the wood will in no way be ample to defray the expense of cleaning up and burning said debris, and the result will be that this great fire menace will remain in said park for an indefinite time.

¶ It is the theory of the State Forester, as testified to by him, that the large redwoods which were cut, having been burned, that they were practically dead, and were not only a fire menace, but that they detracted from the beauty of the park.

In this respect we desire to state that we called before us, as witnesses, men who have lived in and about the redwoods in this county from ten to forty years, and they are unanimous in saying that it is almost impossible to kill a redwood by fire. All of these witnesses visited the park and personally inspected the trees which had been cut, and they have all testified that while the trees had been visited by fire, yet most all of them were green with foliage, and that if those few trees where the foliage had not yet reappeared had been permitted to stand that the foliage would have reappeared in a short time and they would have been as attractive as the other trees in the park.

We further find that most of the trees, which have been cut, have been cut next to the road through the park, almost at the entrance into the park, and that instead of beautifying the park by the cutting of them it has left a scene of waste, ruin, desolation and sadness.

We further find that the provision of the contract requiring the measuring of the wood on board the cars has been absolutely neglected and that no person, other than the contractor himself, could give any information to the grand jury as to how much wood, timber, etc., had been taken from the park.

We further find, that while the contract provides that the contractor shall not build any roads or skid ways, yet he is permitted to sled his wood to the main traveled road, and that by reason thereof much of the undergrowth and many of the young trees have been and are now being destroyed.

¶ We further find that the county of Santa Cruz constructed a road into the said park, which cost the taxpayers of this county some twelve or fifteen thousand dollars, and that while a shorter route of travel might have been selected by the purchase of the so-called Bloom road, yet the heavy teaming, which would necessarily come over the Bloom road in hauling out wood, timber, etc., from the property other than the park, would make it hazardous to travel said road, and that the dust caused by said heavy teaming would be a great annoyance and inconvenience to the tourists visiting said park. The county, therefore, constructed a new road, as heretofore stated, but now, on account of the said contract with the said W. M. Elsom, the very hazard, inconvenience and annoyance that was sought to be avoided actually exists and will exist for an indefinite time, for the reason that all of the wood, timber, ties, posts, etc., amounting in all to several hundreds cords, must necessarily be hauled over the road so constructed by the county of Santa Cruz; and the said road being exceedingly narrow in certain portions thereof and being built on the side of a high mountain, it will be absolutely dangerous for people who are inexperienced in mountain travel to pass wagons heavily loaded with wood, to say nothing of the dust created by said heavy teaming.

¶ We further find that in the letting of said contract to the said W. M. Elsom, bids were not invited, nor was any notice given that said contract was to be let, but in this respect we find that another contractor submitted his bid to the State Forester, which bid, in our opinion, was far more advantageous to the State and for the benefit of the park, and it was submitted by a person thoroughly familiar with the park and who was and is a man thoroughly trustworthy, honest, and reliable. His bid, in our opinion, was more advantageous to the State for the reason that under the terms of his bid he was to pay for the said wood by the cord instead of by the thousand feet, and further, that under his bid he agreed to pile up the debris under the supervision of the State Forester, and we believe that under the terms of his bid the State would have received a greater compensation for the wood that was to be taken.

We further find that in the carrying out of said contract with the said W. M. Elsom the State Forester has been negligent in visiting said park for the purpose of inspecting the cutting of said redwood trees. According to the testimony given before the grand jury he visited the park but once after the contract had been let let until the agitation was commenced relative to the cutting of said trees and he has been there but twice since that time.

We further find that the said State Forester came to the State of California for the first time about two years ago, and that before coming to the State of California he had absolutely no experience with redwood trees.

We further find that the Park Warden has neglected his duty to visit said park and to ascertain what trees were being cut and what was being done in said park.

In this respect the testimony shows that the Warden makes his residence in the town of Boulder Creek and visits the park not more than once a week and then does not go through the park to the extent of seeing what wood or trees are being cut.

From the foregoing findings our conclusions are:

1. That the cutting of said redwood trees in said park under the guise of said contract is an outrage and a shame.

2. That the commissioners, in attempting to enter into said contract, have exceeded their powers, for the reasons that the letter and spirit of the act of the Legislature authorizing the purchase of the Big Basin Park have been and is being grossly violated, and therefore said contract is absolutely null and void.

3. We believe that no more trees, either redwood or other trees, and no undergrowth of any kind or description should be cut in said park except such as are necessary to cut for the purpose of building roads and fire trails.

4. That the wood, timber, split stuff, etc., now remaining in said park should never be permitted to be removed and that the contractor's redress, if any he has, should be sought against the officials who entered into said void contract.

5. That by reason of the inexperience of the State Forester and on account of the neglect of duty on the part of the Park Warden and on account of the errors which were committed by the Assistant Park Warden in designating live trees to be cut they and each of them should be removed from office, and in our opinion the old law authorizing the appointment of four commissioners by the Governor, is the only fit law under which the park can be maintained and protected for the reason that the State officials have little or no time on account of their official duties to look after the interests of said park, but have permitted the same to be maintained solely according to the judgment of the State Forester.

In this respect we state that the testimony shows that the Governor has never yet visited said park. The Attorney General has never yet visited said park, and up to the time of this agitation relative to the cutting of the redwood trees the Secretary of State never visited said park; whereas, under the old law the commissioners took a deep interest in the welfare and maintenance of the park and took every precaution to protect and preserve it as nature intended it to be.

Therefore, in order to prevent the further cutting of trees and the removal of the wood and split stuff that now remains in the park the district attorney is hereby authorized and directed to institute such proceedings as in his judgment are necessary to annul said contract and prevent the removal of said wood and split stuff from said park; and we recommend that the board of supervisors of this county take such steps as are necessary toward the passage of an ordinance preventing heavy teaming on the road so constructed by the county of Santa Cruz.

ON FEDERAL RELATIONS.

SENATE CHAMBER, SACRAMENTO, March 23, 1909.

MR. PRESIDENT: Your Committee on Federal Relations, to whom was submitted the following resolution:

WHEREAS, Wells, Fargo & Co.'s Express, now engaged as a common carrier of interstate and other commerce, has lately made material advances in express rates from points outside of California to and from all points in the State of California, as well as in local rates on transportation within the State; and

WHEREAS, It is alleged that a combination limiting territory and for the maintenance of rates exists between the various express companies of the United States, whereby the express business of the Pacific Slope is to be carried by Wells, Fargo & Co.; and

WHEREAS, It is alleged that some of the transcontinental railroads are also interested in said combination, and are aiding same by special privileges; and

WHEREAS, Such combination, if any exists, is in restraint of trade and unlawful; therefore, be it

Resolved by the Senate, That the Committee on Federal Relations be, and it is hereby, directed to investigate the advance in such express rates with relation to the reasons therefor, the effect thereof on the merchant, the shipper, the consumer, and commerce generally. Said committee is hereby also requested to report to the Senate the results of such investigation, together with such recommendations and suggestions for remedies looking to relief in the premises as in the judgment of the committee may seem suitable: be it further

Resolved, That said committee shall have power to summon witnesses and to send for persons and papers, also to issue subpoenas when necessary: be it further

Resolved, That the Secretary of the Senate is hereby instructed to assign, for duty to such committee such stenographers and clerical assistants, now in the service of the Senate, as may be necessary in such investigation; and that said committee be furnished with all necessary assistants and equipment for the proper conduct of said investigation.

Also:

WHEREAS, The various railroad companies engaged in transportation of interstate commerce have, it is alleged, since the first day of January, 1909, made a material advance in freight rates from eastern points to and from all points in the State of California:

WHEREAS, It is alleged such advance in such rates means a yearly tax on the merchants, shippers and producers of California of about ten millions of dollars:

WHEREAS, It is alleged such new rates are unjust and unreasonable, in view of the alleged fact that the increased and ever-increasing earnings of said companies have enabled them to pay larger dividends to their respective stockholders, besides making vast expenditures for new roads and betterments;

WHEREAS, The merchants, shippers and producers of the State have united in protest against such increase, and have organized with the object in view of securing relief from the burden alleged to be imposed thereby;

WHEREAS, It is alleged that the consumers of this State are sufferers by this action of such companies in common with the merchants, shippers and producers: therefore, be it

Resolved by the Senate, That the Committee on Federal Relations be, and it is hereby, directed to investigate the advance of such freight rates with relation to the reasons therefor, the effect thereof on the merchants, the shipper, the producer, the consumer, and commerce generally. Said committee is hereby also requested to report to the Senate the results of such investigation, together with such recommendation and suggestions for remedies looking to the relief in the premises as in the judgment of the committee may seem suitable. Said committee is hereby also requested to report to the Senate a memorial to the President of the United States, the Congress of the United States, and the Interstate Commerce Commission, embodying the attitude of the people of California on the subject, and asserting their rights to relief from the unjust burden, if any there be, so as aforesaid alleged to be placed on all material interests of California and her people: be it further

Resolved, That said committee shall have power to summon witnesses and to send for persons and papers, also to issue subpoenas when necessary; be it further

Resolved, That the Secretary of the Senate is hereby instructed to assign for duty to such committee, such stenographers and clerical assistants, now in service of the Senate, as may be necessary in such investigation, and that said committee be furnished with all necessary assistants and equipment for the proper conduct of such investigation.

Report as follows: That from time to time the chairman of the committee was desirous of taking up the investigation of increased freight rates, both by the various transportation companies and also Wells, Fargo & Co.; but owing to the great press of business upon the Senate and the various members thereof, and particularly the members of this committee, it was impossible to make an investigation as required by the foregoing resolution.

Finally, the chairman called a meeting of the committee on the — day of March, 1909, at which meeting by motion duly made and carried, the quorum of the committee was fixed at two members. At that meeting the chairman was also instructed by motion made and carried to subpoena such witnesses as in his judgment seemed proper to conduct an examination.

Pursuant to said motion, the chairman subpoenaed the following named gentlemen, representing the various interest placed after their names, all of the same having their places of business in San Francisco:

C. H. Bentley, California Fruit Cannery's Association.

Joseph Durney, Griffith & Durney.

W. C. Barnard, Barnard & Bunker.

A. H. Rising, Chief Rate Clerk of the Southern Pacific Railroad Co.

W. C. Donnelly, Chief Rate Clerk of the Santa Fe Railroad Co.

G. W. Luce, General Freight Agent of the Southern Pacific Railroad.

Edw. Bonnhelm, Treasurer and Manager, Weinstock, Lubin & Co.

Geo. Newman, President Newman & Levinson.

S. L. Leszynski, President of S. L. Leszynski Co.

Russell D. Carpenter, Auditor of Hale Bros., Inc.

Louis T. Samuels, Luce House.

J. O. Bracken, Manager of the California Commercial Ass'n.

A. Christensen, Vice-President and General Manager Wells, Fargo & Co.

The following named of the gentlemen summoned were not served, owing to their absence from the city of San Francisco:

A. H. Rising, Chief Rate Clerk of the Santa Fe Railroad, said to be in Portland.

C. M. Luce, General Freight Agent and General Manager of Southern Pacific Railroad, said to be in Chicago.

A. Christensen, Vice-President and General Manager Wells, Fargo & Co.

On Friday, March 12th, at two o'clock, said committee met in Room 82, Capitol Building. Present: Senators Burnett, chairman, and Bills.

The stenographer appointed by the clerk of the Senate, Mr. H. M. Payne, did not appear when the meeting was called to order, and the committee was seated without him.

Mr. C. H. Bentley of San Francisco, of the California Fruit Cannery Association, stated as follows:

That the increased freight rates, which went into effect on the first of the year on all transcontinental roads eastbound, was a great hardship upon the shippers; that some of the former rates have been in effect fourteen years, during which time the carriers required shippers to ship in large units in order to secure the minimum carload rates, and many other economies in transportation have been effected.

That the reason of the increase in cost of transportation of a large portion of freight eastbound, has amounted to 10 cents on one hundred pounds. In some classes of freight moving eastward in large quantities the increase has been greater than 10 per cent.

That the shippers feel that the increased freight rates has placed them at a distinct disadvantage in marketing their products and that the increase is unwarranted by the present financial condition of the roads. That the question of whether or not the increase is warranted is a proper subject of investigation; that it would be of great assistance to the shippers of California to have the question of the justification of the increase of rates properly examined into by a committee of the Senate, which could conduct an impartial and proper investigation, as between the various transportation companies.

Mr. Bentley cited various instances of increased rates, which he thought were unwarranted, particularly the increase upon canned goods.

At this stage of the procedure, Senator Wolfe arrived and objected to the conduct of the investigation, upon the ground that there was not a quorum of the committee present. Upon examining the rules of the Senate, it was discovered that a quorum of the committee could be fixed at not less than one third of the committee, and as the committee contained but five members, two members present constituted a quorum, upon which Senator Wolfe withdrew his objection, based upon the ground that a quorum was not present.

The committee then adjourned to meet again at 4:30 o'clock p. m.

At 4:30 o'clock, the committee again was called to order by the chairman, Senators Black and Bills being present. Senator Wolfe came in late.

The committee then proceeded to examine Mr. W. C. Donnelly, Chief Rate Clerk of the Santa Fe Railroad Company.

Mr. Donnelly stated that there had been an increase in rates upon transcontinental freight rates from California to the East and from the East to California, amounted in many instances to 10 cents on 100 pounds. He stated that the railroad felt that the increase was necessary for the reason that for a number of years the railroads had been carrying California commodities to the East at figures that they did not consider remunerative.

That on dried fruit the increase was 10 per cent on 100 pounds. Also on beans and peas dried that the rate would be reduced to all points west of the Missouri River. That is, the beans and peas which are now carried at 85 cents per hundred pounds will probably be reduced to 75 cents. He also stated that dried fruit and canned goods would constitute 50 per cent of the total of eastbound freight.

That he believed the statement that the recent increase of freight rates amounted to $10,000,000 per annum is purely theoretical, and that the California shippers could increase the price of their goods.

That the endeavor on the part of the railroads to operate the roads very cheaply had resulted in the curtailing of the expenses of operation and finally resulted in too much curtailing and that the railroads found themselves without equipment. It was necessary to increase the rates in order to properly equip the road.

That the increase in rates was made by the Transcontinental Traffic Bureau, which is an association of the various representatives of the transcontinental roads. That he believed that the rates on peas and beans and split peas were about to be restored, and that the restoration was made after investigation by the railroads themselves, thinking that a lower rate was necessary in certain territories.

Mr. Donnelly also said that the general increase on canned goods and dried fruits amounted to a rise of 10 per cent. He admitted that the railroads were paying their usual dividends and that the railroads have always figured on a rate that would pay a fair return on the money invested and still keep up the repairs.

Mr. Donnelly stated further that he believed that the articles would bear the increased rates and that it was not all the traffic would bear, and admitted that the company was making money under the former rates.

He stated that there were some articles upon which a reduction had been made, but he could not name them.

Also, that within the last few years the Santa Fe, in connection with the Southern Pacific, has bought the Northwestern Pacific. The meeting then adjourned to meet again at 8 P. M.

EVENING SESSION, 8 P. M.

W. C. Donnelly was recalled, and stated that he did not know anything about the rates wholly within the State of California, as that did not come within his department.

Mr. Edward Bonnheim, called as a witness, testified as follows: That he is a member of the firm of Weinstock, Lubin & Co., of San Francisco, that he was more familiar with the Wells, Fargo & Co. rates than with the railroad rates; that there has been an increase in the Wells-Fargo rates, owing to the fact of the doing away with their rates.

That prior to the new schedule enforced between New York and the city of San Francisco, the rate was 8 cents per pound from 10,000 to 20,000 pounds; $9.00 per hundred for 5,000 to 10,000 pounds; $10.00 per hundred for 2,000 to 5,000 pounds; $100.00 per hundred from 1,000 to 2,000 pounds, and $12.00 from 500 to 1,000 pounds; $13.50 from 100 to 500 pounds.

That the withdrawal of the bulk rates in December of last year resulted in an advance of 35 per cent by the withdrawal of the 2,000 pound rate, and an advance of 50 per cent by the withdrawal of the 5,000 pound rate; an advance of 66 $\frac{2}{3}$ per cent by the withdrawal of the 10,000 pound rate, and that the withdrawal of the 20,000 pound rate amounted to an advance of 92 8-10 per cent.

That the use of the express in furnishing goods and novelties was now a necessity, owing to the fact that it was necessary to have great speed because of the change of fashions; that the use of the express in business is no longer a luxury, but an absolute necessity.

Mr. Bonnheim further stated that he believed that great good could be accomplished by an investigation of freight rates by this committee, after the adjournment of the Senate, in the way of gathering information both from the companies and from the merchants, and thereby furnishing to the general public such information as an impartial committee might obtain. That the influence upon public opinion would be very great and that the committee could make such recommendation as might to them seem proper.

That he believed that the officers of Wells, Fargo & Co. feel that the rate is too high. That this increase of rate not only affects the merchant, but also the consumer. In most instances it being passed on to the consumer.

That the increase of the use of the express by the merchants is very rapid, and shipments to-day are much higher than were formerly and that they will still continue to increase. That Wells, Fargo & Co. is not the only express company that operates in this territory. That he believed this investigation is the proper thing for the Senate to undertake, and does not think that harm will come to either one party or the other from it. He thinks that it is very wise.

The merchants of San Francisco are of the opinion that San Francisco is discriminated against and that if the Senate succeeds in arousing a laudable public sentiment it would be of service to the community, for it is believed that the express companies are taxing San Francisco too heavily. The reduction of express charges would be felt by the consumers and the general public.

Mr. J. O. Bracken, agent of the California Commercial Association, then testified, practically verifying the statements made by Mr. Bonnheim. When questioned as to the proper cost to the State generally by the removal of the bulk rate by Wells, Fargo & Co., he stated that it was very great, but it was impossible to say how great.

That express charges within the State of California were far in excess of the rates under the rule laid down by the Interstate Commerce Commission, which fixed the express rates not to exceed three times the first-class freight rates; that in large portions of California, the rates charged by Wells, Fargo & Co. have far exceeded three times the first-class freight rate.

That an investigation by a holdover committee, he thought, would be of benefit to the shipper and to the general public; that Wells, Fargo & Co. had invested in their business the sum of $1,600,000; that is their total investment. Their net earnings for operating for the year 1906 were $2,544,962.00, being about 150 per cent profit.

For the year ending December 31, 1907, on the lines in the United States only, the gross earnings were $22,135,122.00 and their operating expenses $19,347,325.00, leaving net earnings for operating only express proper in the United States, $2,787,797.00.

The committee then adjourned to meet March 13th at 1:30 p. m.

Mr. Carpenter, called as a witness, testified that the comparison between westbound tariff No. 1H, effective January 1, 1909, transcontinental freight tariff, compared with the westbound tariff No. 1G and amendments thereto, being commodity rates in instances prior to January 1, 1909, showed a very marked increase in a large number of commodities westbound, used by Hale Bros. That in many of these articles the raise is felt by the merchants, that on the other hand the raise in rates is felt by the consumer, the merchant increasing his price to meet the conditions.

That as regards Wells, Fargo & Co.'s express, the witness agreed with Mr. Bonnheim. He also stated that he believed an impartial investigation conducted by the committee would result in great good, particularly as it might tend to determine the question of whether the increase rate was justified or not. That he was not prepared to say that it was not justified, as he did not know the railroad side of the question.

That the committee might gather information which would tend to show the real condition which, in his opinion, would be of general benefit to the community. That the railroad companies and the merchants are natural partisans in this freight rate raise. One says that they are not making enough money, the other that they are making too much.

That he believed an investigation from either interest would bring out the facts of the case as to whether the carriers are earning too much or too little on their investment. It would bring out a great deal of good either to one side or the other, and perhaps to both sides. It is his belief that the railroad itself can not always tell whether it is making a profit on a given commodity or not. The committee could create a public sentiment, and would bring about more uniform information.

Mr. George J. Bradley was then called, and stated that he is the traffic manager of the Merchants and Manufacturers' Traffic Association of Sacramento.

He stated that he believed great good could be done by their committee in supplying to the public, generally, information which they might obtain in regard to the increase of freight rates, and that there was a large number of shippers and various other authorities of the State that would gladly testify before the committee, and that they had information which they were only too anxious to give to such a committee as this one. That if the rates are not unreasonable and unjust, no harm has certainly been done to the railroad, and the producers and the citizens of California would be satisfied. At least, they would have no reason to be dissatisfied.

I believe that, while it has been our idea that the Attorney General could prosecute an action before the Interstate Commerce Commission upon the question of these rates, your committee could do good work by holding meetings and bringing the various commercial bodies together so as to get information.

That the earnings of the railroad company did not show that the increase is necessary, and that as shown by Harris & Winthrop of 25 Wall street, New York, selling agents for the securities of the Harriman system, who published this statement as agents of the Harriman interests. The gross earnings of the Southern Pacific has increased from $57,500,000 in 1898 to $125,000,000 in 1907. Their net earnings have increased from $14,500,000 in 1898 to $41,500,000 in 1907. From 1899 to 1902, their ratio of operating expenses was from 62 to 64 per cent; in 1903 the ratio was 68 per cent, also in 1904; in 1905, 66 per cent; in 1906 and 1907, 64 per cent, showing that their ratio of expenses, instead of increasing has decreased within the last three years.

In 1907, their net earnings amounted to $45,000,000 with $5,000,000 additional from Wells-Fargo Express and other incomes. After paying all fixed charges and other expenses outside of those, they showed a net surplus of $29,000,000 in 1907. They paid 7 per cent on preferred stock amounting to $27,000,000; paid a dividend of 5 per cent of $10,000,000 on common stock and passed to net balance $15,700,000. I claim that this shows a very health condition of the road.

Mr. Bradley went into the question as to the increase of freight rates amounting to $10,000,000. He went with great length into this question, but it can not be put in this report.

Mr. Bradley stated that the consumer was fully as interested as the merchants in the increased freight rate, as most of it was passed on to him by the merchant. He further stated that there were a large number of shippers and producers throughout the State of California who were unorganized, and looked to this Legislature for such a committee as this to assist them, as they were otherwise without help.

That on March 16, 1909, the following gentlemen appeared before the committee, to wit: E. D. Beard, of Napa; Geo. S. Minott, transcontinental rate clerk of the Salt Lake line, Ed M. Gray, of San Francisco, and R. J. Summers of the same place. Messrs. Beard, Gray, and Summers are merchants and shippers, and testified to practically the same things as the other merchants hereinbefore mentioned. Mr. Minott stated that there had been a general increase in freight rates on many commodities, but was unable to state upon what facts the various transportation companies based their increase.

That it was the generally expressed wish of the various shippers and merchants appearing before the committee, that the committee should hold over and conduct a further investigation into transcontinental and other rates which they thought would be of benefit to the State, generally, in assisting to determine whether or not the recent increase in rates was justifiable and furnishing the general public as well as the shippers and producers and merchants with information which they could gain in no other way. Your committee respectfully submits the foregoing report for your consideration and the consideration of the members of the Senate, with the statement that it was impossible during the session of the Legislature to cover the vast field presented to them, and beg the Senators will consider the advisability of a hold over committee and whether or not the same is justifiable.

Your committee further reports that they are unable at the present time to make recommendations required by the resolutions as they have been unable to conduct an investigation of a sufficient scope to warrant them in drawing a proper conclusion from their efforts.

Respectfully submitted.

BURNETT, Chairman.

TRANSCRIPT OF TESTIMONY GIVEN BEFORE THE COMMITTEE ON FEDERAL RELATIONS.

The following transcript of testimony given before the Committee on Federal Relations was ordered printed in the Journal:

IN THE MATTER OF THE INVESTIGATION OF THE INCREASE IN FREIGHT AND EXPRESS RATES BEFORE A SELECT COMMITTEE OF THE SENATE, CONSISTING OF SENATORS BURNETT (CHAIRMAN), SANFORD, BLACK, BILLS, AND WOLFE.

Friday, March 12, 1909, at 4 P. M.

W. C. Donnelly was called as a witness and testified as follows:

Senator Burnett: Q. What is your full name?

A. W. C. Donnelly.

Q. You are the chief rate clerk of the Santa Fe Railroad in San Francisco, are you not?

A. Yes.

Q. Do you know, Mr. Donnelly, whether or not since the first day of January, 1909, there has been a general increase in freight rates in the State of California by the Santa Fe road?

A. On transcontinental traffic. I don't know anything about this coast; I don't handle it.

Q. How about the rates from here East?

A. Yes, there has been an advance in rates from California to the East, and from the East to California.

Q. Is that on a fixed percentage? Could you state what the general percentage the rate of increase is?

A. It was not made on a fixed percentage. It was felt by the railroads that an increase in the rates were necessary for the reason that for a number of years, perhaps ten or fifteen years, we have been carrying California commodities to the East at figures that we did not hardly consider were remunerative, but that was simply—it was done from a selfish motive of the railroads, and also to assist the shipper.

Q. What was done for a selfish motive?

A. We wanted to increase the revenue to the East, therefore we carried these abnormally low rates, such as canned goods, dried fruits, asphaltum and the other commodities where the rates have been reduced. For instance, we always carried a lower rate on canned goods eastbound than westbound, and the rates are lower on canned goods eastbound to-day than they are westbound. I believe the westbound rates on canned goods range from probably ninety cents to a dollar—

Senator Burnett: Q. Which way?

A. Westbound.

Senator Bills: Q. What is the rate from Omaha to San Francisco westbound?

A. Ninety cents to a dollar.

Senator Burnett: Q. What is the rate from San Francisco to Missouri?

A. Eighty-five cents, and there is another distinction as between the eastbound rate and the westbound, and that is, that the eastbound rate is a blanket rate; that eighty-five cent rate carries just the same as a postage stamp, we call it the postage stamp rate because it covers the entire territory; that applies from California terminals and also from California intermediate points.

Senator Burnett: Q. To where?

A. To all Eastern territory.

Q. Where is the nearest point that the eighty-five cent rate strikes?

A. Colorado and Kansas, Nebraska, Oklahoma, Indian Territory, Iowa, Illinois, Indiana and Ohio.

Q. Now, Mr. Donnelly, the increase in rate then is mostly—on what products is the increase, on what goods?

A. Was ten cents a hundred on dried fruits, ten cents a hundred on beans and peas dried, but that rate will be reduced to all points west of the Missouri river, that is to the territory west of the Missouri river, such as Kansas, Nebraska, Oklahoma, Indian Territory and Texas. The rate on beans and peas will be restored to seventy-five cents; that was arranged at the last meeting of the transcontinental lines in Chicago for the reason that evidence was brought to bear that that reduction was necessary into those territories in order to place the California beans in those markets.

Q. Are there any other articles, Mr. Donnelly?

A. The asphaltum rate was raised ten cents a hundred pounds.

Q. This is all about the same rate, isn't it?

A. Yes, sir; and by the way the eastern lines were seriously objecting even to make a sixty cent rate to Chicago.

Q. On asphaltum?

A. Yes.

Q. What was the rate before?

A. The rate was fifty cents.

Q. Now, the principal commodities that are shipped from California east are these articles, canned goods, dried fruits, beans and peas?

A. Yes.

Q. Are those the articles upon which this raise has been made?

A. Yes.

Q. Almost exclusively?

A. Oh, yes, there might have been a raise on some other articles. I don't recall Those are the most important.

Senator Bills: Q. On the various articles on which the rate was raised east-bound what percentage of that would be dried fruits and canned goods? It would be more than fifty per cent, wouldn't it?

A. Well, you take all the commodities that I have mentioned there—now I don't think I could give you a fair—I couldn't give you anything definite, but I would say possibly from forty to fifty per cent.

Senator Bills: Q. Isn't it seventy per cent?

Senator Burnett: You mean of the total eastbound.

A. Well, I don't know; I couldn't say, I don't know.

Senator Burnett: Q. As for the reasons for the increase of the rate, Mr. Donnelly, the reason that you have already alleged is the only reason that you know, is it not?

A. Yes, sir; as I stated it has been the policy of the California carriers to put California goods into the Eastern markets to the greatest extent possible, and for that reason they carried rates that they did not consider sufficiently remunerative. When the markets in the East became so that they believed they would stand a higher rate, why we advanced the rate. We have been considering that advance for years and have hesitated to do it, but felt that this was the proper time to do it.

Senator Wolfe: Q. Mr. Donnelly, one of the preambles of this resolution under which this committee is working is as follows: "Whereas, such advance in said rates amounts to a yearly tax on the merchants, shippers and producers of California of about ten millions of dollars." Can you tell us anything with reference to that, if that is nearly correct or if it is wide of the mark or anything of that kind?

A. I believe that that statement is merely theoretical. I don't really believe that the advance in rates will materially be to the advantage of California shippers. I believe they can increase their prices for their goods—

Senator Wolfe: Q. You mean to their advantage or disadvantage?

A. I mean it will not be to their disadvantage.

Senator Burnett: Q. About the amount, are you able to say?

A. No, I couldn't say; but I know this, that California goods have the call in the Eastern markets everywhere they are sold.

Q. You think of anything else, Mr. Donnelly, that you think would have a bearing on this question that you would like to state?

A. Well, there is nothing I could say except this, that a California carrier would be extremely foolish to make a rate from California to the east that is going to hurt his own revenue or is going to decrease the quantity of the California product that is disposed of in the Eastern markets, and there is no California carrier ever contemplated ever doing any such thing as that, and a traffic manager that would advocate anything of that kind would soon be without a position.

Senator Burnett: Q. These freight rates, Mr. Donnelly, that existed prior to the first day of January, 1909, had been in operation—had been the freight rates for quite a number of years prior had they not?

A. Yes.

Q. Under those freight rates in 1908 was the company making a return then for their money as far as you know?

A. Well, a number of years ago the railroad companies began to cut their expenses in every possible direction. I believe that that movement was first started by Mr. Hill of the Great Northern Railroad. He showed the people in Wall street that he could operate his railroad for about ten per cent less than any other set of railroad officials were operating their railroad and this brought about the reduction in expenses and the curtailing of the expenses of operation, in the building of cars and everything of that kind and it finally resulted in too much curtailing and the railroads found themselves without equipment and they were simply putting themselves in a bad position, they had to have more money to make betterments on their lines and to furnish equipment and keep their engines in better repair. We had that trouble on the Santa Fe, and as you know the carriers, the California carriers, have been short of cars for years. They have been trying to build up their lines, and it is really an absolute necessity for them to have more revenue in order to do so.

Q. Now, Mr. Donnelly, this general increase, this increase in rates that you have mentioned here, upon these various goods, was made as I understand it—of course, I am no railroad man and if I am wrong I hope you will tell me right away—it was made as I understand by some kind of a bureau that belongs to the railroads, who meet and fix rates for the various lines?

A. Yes.

Q. So wherever we may say that these rates have been increased on the Santa Fe a corresponding increase is working accordingly, is it, upon all the other transcontinental railroads in California?

A. Yes, sir.

Senator Caminetti: Q. Do you represent the Santa Fe Railroad?

A. Yes.

Senator Burnett: Q. Your official position, Mr. Donnelly, is chief rate clerk, is it not?

A. Yes, sir.

Senator Caminetti: Q. You say these rates are agreed upon by the various representatives of the transcontinental lines? When were these rates agreed upon, if you know?

A. Well, those rates are not really agreed upon; you can't say that they are agreed rates; they are made by concurrence, that is the lines get together, all rates, all business has got to be transacted in that way. Now, the lines get together and they talk these matters over in a meeting, and perhaps the representative of one carrier will say "I think the rate should be so and so," and the others will say, "Well, that would be satisfactory to us," etc., but it is distinctly understood that any line in the making of these rates can take individual action and there is no binding agreement at any time to bind any line to make any rate it sees fit.

Q. What time was it these rates were agreed upon?

A. Well, those rates were concurred in at a meeting held in July, I think, 1908. I wouldn't be positive of the date because I didn't attend that meeting myself.

Q. They were promulgated some time later?

A. Yes.

Q. Do you remember the date?

A. They went into effect January 1, 1909.

Q. Now, were these rates so concurred in filed with the Interstate Commerce Commission?

A. Yes.

Q. At what time do you know?

A. They were filed—well, the law commands the rates to be filed thirty days before they go into effect.

Q. They were filed on the first of December?

A. Yes, they were probably filed about the first of December.

Q. The Interstate Commerce Commission has not given their concurrence to this raise in rates, has it?

A. No, I don't understand that it is one of the duties of the Interstate Commerce Commission to give concurrence in rates, but they haven't indicated their concurrence or non-concurrence.

Q. You have filed them there?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. Suppose a shipper or interested party desires to contest them or raise the question of their reasonableness, what procedure is necessary?

A. A shipper would bring a form of complaint before the Interstate Commerce Commission.

Q. Has that been done in reference to the California rates by any shipper?

A. I don't understand that it has been done.

Senator Bills: Q. Has that been done in the asking of a reduction of rates on peas and beans and split peas, asking that the rates be put back?

A. No, those rates were put back after investigation of the railroads themselves.

Senator Caminetti: Q. That investigation was caused, was it not, by a petition or an application on the part of the shippers of California?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. And there was a meeting between these shippers or their representatives and the representatives of the respective transcontinental lines?

A. Yes.

Q. There has been some change in that, has there?

A. In the rate on beans and peas, yes.

Senator Wolfe: Q. Will you explain why the change was made, Mr. Donnelly, why the reduction was made?

A. Well, it was discovered after due investigation by the carriers on the representation made by the shippers of those commodities out of California that a lower rate was necessary in certain territory.

Q. To meet competition?

A. Yes, to meet competition from other territories and for that reason the reduction was granted.

Senator Caminetti: Q. In certain territories?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. Have you got the territories that these lower rates apply? Have you got them handy now so you can give them to us?

A. Yes, I can tell you just where the seventy-five cent rate applies and where it does not apply. The seventy-five cent rate applies to Colorado, Kansas, Nebraska, Oklahoma, Indian Territory, and Texas.

Senator Bills: Q. It doesn't take in all Missouri River points?

A. No, it doesn't apply to Missouri River.

Senator Caminetti: Q. When did that order go into effect lowering the rates upon those specified articles?

A. Those rates have not gone into effect yet, the reduced rates, but they will go into effect just as soon as the new tariff is printed.

Q. Has there been any time fixed for them to go into effect?

A. There hasn't been any time fixed because the agent of the bureau doesn't know how soon he can get out the information.

Q. So, as a matter of fact, they haven't been lowered?

A. No, sir; they haven't been lowered.

Q. It is only a contemplated lowering?

A. Yes, but it has been finally fixed for a lowering.

Q. But no date is fixed for the lowering?

A. No date; no.

Senator Burnett: Q. You say that the rate on beans and peas and split peas was restored to meet competition, do you mean competition on the part of the railroads or competition on the part of shippers?

A. No, not the railroads.

Q. You mean the shippers?

A. Yes.

Q. Not among the railroads?

A. No, not the competition of the railroads.

Senator Wolfe: Q. You mean competition arising between Eastern products and California products?

A. That is the idea, in order to give to the California market and the shippers an opportunity to do business there and sell their goods.

Senator Caminetti: Q. These contemplated reductions will not take place between California and New York, for instance?

A. No, sir.

Q. Isn't the market in New York subject to as much competition as the market in Oklahoma?

A. We don't find the market so severe against the California product in New York as we did in the western states.

Q. And because it was not so severe then you thought it would be advisable to get more from the California shippers in the way of freights?

A. You see the California carriers are forced to allow a good part of their revenue east of the Missouri river to the eastern lines, therefore they do not earn near as much on New York business as they do on Nebraska and Kansas and Texas.

Q. That is because they go over other lines other than the lines that first take the product? Is that the case, the product goes upon lines that don't belong to the Santa Fe?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. And you make the reduction upon the lines that your company controls?

A. Yes.

Senator Wolfe: Q. Would you have the power, Mr. Donnelly, in order to relieve the California shippers and give them the benefit of lower freight rates, would you have the power or is it within the power of your road to so reduce the rate that it can go to New York, or do you have to submit to other rates fixed by other roads?

A. We have to submit all propositions of that kind to the roads east of the Missouri river and east of Chicago, therefore it is not within our power to do it.

Senator Burnett: Q. Without you come to an agreement?

A. Yes.

Senator Caminetti: Q. The raise in rates, was that a uniform raise and general throughout the United States, I mean the raise that went into effect the 1st of January, or did it apply to any specified part of the United States?

A. Which, the bean raise?

Q. No, all the rates, the raise that went into effect on the 1st of January, to what parts of the United States did it apply?

A. The rates on canned goods, on dried fruits are on what we call a postage basis, that is they cover the entire territory. The territory they cover you might say is east—commencing at the Colorado line all the way through the State of New York and the New England States and north of the Ohio River and north of the line of the Norfolk and Western Railway. There is a higher rate south of the Ohio River and south of the Norfolk and Western Railway, because we have never been able to get the southeastern lines to agree to a reasonable basis of divisions. If they would accept the same divisions of the other roads as lines of the Ohio River accept, we would establish the same rates into southeastern territory.

Q. Isn't it a fact that this ten per cent raise—I think that was the raise, wasn't it?

A. Yes.

Senator Wolfe: Q. Is that a fact, Mr. Donnelly, or was it ten cents a hundred?

Senator Caminetti: Q. Isn't it a fact that that raise doesn't apply to shipments east of the Missouri River?

Senator Wolfe: Q. Will you answer directly whether it is a ten per cent increase on through rates or not?

A. No, sir; it is not a ten per cent increase on freight rates. It happens to be a ten per cent increase of freight rates in the matter of the increase on dried fruit because the dried fruit rate was a dollar.

Q. But generally is it a ten per cent increase?

A. No, sir, it is not a general ten per cent increase: I should say it averages on the commodities that were advanced, I would say it would average from six to ten per cent.

Senator Burnett: Q Some of these rates that have increased where the rate has been seventy-five cents a hundred and it is an increase of more than eleven per cent?

A. Well, that is true.

Senator Caminetti: Q. What I was trying to get at was to what part of the United States did this raise that went into effect on the first of January apply?

A. It applied directly to all the territory that I just described.

Q. Isn't it a fact that it was a raise on shipments that applied to shippers on the west of a certain line?

A. No.

Q. In other words, didn't it practically apply to California shippers or shippers on the Pacific coast, talking about the movement of freight to the East? To what part of the United States did that rate apply, that raise? Did it apply to people who would ship from Chicago to New York or from any part of Indiana to New York?

A. No. I understand what you are getting at.

Q. But it did not apply to California shippers or Pacific coast shippers entirely, didn't it?

A. Yes. Well—I have never gone into the increase of rates that have been made in the eastern territory; I couldn't give you any information on that subject.

Senator Bills: Q. You couldn't say why the rate was increased ten cents a hundred on dried fruits, yet California apples and citrus fruits, which are shipped to the amount of approximately forty thousand cars, and there was no raise from the dollar rate?

A. So far as the California citrus fruits and the deciduous fruits are concerned, the competition in the East is becoming more active continually on this class of freight; the Florida oranges and the Florida grape fruit are pressing the California fruit.

Q. In other words, the citrus fruits have the same competition as the beans and peas and split peas?

A. I don't know; I don't know.

Senator Burnett: Q. Why was the rate raised on citrus and deciduous fruit?

A. It wasn't raised.

Senator Caminetti: Q. Could you supply the committee with the rates as they existed upon all the articles and commodities affected by the raise that went into effect on the first of January, the rates that existed prior to that date?

A. I don't understand.

Q. Could you supply the rates that were in existence prior to the first of January upon all articles that were finally included in the tariff that went into effect upon the first of January?

A. Why I don't catch—

Q. In other words—I withdraw that question. What I want to get at is this, can you supply the committee with the rates as they existed prior to the first of January?

A. Why, yes, I could; only from memory.

Q. Then could you supply the rates as they now exist since the first of January, upon all the articles that are affected by this raise for the purpose of comparison?

A. Yes, I could, on some of these commodities, from memory, but I have no statement here.

Q. I am asking if that can be supplied to the committee hereafter; not today?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. Supply the two rates, the one existing anterior to the first and the rate existing subsequent to the first of January?

A. Yes.

Senator Burnett: Q. That would cause you no expense, you keep those in the office?

A. Yes, we could furnish that information.

Senator Wolfe: Q. Was this raise of rates based upon the principle of all the traffic would bear, or was it brought about by other conditions?

A. No, it wasn't based upon what the traffic would bear. California fruits, California dried fruits and canned goods, in my belief, would sell in the Eastern markets at considerably higher rates than the carriers are making to-day. We believed when those rates were advanced that they wouldn't prove to the disadvantage of the California shipper, and that it was only reasonable so long as we had carried the extremely low rates on those commodities that we had for a number of years that we should make a reasonable advance.

Senator Burnett: Q. That is the theory of the advance by the railroads?

A. Yes, sir.

Senator Sanford: Q. The railroad company had not been losing money, then, prior to that?

A. Well, their statements may not have shown that they were losing money, but their equipment was getting into poor shape, and the roadbeds needed betterments, and there were many other things that the curtailing of expenses for a number of years had brought about that needed to be remedied.

Senator Sanford: Q. They had made a number of improvements and kept along and met competition at the former rate, though?

A. I believe that the railroads were paying their usual dividends under the former rate. I believe that they were—by doing so they were encroaching upon their revenue to do it, that is, they were not keeping up their properties like they should have kept them up.

Senator Burnett: Q. Some of the money that they paid for dividends should have gone into equipment?

A. Yes, sir.

Senator Caminetti: Q. Isn't it a fact they were paying dividends during the very year they made this raise?

A. I think so.

Q. At an increased rate from the dividends prior to that time?

A. I think they were paying the usual dividends.

Q. That can be shown from the record?

A. Yes.

Senator Sanford: Q. In making any kind of a rate, does not the railroad company always figure on a rate that will pay a fair return on the money and still keep up these repairs?

A. Yes, they do.

Q. And the former rate was made with that idea in view and had kept up—

A. No, sir; it wasn't made with that idea in view. I have explained it wasn't with that idea. I explained it was made with the idea of making an extremely low rate so as to put California products into the Eastern markets against all other territories and that was the only policy that a California line could pursue with any degree of certainty, that is, if they wanted to make business for themselves. They wanted to put the California products in the East and that was the whole policy of making rates.

Senator Burnett: Q. If they ship East and had a low rate, what advantage is there of shipping large quantities when they don't get a proper rate?

A. They certainly got some return on the lower rate.

Q. You stated they paid running expenses and all that and paid some dividends?

A. The eastbound rates from California have always been lower where it was possible on California products than the same products from the east to California. There is no reason for that whatever except the policy of the railroad company to get the California product into the Eastern market and to build up the State of California for perhaps selfish reasons of the carrier and at the same time assist the California producer.

Senator Bills: Q. Do you know what the rate is on deciduous fruit, take grapes, from Sacramento or San Francisco to Buffalo and New York? At the recent meeting that was reduced to $1.45, and the icing charge is ninety dollars in addition to the freight?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. Can you give me the rate on New York state grapes from Buffalo to San Francisco and Portland?

A. No, I can't.

Q. Isn't it $1.25, with sixty dollars a car icing charges?

A. I really couldn't say what the rate is, but I know this, that there is no rate from the East to the Pacific coast, that will move any business on grapes or any other kind of fruit practically: once in a while we move some apples from Wisconsin or from Kansas at an extremely low rate, but as a matter of fact no eastern fruit can compete on the Pacific coast.

Senator Burnett: Q. Any other questions?

Senator Wolfe: Q. Does any gentleman in the room, that is not connected with the committee, want to ask any questions?

Mr. Bradley: Q. I would like to ask Mr. Donnelly if it is not a fact that the reason the rate on canned goods from California to the East is lower than the rates westbound, it is not because that the class of canned goods that moves from the East into California is composed of corn and such articles that are not produced in California?

A. No, sir.

Q. And that therefore they will stand a higher rate?

A. No, sir; it is not the reason, because there is a separate rate on canned corn which is lower than the canned goods rate.

Q. What class of canned goods do you make the rate when you speak of the rate being ninety cents westbound, what class of goods?

A. Why, the corn rate now, I think, is ninety cents, canned corn, ninety cents Chicago and east—now, I wouldn't be positive about this—and eighty-five cents, I think, west of Chicago.

Q. Isn't it a fact that there is practically no competition on the class of canned goods that moves into California from the East and for that reason you do carry a higher rate because the class of canned goods that come into California from the East are such that they don't come into competition with California goods?

A. No, sir; I think they do come into competition.

Q. What class come into competition?

A. Canned fruits, canned vegetables and all kinds of goods that was mentioned in that item of westbound tariff; they all come into competition with California goods in California.

Q. And there is a movement westbound?

A. Yes.

Q. How can it sell in competition with the California product if it carries a higher rate?

A. Well, on the same principle that you sell eastern beer in California against the California production, because there is a class of people who demand a certain class of goods, and they are going to have them even if they pay higher prices.

Q. Why is it that for a long time when you carried the seventy-five cent rate prior to January 1st to the interior and to the coast cities, and at the same time you actively solicited export business at sixty-five cents, ten cents less?

A. Export business?

Q. Yes.

A. As a matter of fact on export business—I don't know. There may have been a sixty-five cent rate.

Q. Yes, that was the rate.

A. Probably, but it is just on the same principle as every other commodity that is moving to a foreign country is supposed to have a lower rate.

Q. You were not losing any money at sixty-five cents?

A. No; there was very little money in it. The Santa Fe Railroad has carried Asiatic traffic and European traffic and traffic to the Hawaiian Islands, and to Alaska at rates that were not remunerative because they couldn't afford to stay out of the business; at some time they might become remunerative, that is the reason for it.

Senator Caminetti: Q. Mr. Donnelly, you stated a while ago that the statement in this resolution that the added cost to California shippers was ten million dollars, owing to this recent raise, was theoretical. Now, have you any idea what amount that it is intended to raise in addition to that which it raised formerly for your company? For instance, how much more did you expect to get from this raise for your company than you were getting formerly on the same class of shipments?

A. Oh, I couldn't answer. I couldn't answer that definitely.

Q. Have you any means of finding out how much the other companies engaged in transcontinental traffic were going to make by virtue of this raise?

A. No; I don't believe that that could be demonstrated to any very great satisfaction, for the reason it would be necessary, first, you might take the tonnage for last year and the revenue and take the same tonnage, take a corresponding tonnage for the current year and figure on the increased rates then you would get approximately the advance in revenue, but at the same time the increase in rates might possibly curtail shipments and the statement wouldn't be accurate.

Q. Assuming that the California shippers of 1908 would ship as much commodities over the respective lines for 1909, can you then estimate approximately the increase?

A. No, I could not.

Q. Now, isn't it a fact that it is generally understood among the transcontinental lines—that is, the agents of the transcontinental lines, as well as the shippers of California—that the raise will amount to an increase of from eight to ten million dollars as against the California shippers?

A. That is to cover all California lines?

Q. Yes. The loss to California and California shippers and producers, if they ship as much as they did last year, would be approximately between eight and ten million, isn't that the general understanding among railroad men as well as the shipping interests of California?

A. Not that I know of.

Q. Haven't you heard that amount in these various investigations; haven't you heard the amount from eight to ten millions being the amount estimated at the extra cost to the shippers of California by reason of this added rate?

A. I believe I have seen that statement in the newspapers.

Senator Wolfe: I submit he could see that in your resolution, Mr. Caminetti. I would like to ask Mr. Donnelly directly.

Q. Is it your understanding that the railroad companies will take out of the pockets of the shippers of California by reason of this increase of rates of freight from eight to ten million dollars a year?

A. No, sir; I believe the statement is absurd.

Q. This is interstate business, isn't it?

A. Yes.

Q. You have filed a schedule of your rates with the Interstate Commerce Commission?

A. Yes.

Q. If the Interstate Commerce Commission doesn't approve of your rates what becomes of them?

A. Why, they simply never go into effect.

Q. Can you collect this increase of rates of freight from the shippers prior to the approval of the schedule by the Interstate Commerce Commission?

A. We can't collect anything from the shipper on the increased rates until the tariffs are filed with the Interstate Commerce Commission.

Q. Then I understand you to say that you can collect this increase of rates from the time that you file your schedule with the Interstate Commerce Commission?

A. Yes.

Q. Supposing a complaint is made before the Interstate Commerce Commission that these rates are unjust and unfair or discriminative and the Interstate Commerce Commission does not approve of the increase of rate, what becomes of the increased freight charges that you have collected from these shippers on the new schedule?

A. Why, we would have to refund it.

Q. You would have to restore it?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. Has there been complaint made to your knowledge before the Interstate Commerce Commission?

A. Not that I know of.

Q. You don't know whether any organized effort is being made?

A. No, sir.

Q. Does this advance in rates apply to business within the State of California?

A. No, not the advance we are talking about now.

Senator Caminetti: Q. Haven't you been collecting these advanced rates since the first of January upon all shipments affected by the tariff upon these commodities?

A. In the State of California?

Q. Yes. That is, haven't you been collecting these increased rates to the East, interstate?

A. Yes.

Q. Now, you said a while ago that the increase, that this increase affected articles upon which people could ask more for the commodities and hence it would be no injury to the producer?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. Is that the principle upon which the companies acted in making this raise, in order that they should recoup themselves they must raise the prices?

A. Yes, we would understand that the shippers would probably add to the prices of their goods.

Q. Then the companies went upon the principle that the traffic—or the commodity could bear the increase and hence the companies could take a slice of that in addition to what they had been before?

A. Yes.

Senator Wolfe: Q. That is a different answer from what you gave to my question. I want to know if this increase was upon the principle of all the traffic would bear?

A. No.

Q. You just answered that differently?

A. I would have to withdraw that, because I didn't just understand the way it was put. As I said before, that if the rate was made on the principle of all the traffic would bear probably it would be a great deal higher than it is now.

Senator Caminetti: Q. You didn't go as high as the traffic would bear?

A. No, in answer to your question I made the statement that we believed the traffic would bear it, but I didn't say that it was all it would bear.

Q. Isn't it a fact that the earnings of your company have been increasing right along for the last four or five years?

A. It is not.

Q. Isn't it a fact that the earnings of your company increased last year?

A. The transcontinental rates have been changing continually during the last four or five years, but I would say that the reductions that have been made in rates during that period exceeded the advancement.

Senator Bills: Q. What line of California products do you mean now?

A. I mean rates; I mean both eastbound and westbound rates.

Q. Eastbound in the California fruit products, is it a fact that the rate has been reduced?

A. I don't know that California fruit products have been reduced for the simple reason that they were on such a low basis to start with that you couldn't reduce them very much. I explained that, that years ago they were put down to the lowest basis possible.

Senator Bills: Q. Excuse me. I understood you to say that you had reduced rates, that is the reason I asked that question.

A. There has been articles, some articles that are manufactured on the Pacific coast where the rates have been reduced into Texas and other territory and into Colorado in order to put the California manufacturer on a better basis with Eastern competition.

Q. That is a very small percentage of your tonnage, isn't it?

A. Yes, it is.

Senator Caminetti: Q. Your answer to me that the reductions aggregated more than the increases during the last few years, isn't that upon your total business?

A. Yes, that means both the east and westbound traffic.

Q. On all the business?

A. Yes.

Q. Now, then, I ask you the same question in relation to California shipments to and from the East, have the reductions in California rates been greater than the increases?

A. Both east and westbound?

Q. Yes.

A. Yes, I should say so.

Q. Did your company lose money upon the same articles and same commodities affected by this rate during the year 1908?

A. Did we what?

Q. Did you lose money in transporting commodities affected by this increased rate that went into effect on the first of January in 1908?

A. I couldn't say.

Q. Did you lose money upon the articles affected upon this tariff that went into effect the first of January in the year 1907?

A. The revenue of the Santa Fe Railroad is made up from so many different territories and so many different sources that it would be a hard matter for me to say if we lost money or made money on any particular traffic.

Q. I understand you to say the reason why you made this increase was because the company was carrying these products so they were making nothing upon them?

A. No, sir. I didn't say that. I said they were not sufficiently remunerative.

Q. You don't mean to say, and you don't want us to understand you as saying, that the company lost money upon those shipments?

A. No, sir; the company did not. I didn't say so.

Q. What you meant to say was you were not making as much as you wanted to make?

A. Yes, that is the idea, as compared to what we were making on other traffic.

Q. Did your company buy any new railroads or add any new railroads to their system in the years 1906, 1907, and 1908?

A. Well, now, I really don't know anything about that; that is entirely out of my department.

Q. Did your company make any betterments in the year 1908, for instance, by additions to their facilities?

A. I couldn't answer that, the operating department has charge of that.

Q. Did they in 1907 and 1908, if you know?

A. I don't know.

Q. I understand that you will furnish the committee with the rates as they were previous to January, 1908, and as they are now?

A. Yes.

Senator Wolfe: Q. How long a time will it take to make that up and furnish it to this committee, Mr. Donnelly?

A. Oh, it wouldn't take very long; it might take a week or ten days.

Q. You know the Legislature will not be in session a week or ten days from now?

A. It couldn't be gotten up any sooner.

Senator Burnett: Q. You have the rate schedule showing the rates prior to January 1, 1909, and you have other books that show classifications and rates since January, 1909, have you not?

A. Yes.

Q. And upon such important articles as dried fruits and deciduous fruits it would be the easiest thing in the world for any one to pick those rates out?

A. You could pick out a few commodities, yes.

Senator Wolfe: Will you furnish us that at the earliest possible moment you can?

Senator Caminetti: I would like also to have the gentleman furnish us, or if it is not in his department, if he will please indicate to us what department it is, so we may try to get it—I would like to get the amount of earnings for 1906, 1907, and 1908, and also what new lines, new railroads have been secured by his system during the last three years, also the dividends declared by the company during the last three years, and also how much money has been expended during the last three years for betterments and increased facilities. Now, if you can't furnish that, will you tell us where we can get them from your company?

A. Well, you could get that information, probably, from our Chicago office. It would probably take some time to work it up.

Q. It doesn't come within your jurisdiction?

A. No, not at all.

Q. Whose jurisdiction would it come under here in California of your company?

A. Well, we have our operating department. It is located in Los Angeles for the coast lines, but they wouldn't have all that information; it would have to come from headquarters in Chicago.

Q. Would your general manager here have that?

A. Yes, we have a general manager.

Q. Who is your general manager?

A. Mr. Well.

Senator Wolfe: Q. You were asked the question if your general manager would have that information here?

A. No, he wouldn't have it here; it would be in the general auditor's office in Chicago.

Senator Caminetti: Q. What are his initials and address?

A. It would probably be better to take that up with—

Senator Burnett: Q. Do you know his initials?

A. W. G.

Q. He is in Los Angeles?

A. Yes.

Mr. Bradley: Q. I want to ask, Mr. Donnelly, if you will give us a half dozen articles either east or westbound, of which there is any volume that have been reduced within the last two years?

A. East or west bound?

Q. Either east or westbound.

A. I couldn't give you from memory, no.

Q. You said that there had been reductions?

A. Yes, I could probably give you—

Q. You could furnish that to the committee, couldn't you?

A. Yes.

Q. Isn't it a fact that Captain Payson, the assistant president of the Santa Fe, is in position to give the information that Senator Caminetti has asked for with regard to physical improvements made on the Santa Fe system?

A. I don't think anybody on the coast could give that information, except the general auditor.

Q. Captain Payson is in position to demand it and get it?

A. Yes, certainly.

Q. He is assistant to the president?

A. Captain Payson could obtain the information, but he has not the information in his office.

Q. Isn't it a fact that in the last few years the Santa Fe has in connection with the Southern Pacific bought the Northwestern Pacific?

A. Yes, sir.

Senator Burnett: That is all.

(A recess was then taken by the committee until 8:00 P. M.)

EVENING SESSION, 8:00 P. M.

W. C. Donnelly was recalled as a witness and testified as follows:

Senator Burnett: Q. Now, Mr. Donnelly, we confined ourselves about exclusively to increase of freight rates, of interstate rates?

A. Yes.

Q. Now, has there been any increase within the State of California, of business wholly within the State?

A. I don't handle that department and I don't really know anything about it.

Q. You don't handle those rates?

A. No, sir; I have an assistant that does that altogether.

Q. Don't you know through your assistant whether there has been an increase of any kind?

A. I couldn't even tell you in a general way, because I just returned from Chicago, and I have been gone and I really don't know what has transpired.

Q. The rates that were in existence before the first day of January, 1909, do you think that they are the rates that are in existence now?

A. I think they are practically so.

Q. Who is your assistant, Mr. Donnelly?

A. W. Berman.

Q. What is he? Assistant—

A. Yes, assistant chief rate clerk.

Q. Where is his office, what is his address?

A. Monadnock building, Santa Fe.

Senator Burnett: That is all, Mr. Donnelly.

Edward Bonnheim was called as a witness and testified as follows:

Senator Burnett: Q. What is your name?

A. Edward Bonnheim.

Q. And your address?

A. Business address?

Q. Yes.

A. Post and Fillmore, San Francisco.

Q. Care of?

A. Weinstock, Lubin & Company.

Q. Now, will you please tell us what you know in very concise language, as shortly as you can, in regard to this increase in freight rates?

A. The increase of freights?

Q. Which are you the most familiar with, Wells-Fargo or the railroad?

A. Probably the Wells-Fargo; I think that was probably the one in mind.

Q. Is there an increase in the Wells-Fargo charges made within the last few months?

A. Well, to this extent: There have been for some years past, I don't know just how many years past, carload rate lots in effect and less than carload rates by Wells-Fargo Express. I don't know whether I will be able to give the exact rates that have been in effect. I think it was something like seven cents for carload lots of twenty thousand pounds.

Q. Per pound?

A. Seven dollars per hundred. Seven cents per pound, seven dollars per hundred pounds, provided there were twenty thousand pounds in the shipment.

Senator Bills: Q. From what points?

A. From New York to San Francisco the rate is eight cents, or was eight cents from ten thousand to twenty thousand pounds. Nine dollars per hundred for five thousand to ten thousand pounds, ten dollars per hundred for two to five thousand pounds, eleven dollars per hundred from one thousand to two thousand, twelve dollars from five hundred to one thousand, and thirteen and one half for one thousand to five hundred.

Q. And under one hundred is what?

A. The hundred pound rate does not apply for under a hundred pounds, they are special package rates.

Q. That was the former rate?

A. That was the rate that has been in effect for a number of years. Now, the merchants of San Francisco formed—

Senator Bills: Just let me interrupt. That is on dry goods merchandise?

A. General merchandise, yes, sir. About a year and a half ago the merchants formed what they termed the California Commercial Association to bulk their shipments so as to be able to take advantage of the lowest rate possible that they could attain, and the matter I believe is now in the hands of the Interstate Commerce Commission for decision. It has been for some time. Our claim is this, that the package rates now in effect and the rates from one hundred to five hundred pounds are excessive, taxing the merchandise to what we might term a prohibitive degree.

Q. These rates are all between New York and San Francisco?

A. New York to San Francisco. The Middle West and the Northwest and the Southwest has but little bearing on the dry goods problem. The shipments probably all originate in New York, if not all, most of them. We maintain—that is, the shippers maintain this—that the cost of the merchandise in San Francisco is the laid down cost, which is the cost of the merchandise East plus the carriage, and we maintain that in very, very many cases, in fact all cases, the thirteen and one half rate and the higher rate is such as to be an injustice to the person who ultimately buys the merchandise. Naturally, the merchant, so far as he is concerned, is bound to add the cost of the carriage to the goods.

Q. That is the retail merchant?

A. The retail merchant or the jobber, whoever brings out the goods naturally adds the cost to the merchandise.

Senator Bills: Q. What is the proportionate advance of goods shipped by express now, New York to San Francisco, from what it was five years ago?

A. I think that package rates are just the same as they were at that time.

Q. In proportion to tonnage, I mean, how much more tonnage is shipped by express?

A. Well, that would be impossible for me to answer.

Q. What is the increase? Increasing all the time isn't it?

A. Oh, yes, and it is bound to increase. My position is this: I don't know whether everybody else will agree with that or not. The business that we are in is a peculiar business; it is completely different from the merchandise that Mr. Bentley testified to this afternoon. Beans and produce of that class is an absolutely staple article; it has value in November, January and every month in the year. Well, the people who are dealing in goods of the nature that we are dealing in, they are seasonal; what is good in the month of March or April is absolutely useless, you might say, in the month of July. In addition to this, the seasons are very short and fashions change considerably, and we have to take advantage of the Wells-Fargo shipments, even if they should raise the charges still higher than they have now, because with us it is a question of time limit more than anything else; freight takes all the way from eighteen to twenty-five days to come from San Francisco to New York; express gets through in about six days, so we are forced to take advantage of the express shipments no matter how high the tariff is.

Senator Burnett: Q. You said that the ultimate cost is paid by the consumer, not by the shipper, so that really the shipper under your contention is not injured very particularly, is he?

A. Yes, sir; in this way, that much of the merchandise which at a reasonable price could be brought out by express we have to forego ordering it at all because we can't bring it out by freight on account of the time limit, and we can't bring it out by express because we can't get the price for it.

Q. The suit that you have is in regard to the bulking of packages?

A. Primarily, yes. The point I want to bring out is this, while on the larger portion of the merchandise that we now ship by express we will have to continue to ship by express, we simply tax the consumer for whatever higher rates we may have to pay; on the other hand, we have to forego the sale of much merchandise that we could bring out by express if the express rates were what we term reasonable. Now, we knew that there would be no use to make application for lower express rates. The only possibility that we saw of getting reasonable express rates was for the merchants to combine, and it is a thing they have never done before, because very few have been able to get together. Naturally those in business are what we might term competitor pool issues, and while the merchants as a rule are on friendly terms, yet they very seldom pool issues. They are not like railroad companies and pool issues. We don't pool issues and make prices.

Q. What did you do?

A. A certain number of merchants got together and formed the California Commercial Association and shipped them in that way, and the California Commercial Association was—we had one consignor in New York and one consignee in San Francisco, and we felt there being but one consignor and one consignee it made little difference to Wells, Fargo & Company who actually owned the merchandise. They picked it up in one place in New York, they delivered it in one place in San Francisco. It is the same thing as if that gentleman owned all the goods in New York and shipped them to me, we would have been entitled to the bulk rate; we figured that in that way, having one consignor and one consignee, we would be entitled to the bulk rate. That matter was submitted to the Interstate Commerce Commission and Commissioner Lane heard the case, and a year ago last December decision was rendered by the Interstate Commerce Commission that our contention was correct and it was so ordered. Meanwhile, however, another case of a similar nature affecting freight had come up before the commission, or concerning where the Export Commission Company in Chicago was assembling carload lots and sending it to one consignee to be distributed. That was tried in the Supreme Court, I believe, and it wasn't tried in the Supreme Court. Meanwhile, the company failed, pending any controversy that might come up later on, because Wells-Fargo contested that the hearing had taken place in San Francisco and that they were entitled to a hearing in New York. The commission withdrew its decision, subject to the hearing before the Supreme Court of the United States. Since then Mr. Lane has been out here again, last January, and heard the case, and it is now in the hands of the commission.

Senator Wolfe: Q. What commission?

A. Interstate Commerce Commission. From what I understand, I wouldn't want to state that with any degree of positiveness and certainty, the Interstate Commerce Commission is inclined to side with us, feeling that our case is absolutely just, there being but one consignor and one consignee.

Q. Then the difference in the rate, Mr. Bonnheim, is in the difference between shipping the individual packages or the collection of small packages to one consignee shipped on the same day, and the privilege to bulk the consignment from a number of consignors, irrespective of who is the owner as long as they are placed in one shipment?

A. Yes.

Q. And the advantage to be gained from the bulk rate that you got?

A. Yes.

Q. Are the complaints that you are making with reference to the charges of Wells, Fargo & Co. all relating to interstate commerce?

A. Practically rates from New York to San Francisco, which is the originating market for our kinds of goods.

Q. Of that the Interstate Commerce Commission has jurisdiction, is that?

A. Well, I wouldn't be able to say as to that.

Senator Caminetti: The resolution in this case provides not only for interstate rates, but also for state.

Senator Wolfe: I would like to get down to the complaints for charges in California, wherein we have some power to help these gentlemen; not take up time to consider matters that are absolutely futile.

Senator Burnett: Q. Now, Mr. Bonnheim, have you any dealings with Wells-Fargo as far as the package rates within the State are concerned?

A. Some; not many.

Q. But not of importance?

A. Not of importance at all.

Q. As to excess, any complaint as to rates?

A. No, I think not.

Q. Are you a shipper of any magnitude by rail?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. Have you been affected by this increase of rates since the first of January?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. Would you mind giving us your ideas on that as concisely as you could?

A. The little time I had at my disposal to look into the proposition yesterday afternoon I took down two rates. Take, for instance, cotton goods, such as cambrics and calicos, goods of that nature; they have been advanced from $1.50 to $1.60; goods like ducks and sheetings and denims have been advanced from $1.35 to $1.45.

Senator Wolfe: Q. One hundred pounds?

A. Yes.

Senator Black: Q. When were these advanced, January 1st?

A. January 1st.

Senator Black: Q. I didn't get clear when these express rates were advanced. Was there a recent advance of express rates?

A. I think this is about the way it was. I didn't get quite into that proposition. I would like to explain it. The advance is in this nature. It is not a direct advance of rates, but it is a withdrawal of rates, which is practically equivalent to it.

Senator Caminetti: Q. Please explain what you mean, the distinction between advance in rates and withdrawal of rates?

A. Prior to December 1st any consignor could ship to any one consignee from two thousand to five thousand pounds at ten cents; from five to ten thousand pounds at nine; from ten to twenty at eight, and twenty thousand upward at seven cents per pound.

Senator Caminetti: Q. You are speaking of Wells-Fargo now?

A. Yes. Now, on December 1st last all rates upwards of two thousand pounds were withdrawn, so that the lowest rate that any one consignor can ship to any one consignee is eleven cents per pound; the ten, nine, eight and seven cents have been withdrawn, and we could consider that in the nature of an advance, because when certain privileges are withdrawn from you that you have enjoyed before, it is in the nature of an advance.

Senator Black: Q. How long did you enjoy those privileges?

A. For a number of years; I couldn't state the exact period.

Senator Burnett: Q. Quite a number of years?

A. Yes, it must have been at least two years or more; I don't know the exact time. I know that we have the California Commercial Association has made many shipments that would entitle us to the nine cent rate, provided the Interstate Commerce Commission should so rule eventually, while now if we ship the same quantity we would have to pay the eleven cent rate, so that we consider it in the nature of an advance. Then, again, we feel that the package rates are excessive; in fact, that is the reason we went into this combination after proper legal advice, claiming that we were thoroughly justified in making such a combination.

Senator Caminetti: Q. Has there been a recent increase in the package rates?

A. It has been in this nature, that I have tried to explain, Senator. The rates that were formerly seven, eight, nine, and ten cents for large quantities have been withdrawn, which now makes the lowest rate effective—the eleven cent rate.

Senator Caminetti: Q. Ain't there a distinction between shipments made under that rate and the package shipments you speak of?

A. The small package shipments are very much higher than that.

Senator Wolfe: Q. Have they been increased, the small package rates?

A. No, they have not been increased, but we consider they are prohibitive; we consider they are entirely too high.

Senator Caminetti: Q. You are speaking between San Francisco and New York?

A. Yes.

Q. You consider those are prohibitive now?

A. Well, I stated a while ago that we have to ship at the present rates, and we would have to ship even if the rates were advanced, because of the peculiar nature of the business we are in, the shortness of the season, the change of the style, and all those things compel us to ship by express on account of the time limit.

Senator Wolfe: They are almost emergency shipments?

A. You might term it that if you want, yes, and they are emergency shipments to this extent; take, for instance, certain lines of goods in our business, everything is shipped by express, nothing is shipped by freight.

Q. You never do ship it by any other means?

A. Certain lines of goods; for instance, you all know that millinery is changeable, women's suits, laces, trimmings, all that class of goods. You can't afford to have it eighteen or twenty days in getting here because by the time it gets here the demand will be gone, so we are forced to ship by express, and we simply have to tax the consumer for it.

Q. So to make it all the traffic will bear would be very hard to estimate what it would bear, because the purchaser would have to pay it all?

A. Yes, yes.

Q. Do the express charges have much to do with the price on millinery?

A. Considerable, because you don't only pay expressage on this Paris creation, but you pay it on the paper and the box and packing besides, and sometimes a hat would probably be two or three dollars less if the expressage wasn't so high. There is another side to this proposition. I will explain the particular point in case, which will clear up the matter very quickly. Four weeks before Christmas we are short of a certain merchandise; that merchandise has a well established price over the city, all over the State; everybody knows it. If we ship by freight it comes here after Christmas, and the season is over, and the demand is gone; if we ship it by express the express will not only eat up the possible profit, but will leave a deficit besides. What is the result? It is prohibitive; that is, detrimental to the merchant because he fails to be able to realize a profit on that class of merchandise.

Senator Bills: Q. Does he fail to realize a profit about that time of year?

A. Certainly, if you have ten cases of goods that you could sell at a profit and that you are unable to purchase and bring to your establishment, you practically lose that possible margin.

Senator Burnett: Q. You know of no reason, do you, for this change in the Wells-Fargo rate; that is, the removal of the bulk rate for over five hundred pounds?

A. Two thousand pounds.

Q. Over two thousand pounds. Do you know the reason why Wells-Fargo did that, or do you know their reason that they allege?

A. Well, the reason probably is this, there are more reasons than one. I think Wells, Fargo & Company, that is the officials of Wells, Fargo & Company feel that the rate is high—they haven't told me that, but I believe they realize that the rate is high; at the same time and while we as merchants of San Francisco combined to get a lower rate than the one that the individual shipper is entitled to, and I might add this, that we didn't do it in the way of a close corporation; anybody, any shipper in San Francisco could come in and can to-day come in, so we are not excluding anybody. The reason we formed the association was because we felt that it was impossible to get lower rates on the express we were bringing out, and we were willing to take such chances as long as they were within the strict letter of the law, and as I said, we got legal advice on that proposition and we were told that as long as we did it open and aboveboard, that we were not committing any crime. I think the real reason why Wells, Fargo & Company have withdrawn the lower rates is first of all to discourage our organization; in the next place, they are afraid that if they granted that to us without a fight, other cities laboring from the same overcharge will file suit, and in that way their rates will not be only lowered from New York to San Francisco, but they will be affected more or less all over the country. I think that is the real reason.

Senator Caminetti: Q. Isn't there another reason, that by withdrawing the rates over two thousand pounds that they make null your combination?

A. Yes. But, as I say, while from one point of view that is the exact reason, they have another reason, fearing that a similar combination might be formed in other cities and that in that way their earnings would be minimized.

Senator Burnett: Q. Have you certain goods, that is Weinstock, Lubin & Company, that you bring in by rail other than Wells-Fargo?

A. Yes, sir; we bring in large quantities by rail.

Q. Do you suffer from this increase in rates?

A. Yes, sir. As I explained a few moments ago, the rates on cotton goods, I believe I mentioned calicoes and cambrics, are advanced from $1.50 to $1.60; ducks, sheeting, denim, from $1.35 to $1.45, and there are many other advances, which I am not prepared to quote at this time.

Senator Black: Q. The consumer, the one who buys your goods now, has to stand this?

A. Well, I think there is a two-edged sword in many cases where the prices are established, where the merchant has to absorb the advance. In other cases where it is possible for the merchant to shift it on the consumer I think he tries to shift and makes the consumer pay for it; in fact, that will be the effort right straight along the line, the way I look upon it. The cost of the goods is not alone what we pay the manufacturer or the importer, but to that is added the cost of carriage and upon that we base our profit rate, that we know from experience we must realize in order to make a profit at the end of the year.

Senator Caminetti: Q. Isn't it also the case in that respect, where in any particular line of goods that you don't feel like charging it to the consumer, why you make it up on other articles in order to recoup you for your loss on this? In the end the consumer pays it all?

A. Well, that is possible, yes. I think in the end that the consumer has to pay for it.

Senator Wolfe: Q. That is the way with most everything, isn't it, Mr. Bonnheim?

A. I presume that human nature all over the world is the same.

Senator Burnett: Q. Mr. Bonnheim, the most of the complaint among the shippers to your knowledge in the tariff from the West and the East, is it not, rather than the other way?

A. No, we really are not much interested—

Q. I mean is it from East to West?

A. East to West, yes.

Senator Caminetti: Q. I would ask if you made all the statements that you desire to submit to-night?

A. I think so.

Senator Burnett: Q. Have you anything that you could furnish in addition to what you have said?

A. Yes, sir.

Senator Burnett: We would be most pleased to receive it, if you could send it to us.

A. I would be glad to send it to you.

Senator Burnett: In the way of documents, or communications of any kind or expressions of opinion from your fellow shippers.

Senator Bills: Q. Did you meet personally the Wells-Fargo people when they were in San Francisco?

A. Met them before the Interstate Commerce Commission.

Q. A few weeks ago?

A. I did not meet them at that time. I personally met them a year ago last December. At the last session I was not present.

Senator Bills: Q. I was told at that time that the merchants, shippers among the dry goods merchants at that time, would average about four cents per day as against one per day three years ago. Do you know anything about that?

A. Well, I fully believe—I seldom like to testify to anything unless I am very sure of my subject—I will say that I know from my own personal knowledge express shipments to-day are very much higher than they were formerly, and they will increase.

Senator Wolfe: Q. What is that, Mr. Bonnheim?

A. I say, the Senator asked me whether it was a fact that shipments to-day by express were very much heavier than they were three years ago, and my answer was that although I had no specific facts at my command to verify that, I have no doubt that that is true and that express shipments in our line of business will continually increase.

Senator Wolfe: Q. I will ask you if that can be accounted for by the depression that has existed here and by reason of the desire of the merchants not to overorder by freight shipments, depending rather on the prompt shipments they could get by express?

A. Well, that may have some bearing but it is not directly responsible, but it is a gradual desire for the continual change in wearing apparel, both by men and women.

Senator Caminetti: Q. Do you know what the capitalization of Wells, Fargo & Company's Express is?

A. Well, I haven't the figures; the organization has the figures, but I have forgotten them.

Q. Your organization?

A. Yes, sir, I can obtain them for you if you wish it.

Senator Caminetti: I would like to have them, and I suppose the committee would also.

Senator Burnett: We would, yes.

Senator Caminetti: Q. Do you know what the profits of the Wells, Fargo & Co. Express has been each year?

A. I can send you the entire data, but I haven't at hand.

Q. And dividends also?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. In your investigation of this matter as an interested party, have you ever found that there has been any combination between the transcontinental railroads and the express company with respect to what the railroad company would do on one hand and what the express companies would do on the other?

A. No, I know nothing about it; no, sir.

Q. Do you know any combination between express companies of the United States whereby the territory of the Pacific coast is parceled off to the Wells-Fargo Express Company in order to keep out competition?

A. Only from hearsay.

Q. Is it a fact that there is not another express company doing business in the United States that has got an office in San Francisco and doing business on an independent line?

A. No, the claim is the territory is allotted to Wells, Fargo & Co.

Q. Then, as a matter of fact, you couldn't express by any other express company from San Francisco to New York or get anything from New York to San Francisco; you are compelled to go to Wells-Fargo if you want anything by express?

A. That is the only way to ship.

Q. Do you know where I can get any information as to these facts, as to that particular fact, as to the parceling off this Pacific coast territory to Wells, Fargo & Co.'s Express?

A. No.

Senator Wolfe: Q. Wouldn't the Interstate Commerce Commission be able to give us some light?

A. That I don't know, Senator; no.

Senator Caminetti: Q. Do you welcome this investigation into this question as an interested party, and as a dealer in San Francisco?

A. Well—

Senator Burnett: What do you mean by welcome?

Senator Caminetti: Whether he wasn't glad to hear that the Legislature—

A. I would like to have a thorough investigation. If Wells-Fargo's charges are just, I don't want any reduction; if they are unjust, I want it known.

Q. You think this investigation is properly started, and it is a proper thing for the State Legislature to do, don't you?

A. Yes, sir; I don't think harm will come to either one party or the other.

Q. Don't you think it is necessary at this time to do so?

A. I think it is very wise; yes, sir.

Q. And can you suggest any way by which the Legislature of the State can help the people of California in this regard?

A. Well, you speak now in regard to the Wells-Fargo matter?

Q. Yes. And in the same connection let it apply to the railroad matters?

A. The proposition has often occurred to me in this light. This afternoon, for instance, a statement was made by Mr. Bentley before the committee here, stating that the East and the West both endeavor to get business in the territory of the Middle West, say in Omaha and Nebraska and so on; that the rates from New York to Nebraska are sixty cents, that the rates from San Francisco to Nebraska are eighty-five cents, and for that reason the rates are against the San Francisco merchant, the shipper, to the degree of the difference involved in the charges just mentioned. It seems to me that in order to get at the proper proportion or, in other words, to get the fact whether the charges from New York to San Francisco are proper, the distance being three thousand miles, would be for the committee to get rates for certain distances, say a thousand or two thousand miles within a radius of San Francisco and within a radius of New York and then make comparisons, which might prove as to whether the San Francisco rate is a proper one; in other words, whether we are paying an overcharge or whether we have the right charge.

Senator Wolfe: Q. Is your association represented by counsel?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. In the complaint that has been filed with the Interstate Commerce Commission at this indirect way of increasing express charges from New York to San Francisco?

A. Yes; we are represented by Vogelsang & Brown.

Senator Caminetti: I will state that Vogelsang & Brown have offered to give all the information they have at their command, and I am to meet Mr. Brown on Sunday.

Q. Have you made any investigation as to the rate of express charges—for instance, take Chicago to New York—in the same line of business in which you are dealing?

A. Yes, we did make an inquiry, but I haven't got the figures at all.

Q. Have you made the investigation between the city of St. Louis and New York on the same line?

A. Yes; we had all those figures.

Q. And other great business centers of the United States?

A. Yes; we had all those figures.

Q. You can supply all those hereafter?

A. They can be supplied.

Senator Black: Q. Did you come to the conclusion that San Francisco was discriminated against?

A. Yes, we think so.

Senator Wolfe: Q. Is there more than one express company doing business between Chicago and New York, Mr. Bonnheim?

A. There is. I think you can ship by three companies. I think by the American, United States, and Adams.

Q. Competitive companies?

A. Supposedly competitive, but others tell me it is a pool; I can't prove it.

Senator Caminetti: Q. From your recollection now are the rates lower from Chicago to New York than the rates they are charging in this territory from San Francisco to New York?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. Are you discriminated against to any great extent?

A. Yes, sir; I think to a considerable extent.

Senator Wolfe: Q. That is for the same distance they are much higher charges to San Francisco from New York than they are from New York to Chicago?

A. Figuring in one case, one thousand miles is involved, and the other three thousand; there is a much larger difference than to the proportion of three to one.

Q. Senator Caminetti asked you this question a while ago. In what way do you think this legislative inquiry can help the situation? Don't you think that if we succeeded in this investigation, if it is continued long enough and give both sides a hearing as you suggested, that if we succeed in arousing a healthy public sentiment on your side of the question and the gathering of data that would be of service to the attorneys representing your association, we might accomplish a good deal by that?

A. Yes, I think the arousing of sentiment would be good; it would be an advantage.

Q. We are limited in a measure in our powers here; being an interstate matter, the Legislature is limited in what it can do, so if we succeeded in developing the fact that there is serious discrimination or any discrimination against the San Francisco merchants that thereby we will arouse public sentiment that might have a good effect, and bring about a reduction in these charges. I only want to call your attention to it that I don't see how much further we are going to get by this, except to help gather data to turn over to your representatives.

The witness: Except this, Senator, from my point of view I believe that the officials of Wells, Fargo & Co. fully realize that they are charging too much for San Francisco business, that is for the business from New York to San Francisco. I think they fully realize it themselves, and my belief is that with a little pressure from the right direction, either from the legislative halls of this State or the Interstate Commerce Commission, or both together, I think they would yield.

Senator Burnett: Q. Or from the report of the committee?

A. Yes; I think because they fully realize, I believe, that they are taxing San Francisco too heavily.

Senator Black: You have no estimate, of course, for example, what this is costing San Francisco, this increase and the recent withdrawal of freight rates, any approximate idea?

A. The difficulty is there are few individual shippers can make express shipments in very large quantities; take even the very largest houses. It is very seldom they can gather more than one or two thousand pounds, for this reason: businesses like ours don't go in the market and buy staple products; we buy fancy products, the fancy products are in late on the market, they have to be manufactured, and they are shipped out to us as fast as manufactured. If we would hold them in New York until a large quantity has gathered together, there would be no advantage, because we ship by express to gain the time, so merchandise is being shipped as fast as produced. For that reason you will find very few people in San Francisco who can take advantage of the bulk rates, as we call them, or the carload, the bulk rates, and for that reason there is but very, very rarely we find the largest dealer can get the benefit of the bulk rate; for that reason they want to discourage the forming an organization like ours, because when eight or ten or twenty or thirty come together and all ship together, that is what they want to discourage. They know they can carry it, and carry it at a profit, but they want small shipments at the highest rates they can get.

Senator Wolfe: There is no doubt, and I don't suppose there is much, that if we succeed by this investigation in helping to get a reduction in these express charges that the benefits of this reduction will be felt by the consumers, by the general public? There is no doubt of that, is there?

A. From my point of view there is not, and I will give you the reason for it. I don't believe the average merchant is any more a benefactor than an express company or a railroad, but the railroads and express companies have this advantage, they are monopolies. They combine; they make any rate they see fit. It is different among the merchants; the merchants are all competitors, and while they meet as friends in the club or hotel, they meet as enemies when it comes to prices, and that is bound to regulate business.

Q. You believe that the competition is so keen that the public would reap the benefit?

A. The competition is so keen that it forces prices down to the lowest notch.

Senator Caminetti: Q. Don't you think that, if the State of California would take advantage of sections thirteen and twenty-three of the Interstate Commerce Commission Act and file a complaint and demand for an investigation itself in behalf of the people of the State, that would help you and help the people materially before the Interstate Commerce Commission instead of having, as now, an individual making this fight?

A. I should think it would have much more weight.

Q. You think that that would help the people in that respect if that could be done; have the State take hold as stated, and make this fight before the Interstate Commerce Commission?

A. It is certainly bound to have a great volume of force, more than the individual merchants could on it.

Q. Do you think the merchants' body or association you spoke of a while ago, would be content to leave it in the hands of the Attorney General, without being represented by private counsel?

A. That I wouldn't want to pass on personally. I should hardly—

Senator Wolfe: Q. You should hardly think so?

A. No, I don't mean to say that. I wouldn't want to pass judgment on that because that is a matter that has never come before the association.

Senator Caminetti: Q. You understand your present proceeding could go on just the same, and this would be an independent one?

A. That is what I naturally suppose from your remarks, yes.

Senator Black: Q. You haven't any estimate of how much it is going to cost somebody in San Francisco on these express rates alone? You can't form the idea?

A. No, you can't; because, as I have tried to explain, there are no individual shippers at the present time that can take advantage of the bulk shipments, even though they had remained in effect. We can ship five thousand pounds at a time; we can accumulate five thousand pounds in New York, but then we would lose the time advantage. There is where the trouble comes in.

Senator Burnett: As I understand it you do believe that if this committee were to hold a session after the Legislature is adjourned, and to prosecute a vigorous inquiry into the conditions, that they could do more for you than a private organization? Is that the idea?

A. Well, I don't think there is any doubt at all about it. I think that a committee of this kind can do the people of California in the way of express rates a great deal of good.

Senator Burnett: Is there anything further, Mr. Bonheim?

A. Nothing.

Senator Wolfe: I would like to ask one question. Can you give us any estimate, or have you before I came, Mr. Bonnheim, of the difference in the effect of this withdrawal of these bulk shipments by express, what difference does it make in percentage charges and things of that kind?

A. Well, you can figure the percentage. We have been shipping as an organization as high as ten thousand pounds, from five to ten thousand pounds as a general rule, and a great many more merchants would have been glad to enter the organization, but they were afraid. They were afraid to commit themselves for fear that either Wells-Fargo or the railroad would have it in for them in some way or other, how I don't know; but we have been shipping as an organization between five and ten thousand pounds every second day. We were banking upon this proposition that the decision of the Interstate Commerce Commission would stand, and that ultimately Wells, Fargo & Co. would have to rebate to us or return to us the overcharge, so that you can easily figure that we would have been paying nine cents a pound, and we are paying thirteen and a half cents.

Senator Caminetti: Q. Mr. Bonnheim, have you taken into consideration in your line of work the local charges in California of Wells-Fargo, and have you got comparisons between equal points in California with equal distances from large cities like Chicago and New York on express charges?

A. We haven't gone into that.

Senator Black: Q. Has there been an increase in local charges?

A. No. I don't know.

Senator Burnett: That is all.

J. O. Bracken was called as a witness, and testified as follows:

Senator Burnett: Q. What is your name?

A. J. O. Bracken.

Q. You are the manager—

A. I am the agent of the California Commercial Association.

Q. You are a railroad man, are you not, Mr. Bracken; that is, you have been?

A. I have been for a number of years.

Q. The California Commercial Association is the association of which Mr. Bonnheim was talking a few minutes ago, is it not?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. Now, will you explain to us the workings of that association, and what happened to this question of the bulking of rates or such other things as occur to you as the proper thing to make in a general statement covering the matter?

A. The general details of the scheme, the operation has been recited by Mr. Bonnheim, so that recitation as to that from me would be simply repetition, and I don't presume the committee desires that, but I am in a position to give some illustrations and demonstrations as to the comparative rates or rate for example. I brought a little data with me so as to be accurate. The rate from New York to Chicago is $2.50 for the distance of a thousand miles as against $13.50 from New York to San Francisco for a distance of approximately three thousand miles; and the rate from Chicago to Omaha is two dollars a hundred pounds for a distance of five hundred miles. From Omaha to Denver is four dollars for a distance of 550 miles. Now, any further information that any of you gentlemen want as to the question of comparison, I will be very glad to give it.

Q. That rate is based upon what kind of shipments?

A. That is the merchandise rate, the same character of rate Mr. Bonnheim had reference to. Their merchandise rates cover all character of express matter that are rated by the express company as merchandise and covers all dry goods and goods of allied character—hats, caps, and boots and shoes. The hundred-pound rate only applies on packages of fifty pounds; on packages under fifty pounds they are charged for by the package, and the rates are very much higher.

Q. What do you mean by these merchandise rates, within what weights does that go?

A. Well, merchandise rates have no reference to weights at all.

Q. For instance, you said four dollars between Chicago and Omaha, did you say?

A. Omaha to Denver, four dollars a hundred pounds with the hundred-pound rate.

Q. For a hundred pounds?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. Suppose it was five hundred pounds, would it be a different rate?

A. That I couldn't tell you offhand.

Q. Now, Mr. Bracken, what has been the effect, you probably know as well as Mr. Bonnheim, in your opinion, upon the shippers in San Francisco owing to the fact that they refused to bulk the packages—Wells-Fargo refused to bulk the packages in New York for shippers who were not the owners of the whole consignment?

A. Why, as far as the shipments of the California Commercial Association is concerned it has resulted in a difference from forty to fifty per cent in the express charges.

Q. Will you explain to the committee just exactly what Wells-Fargo did there in New York City with regard to this bulk rate, and how these packages were brought, and what happened to them?

A. The packages were assembled at a warehouse in New York City, and Wells-Fargo came to the warehouse and took delivery of them, demanding prepayment of the charges before they would accept them, the delivery having been made in the name of the California Commercial Association as consignor, and the prepaid receipt issued by Wells-Fargo showing that the California Commercial Association was also the consignee. They thereupon took the goods and transported them to San Francisco and made delivery of them in a lump to the warehouse of the California Commercial Association in San Francisco, and there their services ended.

Q. What was the charges they made?

A. The charges as assessed by them were the same as though each separate lot of merchandise for each separate individual consignee had been shipped by itself. For example, the goods were all marked with numbers—

Senator Burnett: That doesn't make any difference about that. Their contention, then, in that case was that their charges were based—that they had a right to charge up the freight or the express charges according to the ownership of the article?

A. That was it; that was their position.

Q. And that the person that shipped the goods must own them?

A. Yes, must prove ownership.

Q. Now, the object of that, of course, was to keep these consignments separate and get larger return?

A. Naturally.

Q. And you say that, owing to that fact, the charges upon the shipments were fifty per cent higher than they would have been if they had been bulked?

A. Comparatively about fifty per cent. Now, as to the withdrawal of those quantity rates, Senator Caminetti asked what percentage of increase the withdrawal of those rates made. I have it all figured out here: we used it in our case before the commission. The withdrawal of the two thousand pound rate resulted in an advance of thirty-five per cent; the withdrawal of the five thousand pound rate resulted in an advance of fifty per cent; the withdrawal of the ten thousand pound rate resulted in an advance of sixty-eight and three fourths per cent; the withdrawal of the twenty thousand pound rate resulted in an advance of ninety-two and eight tenths per cent.

Senator Black: Q. They didn't withdraw any more?

A. They attempted to withdraw some more; they attempted to withdraw the five hundred pound rate and the hundred-pound rate, but we went into the United States Circuit Court and got an injunction restraining them from withdrawing it.

Senator Black: Q. This went into effect December 1st last?

A. It was about December 1st.

Q. The consumer has got to pay this, of course?

A. Oh, yes, naturally.

Senator Burnett: Q. Senator Wolfe asked here this afternoon in the second session from Mr. Donnelly, whether or not there had been any cases brought before the Interstate Commerce Commission to test the reasonableness of the increased rate; that is, the rate, increased rate, of the railroad companies, which went into effect on the first part of January of this year? Do you know of any such action?

A. I don't believe any has been taken. The California Commercial Association has commenced a proceeding before the commission for the purpose of forcing the reinstatement of those quantity rates, in which they have also challenged the reasonableness of the entire New York to San Francisco schedule, and that case has been heard.

Q. You mean on the railroad question?

A. No, of the express question.

Q. On the railroad rates you know of none?

A. On the railroad rates there has been no case I know of, and I think I would know of it if there had been any.

Senator Black: Q. You think this committee can be of any assistance?

A. I don't think there is any question about it; there isn't any doubt in my mind. Wells-Fargo's chief contention in the proceeding before the commission has been that the action that resulted in the bringing of the proceeding was a selfish motive on the part of a few merchants, and a move by the State would of course absolutely annihilate such an argument. The counsel for Wells-Fargo harped on that continuously all through the trial of the case.

Q. Has Los Angeles a similar organization to this in San Francisco?

A. Yes, they intervened in one case and are a party to it as intervenors; not as to bulking, however, only as to the rate fight. I think they call it the Merchants' and Manufacturers' Association.

Senator Black: Q. Of course, this withdrawal of rates affects every city in California that has any business at all?

A. Naturally; naturally. I also have those figures that Senator Caminetti was asking about, about the capitalization and the gross earnings, and a few things like that.

Senator Black: Q. There is no way of getting at what this is going to cost this State?

A. I am afraid not.

Senator Burnett: You mean in regard to rates?

Senator Black: Yes, how much are we losing from this change that went into effect?

The witness: It will cost a lot of money, but as to how much, or even relatively how much, I would not have any idea.

Senator Burnett: Q. The express business has become a regular recognized portion of the way of transmitting goods?

A. Oh, it is a fixed transportation.

Q. It isn't like it was a few years ago, just put out as a luxury, but now it is a regular part of the machinery of the mercantile community?

A. Absolutely.

Q. They have to use it just as much as they do the slow freight?

A. Yes, or go out of business.

Q. It is no longer a luxury; it is a necessity?

A. Absolutely a necessity; it has become the fixed habit of business.

Senator Burnett: Q. Now, tell us what you can about the local rates of Wells-Fargo?

A. Well, I have got to go into history a little bit to start with. You know there has never been any attempt to regulate express companies, that is the rates of express companies, until the Interstate Commerce Commission very recently took jurisdiction of them; the Interstate Commerce Commission have been attempting ever since they took jurisdiction of the express companies to reach a basis, a maximum rate basis with reference to express rates as compared to freight rates, and have finally laid down the rule that the express rate may not exceed the first-class freight to an extent greater than three times. To illustrate, if a first-class freight rate was fifty cents per hundred, the express rate could not exceed $1.50. Using that as a basis of comparison, and using San Francisco as a base, and going into the interior California points out from San Francisco, on the surface the express rates would appear to be perfectly reasonable with reference to the freight rates, as in almost all cases they don't exceed three times the first-class freight rate; that is to say, the hundred-pound express rate I am now speaking of, but the fallacy of that conclusion lies in the fact that the express business of the State of California, the strictly local business I am speaking of now, is ninety per cent, at least ninety per cent, probably ninety-nine, packages of less than fifty pounds in weight, so that in no case would the hundred-pound rate govern, as in packages of less than fifty pounds in weight the package rate governs exclusively. I have drawn off a sort of comparative statement that will give you an idea as to what the result is. The first-class rate from San Francisco, freight rate from San Francisco to Sacramento is 26 cents per hundred pounds. The average, I am going to explain a little bit so as to make myself a little bit clear. I have figured this thing out from Wells-Fargo's own tariffs, and I want to explain how I arrived at my conclusion so as to be perfectly fair to the other fellow. I have taken all their package rates between San Francisco and Sacramento, for example, and where there were five different rates I have struck an average as to those five different rates. Do I make myself clear?

Senator Black: Yes.

A. Using that as a basis, the average rate between San Francisco and Sacramento is four dollars per hundred pounds as against 26 cents for first-class freight. To San Jose the first-class freight rate is ten cents; the average arrived at, as I have explained, is $2.90 per hundred pounds. These are all hundred pounds, these figures I am quoting. The first-class rate from San Francisco to Stockton is 22 cents per hundred pounds; the average package rate is $2.90 per hundred pounds. The first-class rate from San Francisco to Marysville is 29 cents per hundred pounds; the average package rate is $5.55 per hundred pounds.

Senator Black: Q. Have you ever compared these with the average rates in other parts of the United States?

A. No; because it is difficult to get them. It is more difficult to get an express tariff than it is to get a bank note.

Senator Burnett: Q. You have had experience in various portions of the United States in railroading?

A. Yes, in the Middle West.

Q. The method of transportation here—is it in your judgment about the same with regard to the express companies who handle these things here in local matters as it would be in the Middle Western States?

A. I would say so, with possibly the population is not so dense in California as it would be in a state like Illinois, and for that reason naturally the cost of operation would be slightly greater.

Q. On such a rate between San Francisco and Sacramento, or San Francisco and San Jose, would there be any difference?

A. I would say on a haul like those you speak of, they would be on a parity with the run from Chicago to Aurora.

Q. This rule, you say, with regard to establishing rates by the Interstate Commerce Commission—do they use that same rule in all portions of the United States?

A. That I could not say, Senator; that I have taken from the ruling of the Interstate Commerce Commission, made in the case of George J. Kendall versus the Adams Express Company and others—case number 1028. It is in that case that they first laid down the rule.

Q. Where was that shipment made?

A. It was a Denver case; it was a challenge on the part of some Denver people as to the reasonableness of rates into and out of Denver.

Q. Railroading in Denver is fully as expensive as railroading in California?

A. In a great many respects it is more.

Q. So those two cases would be on a parity?

A. Very nearly so, and the commission also in this case go into the fact of the density of population. The density of population has changed considerably, so that, for example, where it might have been proper ten years ago for a transportation company, either express or freight, to charge a higher rate per mile, for example, west of the Missouri River than east of Missouri River, the commission contend that that condition does not exist to-day, and they go to the extent of illustrating by districts, saying that the revenue to the express company is relatively higher lying around Colorado and Utah.

Q. How about the cost of handling?

A. That is the only cost, except what they pay the railroad. Their operating expenses are fixed; they pay fifty per cent, forty per cent, sixty per cent of their gross earnings to the railroad company and that is the extent of their expenses, excepting the handling.

Q. That would be about the same—one place as another?

A. It should be no difference, and the investigations of the commission have proven that in the case of a long haul on the part of the express company, while it might cost them a half a cent to operate ten miles, it would not cost them a whole cent to operate twenty miles.

Senator Caminetti: Q. You know anything about this statement? The Parcels Post League claims you can send a package from San Francisco to Sacramento and the cost would be considerably more than it would cost to send a package to London, England?

A. I don't know that. It would appear from the figures of Wells-Fargo themselves that their business is fairly profitable. From this case that I have just quoted from, taking from that case the figures quoted by the commission from their records, the total investment of Wells-Fargo for express business proper is $1,600,000.00; that is their total investment, total capital invested. Their net earnings from operating only for the year 1906 were $2,544,962.00; that is net. That is the gross earnings with the operating expenses deducted; in other words, about 150 per cent profit for the year ending December 31, 1907. On the lines in the United States only their gross income was $22,135,122.00, and their operating expenses were $19,347,325.00, leaving net earnings from operating only express proper—that is, in the United States only—$2,787,797.00.

Q. What reason—in any of your meetings have the Wells-Fargo stated any reason for this recent withdrawal?

A. Oh, yes; they said those rates were published as emergency rates to help out San Francisco after the fire, and that the excuse for their existence had long ceased, and consequently they now withdrew them. It took them two years and a half to find out that they were emergency rates, however, and they afterwards discovered that they were mistaken in one thing, that the five hundred and the thousand-pound rate had been in effect for five years.

Senator Burnett: That is all.

An adjournment was then taken until March 13, 1909, at 1:30 p. m.

March 13, 1909, 1:30 p. m.

The committee met pursuant to adjournment, with Senators Bills and Burnett, a quorum, being present.

R. D. Carpenter was called as a witness, and testified as follows:

Senator Burnett: What is your full name?

A. R. D. Carpenter.

Q. And your address?

A. Care of Hale Brothers.

Q. And your occupation?

A. I am auditor of Hale Brothers.

Q. Does Hale Brothers ship considerable freight over the various transportation lines?

A. Yes; we have very large shipments.

Q. Now, suppose that you just tell us like the other witnesses what you know about this, and how it has affected the business of Hale Brothers?

A. Well, as regards the transcontinental freight rates, I find that there are various items on which the rates have been increased; principally in so far as they affect our business—

Senator Bills: Which is general merchandise, isn't it?

A. Yes; which is dry goods and crockery. Now, just a minute: I want to withdraw that, because that is conflicting; it might be construed there that the rates are for dry goods and crockery. What I wish to say is that our business is principally dry goods and crockery. The principal rates affected which apply to our business are the rates on boots and shoes, increased from $2.50 to $2.75 a hundred.

Q. Between what points?

A. New York and San Francisco; all of these rates I give will be from New York to San Francisco and other terminals. Carpet lining $1.75 to $1.85 per hundred on less than carload shipments; from $1 to $1.10 on carload. Chimney and lantern globes from $1.75 to $2 less than carload; $1.40 to $1.50 on carloads.

Senator Burnett: Q. This is increase?

A. Increase; these are the increases I am giving you. Crockery and queensware $1.30 to $1.50 less than carloads; calicoes and cambric and domestic cotton piece goods $1.50 to $1.60 less than carloads; from $1 to $1.10 carloads; cotton duck and denims, cotton drills, cotton sheeting from $1.35 to $1.45 less than carloads; from 30 cents to $1 in carloads. Spool thread $1.65 to $2. Earthenware from $1.30 to $1.50 less than carloads; fruit and jelly glasses, value not exceeding 25 cents per dozen, $1.60 to $1.70 less than carloads; $1.10 to $1.20 on carloads. Hollowware of cast iron $1.60 to $1.70 less than carloads; $1.10 to $1.20 on carloads. Hollowware, agate, granite and enamel, $1.90 to $2 less than carloads. Lamps, glass, plain or decorated, to cost not to exceed three dollars per dozen, $1.90 to $1.70 less than carloads; $1.10 to $1.20 carloads. Sewing machines, $1.40 to $1.50 in carloads. Stamped ware, agate or enamel, $1.60 to $1.70 less than carloads; $1.10 to $1.20 in carloads. Stamped ware, not otherwise specified, $1.40 to $1.70 less than carloads; $1.10 to $1.20 carloads. Stoves from $1.45 to $1.50 in carloads. Tinware from $1.60 to $1.70 less than carloads. Some toys from $2 to $2.20; other toys from $1.85 to $2. Tricycles and velocipedes from $2 to $2.20 less than carloads; $1.40 to $1.50 in carloads. The general toys have been increased in carloads from $1.35 to $1.50. Trucks, empty, owner's risk of breakage or chafing, release movement, carload rate, twelve thousand pounds, $2.20 (the rate seems to have been abrogated, and does not appear in the westbound tariff No. 111). Washing machines $1.75 to $2 less than carloads; $1.40 to $1.50 in carloads.

Q. From what are you taking that?

A. Taking a comparison between westbound tariff No. 111, effective January 1, 1909, Transcontinental Freight Bureau, compared with the westbound tariff No. 16, Transcontinental Freight Bureau, and amendments thereto, being commodity rates in existence prior to January 1, 1909.

Q. And all these rates are by the hundred pounds?

A. By the hundred pounds or by the carloads where I state. The foregoing don't include all changes, but are the principal changes which affect our business.

Q. Were these rates put into operation, Mr. Carpenter, at a time in the year when it was easiest for your business to have a change of rate?

A. Yes; I would say they were.

Q. You don't know anything about the bean industry, do you?

A. Nothing at all.

Q. Is there anything else?

A. Yes; I wish to explain for the purpose of assisting this committee something as regards who will eventually pay for this increase in freight rates. Now, that will be taken care of through two sources; first, on rates on increases which are small it is not going to make sufficient difference in the landed cost of these commodities for the merchant to increase his selling price, and in that case the merchant will have to absorb the increase in the rate; it will come out of his net earnings. On the other hand, to illustrate, the raise in crockery, 10 to 23½ per cent increase, will immediately affect the consumer, because on a set of dishes weighing a hundred pounds it means an increase in the landed cost of thirty cents, and this is a sufficient amount to warrant the merchant in increasing his selling price for at least that amount.

Senator Burnett: Q. That is, he would have to do that?

A. He would have to do that to cover.

Q. That is due to the weight of the article?

A. Yes, and in the nature of things the consumer will eventually pay practically all of this increase in freight rates, because the merchant will necessarily have to adjust his business to the new conditions and increase his prices in accordance. Now, that is all I have to say as regards the increase in freight rates.

Senator Burnett: Q. Now, had you some other matter that you wished to offer to the committee?

A. As regards the increase in the Wells-Fargo tariffs, I can confirm the testimony of Mr. Reinheim, and in connection with this matter and in addition I wish to point out to the committee the effect of the extraordinary increase of express rates. The merchants of California, being so far removed from the originating market, which is New York City, are obliged to use Wells-Fargo Express Company, this being the only express company which reaches the California terminals, for the purpose of transporting seasonable novelties from the originating market to San Francisco and other California terminals. An increase in the express rate either makes it unprofitable for the large movement of these novelties or it so greatly increases the cost, hence also the selling price, that it reduces the consumption, thereby depriving the merchants of California of a great deal of profit which, through the customs of their business, they have become entitled. I have with me a copy of my testimony before Commissioner Lane in the case of the California Commercial Association versus Wells, Fargo & Co., which is a true copy of the substance (some typographical errors). I will be pleased to leave that with the committee.

Senator Burnett: Why, certainly; we would be glad to have it.

The witness: That is all I have to offer in connection with the Wells-Fargo matter.

George J. Bradley was called as a witness, and testified as follows:

Senator Burnett: Q. What is your name?

A. George J. Bradley.

Q. Your business?

A. I am traffic manager of the Merchants' and Manufacturers' Traffic Association of Sacramento.

Q. Your address?

A. 15 Stoll building, Sacramento. I was formerly manager of the Traffic Association in San Francisco, the organization that instituted the proceedings before the Interstate Commerce Commission, and the railroad commission of California against discriminations in rates. Now, I want to call the committee's attention to only one fact in connection with some testimony that was given here yesterday by Mr. Donnelly of the Santa Fe, in which he spoke of the California canned goods product being able to stand a higher rate than the present rate. It is a well known fact that the better quality, what is known as choice California canned goods, will sell in the Eastern market regardless of price and in that respect the better class of California canned goods would probably not be affected, but there are a large number of small canners throughout California who can the second grade fruit, which comes in competition with the middle Western and Southern canners and the far Eastern canners and they are put to it at their best to sell their product now against that competition, and the effect of a material advance in rates will simply mean putting them out of business and forcing that product into the dryers. Now, in the question of the investigation of the advanced freight rates in California there was no desire on the part of the California Traffic Association to make any unjust complaints against the railroads, but the people of California, who expressed themselves on December 30th all over the State against this advance in freight rates, want to find out whether or not an advance in freight rates was unreasonable. They feel that the only forum through which they can get such an expression is through the Legislature of California. It is a well known fact that the shippers and the merchants are organized, and they can, as a rule, protect themselves, either by an advance in the prices or reduction in the buying prices from the purchaser, but the large body of producers in California, whom you gentlemen represent, have no organization, and the only method of relief they have is through the Legislature of California. If, in your wisdom, you decided to give such a power to the Railroad Commission of California, they are certainly very competent to investigate both sides of it, and if the rates are not unreasonable and unjust no harm has certainly been done to the railroad, and the producers and the large body of citizens of California are satisfied—at least they have no reason to be dissatisfied—and we feel therefore that it is a matter that should be put up to the Attorney General and the Railroad Commission of California. Now, it is a fact that the railroad commissions of other states have made complaints before the Interstate Commerce Commission. The State of Oklahoma has done so; the railroad commission of Indiana has done so. In fact, the United States Government has filed a complaint against the Interstate Commerce Commission on account of unreasonable rates for carrying their own freight. In the act creating the Interstate Commerce Commission this paragraph appears: "Said commission shall in like manner investigate any complaint forwarded by the Railroad Commissioner or Railroad Commission of any state or territory at the request of said commissioner or commission, and may institute inquiry in the same manner and to the same effect as though formal complaint had been made."

Senator Burnett: Q. Now, Mr. Bradley, as regards this committee, what is your opinion; you heard the opinions of some of these gentlemen in regard to what we might do for the shippers, do you think that this committee could do good work by holdings meetings and bringing these commercial bodies together so as to get information?

A. I most assuredly do.

Q. And make recommendation to the Railroad Commission and the Governor as to some action to be taken in the matter?

A. I most assuredly do. Certainly no harm can come of it. The people of California have felt that the increase of rates was unjust and unreasonable by reason of the fact that the earnings of the railroad companies do not show that it is necessary. If you will pardon me just a moment I will read you some figures which I have taken down from authority that is undisputed.

Senator Burnett: Q. What is that authority?

A. It is a leaflet that is issued by Harris & Winthrop, 25 Wall street, New York, who were selling agents for the securities of the Harriman system, and they published this statement as agent of the Harriman interests. The gross earnings of the Southern Pacific Railroad have increased from $57,500,000 in 1898 to $125,000,000 in 1907. Their net earnings increased from fourteen and a half millions in 1898 to forty-four and a half millions in 1907. Now their ratio of expense has not shown very much change in those nine years. The gentlemen representing the railroad companies have tried to impress upon the public, and, in fact, I believe Mr. Donnelly in his testimony yesterday impressed upon your committee that the increase in rates was forced by the increased cost of operation. Now, the statistics don't bear him out. The highest ratio of expense in the operation of the Southern Pacific lines are since 1898, when the ratio of operating expenses to their gross earnings was 75 per cent.

From 1899 to 1902 their ratio of operating expense was from 63 to 64 per cent. In 1903 the ratio was 68 per cent, and the same in 1904. In 1905 the ratio was 66 per cent. In 1906 and in 1907 the ratio was 64 per cent. Therefore, taking their own figures, it shows that their ratio of expense instead of increasing, has decreased within the last three years.

Senator Burnett: Q. That don't go to 1908?

A. I haven't got the figures for 1908, Senator. Now, in 1907 their net earnings, as I said before, were forty-five millions of dollars, their gross earnings one hundred and twenty-five millions, their operating expenses eighty millions, or a ratio of 64 per cent; their net earnings after paying all their operating expenses and their fixed charges was forty-five millions of dollars. Aside from that they had a miscellaneous income (I suppose from Wells-Fargo Express and other income) of five million dollars, which made their net income for 1907 fifty million dollars. After paying all their fixed charges and their other expenses outside of dividends, they showed a net surplus of twenty-nine millions of dollars. In 1907 they paid seven per cent on their preferred stock or a dividend of twenty-seven millions. They paid a dividend of five per cent, or ten million dollars, on their common stock, after which they passed to net balance $15,700,000. Now, I leave it in all fairness that if, as claimed, that their roadbed had run down, and that they had not been able to pay for getting new cars, what did they do with the $15,700,000 which they passed to balance. I believe in 1908, although I haven't the figures, and I can't state officially, I believe it is generally known through the press and other sources that they will pay, or did pay, in 1908 six per cent on their common stock and will pass between twelve and fifteen million dollars to net balance.

Senator Burnett: Q. How much on their preferred stock?

A. Seven per cent; that is fixed. Now, nobody cares how much a railroad company earns, provided it is not a tax upon the people. Now, the statement—I noticed yesterday in the investigation there was several times a question asked to some of the witnesses as to this sum which, it was stated in the papers, would amount to ten million dollars increase to the people of California by reason of the advance in rates. I wish to say that probably I was the originator of that statement. When the increase of freight rates was first announced last October I took up the matter with the people of California for the purpose of getting concerted action among the people to investigate the reasons for the increase in freight rates. A reporter of one of the San Francisco papers, I don't remember now which one it was, whether it was the Call or Chronicle, interviewed me on the matter and asked me what I thought would be the increased tax upon the people. I stated that I thought that the increase would amount to about ten million dollars, between eight and ten millions to the people of the Pacific coast, not of California alone, because these rates affect all terminal points on the Pacific coast. That estimate was based in this way: It is estimated on conservative figures that the increase in eastbound California products, or Pacific coast products, I should correctly say, which is composed of canned fruits, canned vegetables and canned salmon, of which there are several million cases go from the North Pacific coast through either San Francisco or through the North Pacific coast, the minimum being forty thousand pounds to the car, and the increase being ten cents per hundred pounds, means forty dollars a car increase. Now, taking the number of cars of all those products that are shipped, it amounted to about—and leather and other products—it amounted to about four million dollars eastbound. Now, when the question of westbound comes out, of course, it is practically impossible for any man to say just exactly what that increase will mean in dollars and cents, and the only way, therefore, to arrive at it is to take the percentage of proportion now in their westbound tariff, which is composed of about between eight hundred and a thousand items. They have raised the rates from 10 to 25 cents on over two hundred articles, all of which move in quantities; in other words, the process by which the tariff has been amended has been that in every instance where there was a commodity moving in quantities the rate has been advanced; wherever there was no movement and they wished to encourage a movement, they reduced the rate. Now, you take the five transcontinental lines that operate on the Pacific coast, namely, the Northern Pacific and the Great Northern on the north and the Canadian Pacific; the Southern Pacific and the Santa Fe and the San Pedro and Los Angeles on the south, give you six trunk lines operating on the Pacific coast. If you will take their gross earnings, which amount to over four hundred millions, segregate that by allowing fifty per cent of that to passenger service, which is a very conservative estimate, because the passenger service does not amount to that, leaves two hundred million dollars of gross freight earnings. Take five per cent of that for terminal business, and business is based on terminal rates from the coast, plus the local back, because the rate, of course, is felt everywhere, the rates to the interior points are made on the terminal rate, plus the local back. Take five per cent of that and their increase in every instance has been 10 per cent, and in some cases 16½ and 20 per cent, but take a very liberal conservative estimate and put it at five per cent and you have ten million dollars; now, split that in two and take two and a half per cent of it and you have got five million of dollars. Now, that and your four million dollars on eastbound freight and you have nine millions of dollars increase in freight rates, and I believe that that is a conservative estimate. I don't see how you could get at it any closer, because every man, it doesn't make any difference where he is, every man that buys pay that ten to twenty per cent increase.

Senator Burnett: Q. You mean ten to twenty per cent increase?

A. Yes, in some cases twenty per cent.

Q. You heard the statement by the freight agent, Mr. Donnelly, who thought that the general average increase was somewhere in the neighborhood of six per cent. Do you agree with him upon that?

A. No, sir, I don't, for the reason the largest volume of commodity on which the rate has been increased, the rate is less than a dollar; and in every instance, practically in every instance, the increase has been ten cents per hundred pounds, which makes the average of increase more than ten per cent. If every article on which the rate had been raised was formerly a dollar, and the rate had been raised to $1.10, that would be a ten per cent increase, wouldn't it? In the case of the California product, for example, the canned goods and beans, the rate was 75 cents and they advanced it to 85 cents; therefore you will see very readily that that is about nearly twelve per cent increase. The rate on leather was $1.15 or $1.10, and they raised that 25 cents a hundred, so you see that increase was 15 per cent; but if you notice in giving you the figures I put it down at two and a half per cent in making up the total of nine million dollars.

Senator Burnett: Q. Mr. Donnelly was then correct in saying that your estimate of ten million dollars was largely theoretical?

A. It must necessarily be theoretical for the reason that, for instance, they have raised the rate on baking powder ten cents per hundred pounds; it would be an interminable job to find out how many cans of baking powder and how many carloads are shipped to the Pacific coast every year.

Senator Bills: Q. Can you give me about the total tonnage of canned goods that are shipped east by rail?

A. No, I can not, Senator. I think I can get it for you. No, I can't say that I can get it for you, because I don't know what the total movement is from all the interior canneries. I can get it, I think, approximately, from the State Board of Trade; it is approximately about twenty thousand cars of canned goods.

Q. Dried fruits is how?

A. Dried fruits, there are between eight and ten thousand cars. Now, that is from California, you understand, of course. Oregon ships a great many prunes, then up in the north, Seattle, they ship a great deal of salmon; of course a great deal of it goes by water; some of it even moves down to San Francisco and then goes across the continent by rail.

R. D. Carpenter was recalled as a witness and testified as follows:

Senator Burnett: Q. Do you think, Mr. Carpenter—you heard what these gentlemen said here—do you think that this committee, if it continued its sessions after the Legislature adjourns, would produce anything of benefit to the shippers in the way of getting information together? What do you think about that?

A. I would say that this committee, if continued, could do a great good for this reason, that the merchant and the railroad company are naturally partisans to this raise in freight rates; and one of them says, we are not making money enough, and the other says, you are making too much; if there could be some independent investigation apart from either interest, and that investigation would bring out the facts of the case as to whether these carriers were earning too much on their physical investment or too little on their physical investment, I believe it would bring a great good to either one side or the other, and may be to both sides. For instance, we have the commodity rates, and you take a commodity rate now of the railroad company. I doubt if the railroad company themselves know whether that rate is remunerative or not; their figuring is not so finely fixed that they can determine whether they are making money on a special commodity or losing money, so it becomes necessary to take in all commodities and the readjustment of their total earnings—

Senator Wolfe: You think that the filing of a report by a legislative committee that the rates are too high—the interstate rates are too high—you think that would help?

A. I think it would create a public sentiment and would bring a more uniform idea or more uniform information. Now, personally, myself, I am not able to say to this committee that the raises in the westbound tariff are unjustifiable. It is possible that the railroad companies were carrying at too low a rate.

Senator Burnett: Q. Do you think that the results of an investigation of this committee, which, of course, are public and will be known to the transportation companies and to the shippers and the general public, might have a beneficial effect right away while the committee is in session, from day to day and from month to month?

A. Yes.

Mr. Bradley: I would say this, that it does not necessarily follow, as an illustration, the merchant is not primarily as much interested, as a whole, in the question of an advance of freight rates as is the consumer. For instance, the rate on agricultural implements having been advanced, I think, 20 cents a hundred pounds, we will say the merchant adds probably twenty or twenty-five cents a hundred pounds to make a round figure to the consumer, and he really gains by the advance in rates, but the fellow who buys the plow is affected to the last degree; he has no forum except you.

Senator Caminetti: Now, doesn't the same thing apply to the producers of California as well as the consumers?

A. Exactly, the same thing. I said that the merchant of California is organized; he can protect himself, either by adding the price on to the consumer or else he can go to the Interstate Commerce Commission, but by reason of the very fact that I stated, that he can probably make a little profit out of his advance, he is not particularly interested, but the large body of producers and consumer, who is the man at last that pays this advance; he is not organized and he has no traffic association; he has no organization to which he can go, and he comes to you, gentlemen, and asks you as representatives of the people to take this in hand.

Senator Wolfe: Then your interest here is not selfish?

A. No, sir; not at all, sir. I am not a shipper. I am traffic manager for the Merchants' and Manufacturers' Association of California. I represent the body of shippers in Sacramento, and I was subpoenaed before this committee—I presume Mr. Caminetti can probably answer the question—because prior to March 1st I was manager of the California Traffic Association in San Francisco, an association that inaugurated the hearing before Commissioner Lane and before the Railroad Commission to investigate the discriminations in freight rates by the transportation companies. If you will recall, the commission made a report in which every claim which the California Traffic Association made for discrimination was substantiated, but by reason of the Legislature of California not giving them powers to act, they could take no action, and therefore could only find the roads guilty and could not punish them.

(The committee then adjourned, to meet at the call of the Chairman.)

Also:

INVESTIGATION BY THE FEDERAL RELATIONS COMMITTEE OF THE SENATE OF THE INCREASE OF FREIGHT RATES IN THE STATE OF CALIFORNIA BY VARIOUS TRANSPORTATION COMPANIES.

SACRAMENTO, March 16, 1909.

Present, Senator Lester G. Burnett, Chairman, and Senator J. B. Sanford, constituting a quorum of the Committee on Federal Relations.

Testimony of E. D. Beard, interrogated by Senator Burnett.

Q. Now, Mr. Beard, will you kindly tell your full name?

A. E. D. Beard.

Q. And your residence?

A. Napa.

Q. And your occupation?

A. Merchant.

Q. What kind of merchandise?

A. General merchandise. I have a department store.

Q. What do you carry, general goods?

A. Yes.

Q. Will you tell us what you know regarding this increase of freight rates by the various transportation companies from the first of January, or thereabouts?

A. It is hard to answer that sort of a question. I don't know exactly.

Q. That is the way we have been doing here. They like to tell their story themselves—whether the raise is justified or not?

A. Well, I have no data before me in order to determine whether the raise is justified. I believe that it is not justified. Four years ago they established a new eastern bound tariff that made an advance considerably greater as relating to nearly all rates. I did not resist it because, I presume, from the fact that the increase was such that the burden was shifted off the shipper on to the consumer. There was no resistance made. In the present advance, it took place the first of January, and related to eastbound shipments, which was a different proposition. Now, the only data that any private citizen would have as to whether this rate was reasonable or not would be the condition of the common stock of the railroad—the Southern Pacific Railroad—on the market. I certainly have no data to determine whether the rate is reasonable or not.

Q. Do you ship East?

A. No; I ship westbound.

Q. This rate increase applies mostly to eastbound?

A. No, not mostly. The greater number of items were in the westbound shipments. The value of the eastbound shipments of fruits—dried fruits and canned goods—has been expensive shipping. It related to the shipments in a little different way. Those shipping East have to bear the loss. Any increase the merchant recoups himself for the freight on his merchandise by charging it as you would cost, so that, as I say, no man is involved in it any more than he is involved in the general welfare of the community.

Q. Do you do any shipping yourself? Do you ship goods East?

A. I told you I do not have any Eastern shipments. My shipments are all West.

Q. That is goods that you produce?

A. Yes; produced in California.

Q. Now, Mr. Beard, the articles that are shipped to you from the East—what are they?

A. General merchandise.

Q. Do you pay the freight?

A. Yes.

Q. Do you find a considerable increase?

A. I do not know exactly what the increase is. I can not give it to you. The increase related to 237 items on the westbound tariff, and out of possibly 1,400 items there was a percentage of increase in the rates. Now the percentage varied very much; on some articles five per cent, some ten, some twenty-five. I estimated roughly that the increase on goods I shipped would be about five or six per cent, but that was very casually estimated in going over the new schedule and comparing it with the old. I estimated that it would affect me in that way.

Q. Do you do a retail business?

A. Yes.

Q. That increase comes out of the consumer?

A. Yes; as I told you, the merchant charges the freight as you would cost.

Q. What kind of goods do you handle?

A. I handle in the department store drugs, clothing, groceries, household goods.

Q. Do you think that any benefit would be derived if this committee should hold over and make an inquiry into the condition of freight rates?

A. It would depend entirely on the earnestness and the amount of enterprise and spirit that was put into it. It might be very valuable, and it might not be of value at all. If the committee was very much in earnest, and very well equipped, and should assert themselves very hard they could certainly accomplish something.

Q. Do you know anything about an increase, if there is an increase, in local rates within the State?

A. Not in our section. We are located on the water.

Q. Along the Napa River?

A. Yes.

Q. Is there anything else, Mr. Beard, that you can tell us?

A. No.

Q. I think that is all, Mr. Beard.

Testimony of George S. Minott, interrogated by Senator Burnett.

Q. What is your full name, Mr. Minott?

A. George S. Minott.

Q. And your occupation?

A. Transcontinental rate clerk, Salt Lake line.

Q. What is your address?

A. Los Angeles.

Q. Your street address?

A. Pacific Electric Building.

Q. Now, Mr. Minott, what do you—from a railroad man's standpoint, what do you know about this increase of rates, and why it was increased?

A. Well, I couldn't tell you very much about it, Senator. The increase took place at a meeting last September, at which time the Salt Lake line was not represented, only through another line. That was the Union Pacific, I believe. So far as I know, I can not say anything as to the increase at all.

Q. You do not know the argument advanced by the railroad—that is, the alleged reason for the increase?

A. No; I couldn't say one way or the other.

Q. Who made this increase, the Transcontinental Freight Company?

A. Yes. All freight lines.

Q. What lines are in that transcontinental freight line?

A. There is the Salt Lake line, the Southern Pacific, Santa Fe, Union Pacific,

O. R. & N., the O. S. L., the Canadian Pacific, and Northern Pacific. In fact, all the lines.

Q. How far East does this tariff apply?

A. All the way to New York. (Witness produces books and rate sheets.)

Q. These are the charts, are they?

A. Yes.

Q. It would take some time to enumerate them.

A. I should think it would.

Q. Those lines are all parties to this tariff?

A. Yes.

Q. Now, what portion of the Union does this tariff apply to?

A. All portions.

Q. To the Southern States?

A. Yes.

Q. It does?

A. Well, no; this freight tariff does not, but there is another tariff that does apply to Southern territory.

Q. Was there an increase in that tariff, too?

A. Well, yes. There was according to the rates in this tariff. There is an arbitrary rate in some instances over these rates, but in other cases these rates will apply from certain points in Southern territory, but those rates are fixed by the southeastern lines, where they demand an arbitrary over the transcontinental rate. In this tariff which applies January 1st the other lines apply what we term as the Cincinnati-Detroit rate. They apply the Cincinnati-Detroit rates from certain points in that territory, but from other points there is a fixed basis from the Cincinnati-Detroit territory rate.

Q. You know it makes me kind of laugh, because I have studied this tariff just enough to know how little a man who does not study them very much can know about them.

A. You have to put in some time. It is only reasonable, you know, when you take into consideration that a lot of the tariff is local in the southern lines. They are not going to apply a common point basis over local territory, are they?

Q. Say it once more.

A. Take a common point. Well, take Louisville, Kentucky. That is a common point. There are over two lines serving that point. You take an interior point that is local, we will say Louisville-Nashville; they only serve one point; there is no competition at all. They have to get some compensation for the local territory. They have to combine the arbitrary from Louisville.

Q. Is that a higher rate?

A. Yes; very possibly.

Q. Now, Mr. Minott, there has been an advance in rates among both eastern and Western points—freights between here and East and back, has there not?

A. Yes.

Q. On many articles?

A. Yes.

Q. Now, this chart you have here. (Showing book.)

A. That is on Wells-Fargo.

Q. You want to leave this with me?

A. Yes.

Q. File this as an exhibit?

A. Yes. That is, on file with the Interstate Commerce Commission.

Q. That is the purport of this, Mr. Minott—this contract?

A. I have only read this over once. I read it on the train. I did not know it existed until to-day.

Q. Mr. Reporter, make a note that this is filed as an exhibit in the case. Contract between the San Pedro, Los Angeles and Salt Lake Company and Wells, Fargo & Company, marked "Contract 970, S. P., L. A. & S. L. Railway Company," dated the second day of January, 1908.

Q. How long does that contract run?

A. It runs to January 1, 1910.

Q. How long has your road been open?

A. Since May, 1905.

Q. Have you been with the road all that time?

A. No; only since June, 1906.

Q. Was the Wells-Fargo operating over your lines at that time?

A. I could not say.

Q. Now, Mr. Minott, it don't seem to me as though I could find out much from you.

A. Mr. Beard made a statement regarding household goods rate. I think if Mr. Beard will look at this tariff he will find that the household goods rate has been reduced.

Q. Since the first of January?

A. Yes.

Mr. Bradley: When he said household goods I think he referred to new furniture.

A. The furniture rate has not been changed.

Q. I do not think that he made the statement it had been.

A. The household goods rate prior to January 1st, from Chicago, we will say, was $1.12½—carloads. The rate is now $1.10.

Mr. Bradley: Mr. Beard meant when he said, when the chairman asked him what he sold, when he spoke of household goods he—

Senator Burnett: We do not know that.

A. Now, we will take the furniture rate, for instance. I do not think the furniture rate has been changed. Here is your increased rate here. We will take new furniture; that is, $2.20, 12,000 pounds minimum. Do you not think the furniture rate has been changed? $2.20 was the rate prior to January 1st. It reads—new furniture, $2.20, 12,000 limit. No change occurred.

Q. Now, do you know, Mr. Minott, whether any of these articles on which the rate was changed last January have been restored to the original rate?

A. No; I couldn't say as to that, Senator, unless you quote me a specific article.

Q. Well, say beans, for instance.

A. The rate prior to January 1st was seventy-five cents.

Q. Has that been changed?

A. No.

Q. There was another article in the nature of beans; do you know what that was? Are dried fruits the same?

Mr. Bradley: I can answer that question. The late meeting of the transcontinental lines in January and February decided to restore the seventy-five cent rate on beans to Kansas, Nebraska, and Oklahoma Territory.

Q. That is from here?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. Only to those territories?

A. Yes, and possibly to some points in Texas, but I have the docket in my office. The tariff has not been printed yet. They all decided at this meeting to restore the seventy-five cent rate from California points to Oklahoma, and, I think, Nebraska and all Missouri River points.

Senator Burnett: Mr. Minott, I do not think there is anything more I can ask you. I think we will call it a day, as far as you are concerned.

Testimony of Edward M. Gray, interrogated by Senator Burnett.

Q. What is your full name?

A. Edward M. Gray.

Q. Your occupation?

A. A merchant.

Q. What kind of goods do you handle?

A. Beans and grain.

Q. Will you just give us your views in regard to this increase in freight rates? I do not ask specific questions, because your lines of business are lines I am not familiar with?

A. Our beans here are raised in Ventura, Santa Barbara, San Luis Obispo, and the river districts—Sacramento and San Joaquin, and they are shipped to terminals down below, and also from San Francisco, Stockton, and Sacramento. Our rate has been for years seventy-five cents, and of course this year the values have risen very materially, on account of scarcity and late crops in the East. Not only here, but in the Far East—in Manila. We feel that the raise from seventy-five to eighty-five cents—two dollars a ton—hurts our business in certain sections where the competition from Michigan and Wisconsin is against us. The competition, for instance, in certain points in Texas—they can ship under this raise now, where before under the seventy-five cent rate it was nearly a stand off, if anything, in our favor. Now, we are prevented from shipping to those points. That market is lost to us. Then it also hurts for another reason—that the low rates from California, I mean the advance in rates, helps the foreign points. Prices have got so high of late years that we have imported thousands of bags into this State. They are shipping beans from Bohemia and Austria to the Atlantic seaboard, across the ocean, and shipping them, say to Beaumont, Texas, at eight or ten cents a ton cheaper than we can raise beans here.

Q. What is the difference in the distance.

A. The difference from New York would be to Beaumont, probably about 1,500 miles.

Q. From New York to Beaumont, Texas?

A. Something like that. Mr. Bradley says that this restoration of the rate from eighty-five back to seventy-five applies to Oklahoma, Kansas, and Nebraska. We ship very few beans to those few states.

Q. Never have?

A. No. They can get a rate there better than we can in Oklahoma and those points.

Q. Now, how far is it from here to Beaumont, Texas?

A. I should imagine about—I suppose nearly 1,400 miles. Just about the same, but these foreign beans come nearly 4,500 miles by water and rail.

Q. I do not know their rate from New York City. You could not tell me, Mr. Minott, could you?

Mr. Minott: I do not know what rate, but I should imagine they would get from New York somewhere near ten cents a ton.

Q. From New York to Beaumont, Texas?

A. About fifty-five cents.

Q. That is the imported article?

A. Yes.

Q. What is the duty?

A. I think it is forty-five cents ad valorem. I know that is the duty from Victoria. It would be the same of course.

Q. What per cent?

A. Forty-five per cent.

Q. Of the cost?

A. Of the cost.

Q. From the place it was shipped?

A. Yes.

Q. They pay the water rate and then the rail rate?

A. Yes.

Q. From the place it was shipped?

A. Yes.

Q. They are cheaper from there?

A. We ship beans from here to New York direct, and from New York on the Clyde line down to Tampa, Florida, and Jacksonville cheaper than we can direct from here to New Orleans by rail.

Q. Is that the entire distance by rail?

A. Yes.

Q. When you ship by the Clyde line you ship by water?

A. Yes.

Q. Will you tell me what you think the answer is to this proposition in regard to this increase?

A. I think it militates against California, and retards trade. I think it should be restored as it was before.

Q. You mean that all the shippers feel that way?

A. Yes; they feel that it was a great injury and injustice.

Q. Do you know I subpoenaed at least nine more men who have not come up here? Do you think that indicates an interest in these proceedings?

A. I can not understand that.

Q. I may be doing them an injustice to some extent, because they only had one day's notice, but I had hoped that more could come.

A. I was hoping Mr. Scott would be here.

Q. I understand he was coming. Mr. Kullmann, too.

A. Something must have happened.

Q. Just as you say, it was short notice. Mr. Kullmann is not responsible; we did not serve him. We could not find him. Now what do you base your contention on—that the rate is too high? You mean the reports of the railroads in regard to their earnings; the per cent they paid on their stock, indicating a healthy condition of the roads?

A. Yes; exactly. That is one idea, and it shows a discrimination between California and our competitors.

Q. Do you think that it is the duty, or the province, rather, of the railroad to establish rates between two foreign points into certain territory for the purpose of selling goods in that territory, and to maintain an equality between competitors in that market, or do you think that it is the province of the railroad and the duty of its controllers to charge a rate anyhow, irrespective of the question of competition between two points in order to get a return on their investment?

A. Well, to answer that—

Q. That is the question that bothers me, and I will tell you also that, looking at this entirely as an outsider, being neither a business man nor a railroad man, it seems to me at times as if the shipper had the view that the transportation companies had to kind of take care of them, and I must say that at times it almost seems to me that the transportation companies had the view that they had to. What do you think?

A. I think, in a way, probably they do. I think the question, of course, is one of the greatest good to the greatest number. If they can bring foreign beans here and feed people, and supply our market, probably they would be better off—the most of the people, on the principle of the greatest good to the greatest number, than if they didn't do it, and our prices would soar very high. On the other hand, I think that the railroads should protect, as far as they can, the companies from which they derive their revenue.

Q. That seems to be fair. Now, can you tell me anything else that you think would be of interest?

A. I don't know of anything else, Senator.

Q. Could you obtain for this committee any expressions of opinion from merchants or shippers in San Francisco or other localities; that is, in the way of affidavits?

A. I could.

Q. If you would, it would be of great assistance to us. Ask them to set their views out carefully, and not to do any talking at random.

A. I am chairman of the Bean Committee, and I should be very glad to put that before the committee and the principal bean houses and write you direct, giving their views. I think that would be very helpful.

Q. Yes; we will file them here, and if there is anything else in the way of documents or books that they would supply us with, either in the way of seeing other people, or anything else, we would be most pleased to receive them. I think that is all, unless someone else wishes to ask a question.

Testimony of R. J. Somers, interrogated by Senator Burnett.

Q. What is your full name?

A. R. J. Somers.

Q. And your business?

A. Hay and grain merchant.

Q. What is the name of your firm?

A. Somers & Company.

Q. Where is your place of business?

A. 37 California street, San Francisco.

Q. Will you tell us how this increase of rates has affected you?

A. Speaking personally of our business, it has not affected us at all. We are local shippers absolutely. I think I am here under a little misapprehension. I understood that this committee was inquiring into not only the increase in freight rates, but also discriminations in regard to local shipments.

Q. We would like to know that also. That is, in fact, one of the very things that this committee is for. We have not been able to find many people along that line.

A. I will state an example, a very flagrant case, in my mind, of discrimination. The freight rate from Salinas on whole barley to San Jose is $2.10 a ton. The freight rate on whole barley from Salinas to points between San Jose and San Francisco, including San Francisco and not including San Jose, is $2.80 a ton. Now, the freight rate on rolled barley from Salinas to San Jose only is $1.75 a ton.

Q. From Salinas to San Jose?

A. Yes.

Q. $1.75?

A. Yes; and the freight rate on rolled barley from Salinas to points between Lawrence and Colma inclusive is $2.25 a ton.

Q. $2.25?

A. Yes; $2.25 a ton. Now, rolled barley is nothing but whole barley crushed. This, in my mind, is an absolute discrimination; in fact, it looks as if a person having a mill at Salinas could buy barley from the farmers at Salinas, roll it, and land it at any of these places intermediate between San Jose and San Francisco cheaper than it would allow a person at one of these intermediate stations to buy the whole barley at Salinas, ship it to his place of business and roll it there.

Q. That is, it is $2.10 from Salinas to San Jose; that is whole barley?

A. Yes.

Q. And $2.80 from Salinas—

A. From Salinas to points between. I should say Lawrence and San Francisco, inclusive.

Q. Between Lawrence and San Francisco?

A. Inclusive.

Q. Which side of San Jose is Lawrence?

A. This side.

Q. Does that include San Francisco?

A. Yes.

Q. Now, Salinas and points between Lawrence and Colma—how do you fix that place?

A. First station the other side of San Francisco.

Q. $2.75? That does look like discrimination.

A. And on arbitrary from Salinas to San Francisco, it comes up to $2.80.

Q. Why is that?

A. Because of discrimination; an absolute discrimination in favor of the manufacturer.

Q. Is there a manufacturer of rolled barley down there?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. Do you know of any other incident of that kind?

A. I could study out a good many. That is a very flagrant one.

Q. This comes in the line of your business?

A. Yes. I might, perhaps, state that the rate on bran, middlings, and cracked corn from Salinas to San Jose is $1.25 a ton.

Q. It is?

A. And the rate from Salinas to San Francisco goes up to $2.80 again.

Q. Tell me that again.

A. The rate on middlings, bran, and cracked corn from Salinas to San Jose is $1.25 per ton. The rate on the same commodities from Salinas to points between Colma and Lawrence is $1.75 per ton.

Q. You mean Lawrence from Colma, don't you?

A. Between Lawrence and Colma.

Q. How much?

A. $1.75 per ton, and then from Salinas to San Francisco $2.80.

Q. What is the cause of that?

A. Mill again. It enables the manufacturer at Salinas to buy barley and wheat from the farmer at Salinas, manufacture it, and ship it up between San Jose and San Francisco at lower figures than any outsider can go down there and buy grain from the farmers and bring it up and manufacture it there and sell it.

Q. Manufacture it in San Francisco?

A. Yes, because of the rates for manufactured articles. Now rolled barley is not a manufactured article; it is simply crushed. Because the rates on whole grain are so much higher than the rates on rolled grain.

Q. I see the idea exactly. You have to have a mill there.

A. Is not that discrimination?

Q. Most assuredly.

A. I read those rates from Supplement No. 12 issued by the Southern Pacific Company.

Q. Let me suggest this to you. This may be all wrong. What I am telling you: I understand that these railroad companies have a way of trying to build up a business in a certain locality. You know they claim they give rates at certain times for the purpose of building up an industry in a certain locality. Is that responsible for this at all?

A. I can not say.

Q. Are there any other instances?

A. Oh, I suppose I could name a lot.

Q. I tell you what I wish you would do for me, if you will. At your leisure in the next day or two, if you find these cases, if you could just tabulate them and send them to me.

A. Yes.

Q. If you will write them down and send them to me.

A. In fact, as a matter of interest, I telephoned to the S. P. Company to get their rates. They gave them to me all wrong. They even sent me a written confirmation. I sent a man to their office and showed the clerks wherein they were wrong, and they finally figured it out again and sent me a confirmation which was according to the report I have just read to you.

Q. What was the reason of that?

A. I think the clerks made a mistake.

Q. Were the rates lower?

A. No; higher.

Q. You mean they quoted you higher rates than are on this tariff?

A. Yes. I think I have quoted all their terms here. That is just one instance, but it is a very flagrant case of discrimination, in my mind.

Q. Your business is handling hay and grain?

A. Yes.

Q. They quoted you higher rates at first?

A. They quoted me $2.10, figured on the San Jose rate at $2.10.

Q. Now, suppose that you had shipped under the $2.10 quoted rate, would you have had to pay $2.25? I am only asking. They quoted you $2.10?

A. I would have to pay $2.25, no matter what they quoted me.

Q. You have to go to the railroad company and look at their tariffs?

A. If it is filed with the Interstate Commerce Commission they would hold you to it.

Q. Does that tariff carry the O. C. number?

A. Yes.

Q. They use it on interstate traffic?

A. Yes.

Q. Is it the rule that where the railroad company files a tariff on interstate business that they are bound by that tariff as filed with the Interstate Commerce Commission?

A. Yes. They use it to apply on interstate traffic as a combination basis.

Q. Is there anything else, Mr. Somers, in regard to local rates?

A. I think that is sufficient. There are other cases, but that is an example which I think is the most important one.

Mr. Bradley: May I ask a question? What is the rate from Portland, Oregon, to San Francisco?

A. Four dollars, I believe.

Q. The rate from Portland to Seattle is six, is it not?

A. I do not know. The rate on hay from Lovelock, Nevada, to Hayward, California, is in the neighborhood of ten dollars a ton. In other words, you have to make your shipment from Lovelock, Nevada, to San Francisco and then reship it from San Francisco to Hayward. There is a general commodity rate from Lovelock to San Francisco of ten dollars, and they have a special rate on hay only from Lovelock to San Francisco of ten dollars a ton. It is simply to move a great deal of that excess hay they have up there to San Francisco for the stock yards. A great many of the stock yards buy their cattle in Nevada, and when a rancher sells his cattle he wants to sell his hay, and, therefore, they have made this very low rate on hay in order to move the stuff out of that place.

Q. The consumption is at San Francisco?

A. Yes.

Q. They are taking care of the consumer in San Francisco?

A. Not necessarily. They take care of the producer.

Q. What is your idea of that, Mr. Minott, as a railroad man?

A. I do not know anything about the local conditions between Lovelock and San Francisco.

Q. I want to know why that rate was put in of $3.80, or rather, $3.50.

A. I do not know why it was. I assume that the consumption was at San Francisco, and there was no necessity for a lower rate to Hayward, because the hay was not going into Hayward.

Q. Has the fact that there is water transportation into San Francisco anything to do with that?

A. No. There may be some other competitive conditions that force it. For instance, if a man grows hay by the river and brings it down by boat, then these men from Lovelock would not have a chance to sell their hay if they did not have that rate.

Q. That is what I am trying to bring out—if there is a competitive condition that forces that rate from Lovelock.

A. I will tell you this: it is comparatively seldom that they bring hay from Lovelock, even under this $3.50 rate.

Q. Hayward is an inland town?

A. Not necessarily. It is not served by water. You can haul a short distance. I just mention that as an example of how special rates are made to one point only.

Q. You did not state the conditions that force that rate.

A. Well, I don't know much about those conditions.

Q. Now, Mr. Somers, if you will send me that information.

A. I will send you an itemized account of this Salinas matter I spoke of. I think that will be sufficient to show.

Q. Mr. Minott, you do not know anything about Wells-Fargo, do you?

A. No.

Q. Well, I think the meeting will stand adjourned, gentlemen.

I, Earle Freeman, the stenographer employed to take and transcribe the foregoing testimony, hereby certify that I believe the same to be a true and correct copy of the testimony taken before the Senate Committee on Federal Relations on the 16th day of March, 1909.

EARLE FREEMAN.

EXHIBIT 1.

Statement regarding Wells-Fargo Express Co., their capital and earnings, filed by J. O. Bracken with Federal Relations Committee of Senate March 12, 1909, taken from published financial statement:

Earnings from operating only—1906.

Gross	$18,683,035
Operating expenses	16,138,073
Net	$2,544,962

Year ending December 31, 1907, on lines in United States only

Gross	$22,135,122
Operating expenses	19,347,327
Net	$2,787,795

Wells, Fargo & Co.'s investment for express purposes only is $1,600,000.

The holdings in Wells, Fargo & Co. by the Southern Pacific Company are $1,530,000.

Wells, Fargo & Co.'s capitalization is $8,000,000.

The total mileage of Wells, Fargo & Co. is 43,914, and by states as follows:

California	7,514
Texas	7,342
Kansas	3,545
Oklahoma	3,464
New Mexico	2,444
Missouri	2,272

From which it appears that the mileage in the State of California is greater than any other state, being approximately one sixth of the total mileage operated by Wells, Fargo & Co.

The Interstate Commerce Commission have held that when the total net earnings of a transportation company yield a fair return on the investment, no part of a rate schedule may be advanced without a corresponding reduction elsewhere; and using this as a basis, if the income of a transportation company on their present rate adjustment is too great, some part of the general schedule of rates should be reduced; and what more reasonable than that the first and most important part of that reduction should be made in the state where the largest mileage is operated by that company.

The Interstate Commerce Commission have held that as a maximum, express rates should not be in excess of three times the first-class freight rate. The railroads in their contracts fixing a minimum of one and one-half times their first-class freight rate, below which the express company may not go.

The percentage of increase in Wells-Fargo's transcontinental quantity rates resulting from the withdrawal of those rates is as follows:

2,000 pounds	35%
5,000 pounds	50%
10,000 pounds	68%
20,000 pounds	92 8-10%

Taking the total investment of Wells, Fargo & Co. for express purposes only, which is $1,600,000, and their net earnings from their express operation only, which in the year 1906 was $2,544,962, it would appear that their business from express operation only is greatly remunerative with reference to the amount of capital invested, and which would seem to call for a general reduction of their entire rate schedule.

EXHIBIT 2.

Filed with Federal Relations Committee, March 12, 1909, and marked Exhibit 2.

SAN FRANCISCO, March 11, 1909.

Hon. Lester G. Burnett, Chairman Committee on Federal Relations, Sacramento, Cal.

DEAR SIR: I am in receipt of a summons, ordering me to appear to-morrow, Friday, March 12, at two P. M., to testify regarding recent increase in freight rates from points in the State of California to Eastern points.

Owing to Mr. Trunker's departure for Arizona on Saturday evening last, it will be impossible for me to attend this meeting, as I have no one to leave to take charge of the business during my absence. For this reason I trust that you will excuse my non-attendance.

Our firm is very much interested in this increase in freight rates on bean shipments. We believe the increase both unwise and unjust; unwise because the railroads have not increased the rate on beans from Michigan and New York points to the Middle West and Texas, where we have to compete with Eastern beans, and unjust because the former rate of 75 cents per cental is all the traffic will bear.

Yours truly,

W. C. BARNARD.

Filed with the Committee on Federal Relations of the Senate March 16, 1909.

PROTEST OF THE TRAFFIC BUREAU OF THE MERCHANTS' EXCHANGE AGAINST PROPOSED ADVANCE OF FREIGHT RATES TO AND FROM CALIFORNIA TERMINALS.

To Mr. H. A. Jones, Freight Traffic Manager of the Southern Pacific Company, and to Mr. Edward Chambers, Freight Traffic Manager of the Atchison, Topeka and Santa Fe Railway Company.

GENTLEMEN: The Traffic Bureau of the Merchants' Exchange of San Francisco is an organization formed under the auspices of the Merchants' Exchange of San Francisco, and comprises in its membership a large number of representative persons, firms, and corporations who are engaged in the wholesale business, in manufacturing or in the shipping of California products, and who have their principal business locations in the city of San Francisco and elsewhere in California. It is organized for taking an active interest in all that concerns the trade and commerce of the city of San Francisco and the State of California, and particularly in the transportation conditions affecting such trade and commerce. Its office is in the Merchants' Exchange Building, in the city of San Francisco.

The Traffic Bureau has received a number of protests relative to the proposed increase in the east and westbound tariffs applying at San Francisco and at other California terminals, as shown in the Transcontinental Freight Bureau Eastbound Tariff No. 3F and Transcontinental Freight Bureau Westbound Tariff No. 1H, effective January 1, 1909. The Traffic Bureau accordingly presents to you these protests in your capacity respectively of the freight traffic representatives of the Southern Pacific Company and of the Atchison, Topeka and Santa Fe Railway Company.

Your companies represent the traffic interests of San Francisco and the California terminals in the Transcontinental Freight Bureau, and it is to your companies that this Traffic Bureau must primarily direct its protest and the protests of its members in case of a proposed change of traffic conditions which the Traffic Bureau believes will be injurious to the interests both of its members and of the railroad companies whom you represent. The Traffic Bureau believes that, while your companies desire to receive for the transportation service rendered by them the full compensation which the circumstances and conditions surrounding the traffic will permit, at the same time they will look wisely to the continuance of that traffic and to its development and to the development of the State of California in order that the freight traffic now handled by your companies may not only continue undiminished, but may increase in direct ratio to the growth and development of California. It is also believed by the Traffic Bureau that, if it can be shown to you and your respective companies that the proposed increase in freight rates in any instance shall tend, on the one hand, to decrease your freight traffic, or, on the other hand, to retard the development of California or any of her industries, you will at once take into serious consideration the conditions that may be shown to you, and that you will proceed within your powers to reform the tariff in these respects and to cancel the proposed increase in tariff whenever and wherever you shall find that its effect will be thus deleterious. We have no doubt that the Traffic Bureau can meet you upon this common ground; that the development of California and her industries is mutually beneficial to the merchants, manufacturers, and producers of California and to your companies, which are the beneficiaries of the increased traffic movement.

We now proceed to give you a brief statement of the specific objections made by protestants, members of our bureau. These statements are drawn from written protests, which are on file with the Traffic Bureau.

EASTBOUND RATES—CALIFORNIA PRODUCTS.

California Grown Beans—

There are about 3,000 cars of California grown beans shipped to Eastern markets from California each year. The proposed advance in eastbound rates on carloads is from 75 cents to 85 cents per hundred pounds. The carload minimum on this commodity is 40,000 pounds. The increase of 10 cents per hundred pounds represents a total additional charge of $120,000 per annum. The market for this commodity has heretofore been found in numerous cities in the Middle West, where the California product meets the product of Michigan. The Michigan product has always had a great advantage in its freight rate at these markets, ranging from 10 cents to 35 cents per hundred pounds. We are informed that no advance has been made by the railroads on freight rates on beans from Michigan to these competitive markets, and it is claimed by our protestants that the contemplated advance of 10 cents per hundred pounds will result in the loss of the trade in this commodity in the territory of the Middle West. We are assured that under the proposed increase of the freight rate on beans these markets will be largely, if not entirely, lost to the Pacific coast. If this be true, the consequent loss of traffic to the railroads and disaster to the bean growers of California is apparent.

Canned Goods—

The shippers of canned goods to Eastern markets protest against the increase in carload ratings eastbound from 75 cents to 85 cents per hundred pounds. This industry represents one of California's most important Eastern shipments. Under the present rate, which has now been in force for many years, this industry has grown to great proportions. It supplies to your companies not only a large part of its eastbound traffic, but it also causes a large westbound shipment of articles used in the industry which are brought from the Eastern States, such as tin plate, cans, glass jars, and bottles. Furthermore, its local shipment over your lines to factories scattered throughout the State are of serious traffic importance. Thus, the season's supplies of cans shipped to local factories amount to nearly 2,000 carloads. Three hundred and fifty carloads of sugar are locally shipped and 750 carloads of boxes. Of fresh fruits and vegetables some 7,000 carloads are shipped annually throughout the State and 350 carloads of fuel. Notwithstanding these conditions, the California packers have had their territory more and more limited on competitive staple articles, which represent the large volume of their business. The carload minimums have been increased. The present tariff has been in effect for fourteen years. When it was first published the carload minimum was some 24,000 pounds. This was afterwards increased to 30,000 pounds and finally to 40,000 pounds. This increased minimum has worked a hardship upon producers and shippers since it has concentrated the movement of the traffic to a short period. Buyers who could formerly buy two cars at reasonable intervals, buy but one, and require it immediately after the packing season. Under these conditions it is strongly contended by the canned goods industry of this State that the increase in the carload rate is unjustified and must tend to seriously decrease the territory in which they can compete and will necessarily have a depressing effect upon the fruit growing industry of California, and consequently must result in a decrease in the shipment of canned goods. In a word, the canned goods industry of California is now bearing as high an eastbound traffic as it can carry. The proposed increase must necessarily decrease the product and its shipment.

A further condition to be noted in this regard is that there has been a very bountiful crop of fruit in California during the past season and accordingly a very large pack of California canned fruits has been made. The market is depressed and the carry-over will be large even if no increase in the freight rate is made. It is urged that in the past, when an overproduction has occurred by reason of heavy crops or depressed markets, the transportation companies have frequently reduced rates or made emergency rates to move the surplus on the ground that such action was necessary to dispose of the surplus and secure the normal production and consequent volume of business in subsequent years. In view of the similar condition now existing in California it therefore not only appears that this proposed increase in freight rates is inopportune, but that the rate might be well decreased to meet the existing condition, or, in other words, that instead of increasing the rates the carriers might in their own interests come to the relief of the shippers and make a reduced rate to move the pack. It has been the fixed policy of your companies to encourage farmers to come to California and to enter into the fruit industry, but it will be impossible for growers of canning varieties of fruits to get a market for their product under the increased freight rates. The tendency of the increased freight rates on canned goods must necessarily be to discourage the fruit growing industry and to deter the horticultural development of this State. Surely, this is not the intention of your companies and surely upon your attention being called to this condition you will make a careful investigation of the facts presented and will grant the relief sought if the conclusions herein presented are true.

Dried Fruits—

A similar condition exists in respect to this industry. The eastbound rate upon dried fruits has remained the same since about 1903, but the carload minimum has been greatly increased from about 20,000 pounds to 40,000 pounds, and as a result the number of mixed cars has also increased. In order to load these mixed cars the goods are assembled at a common shipping point, and the amount paid annually for such an assemblage has likewise been largely increased, owing to the larger numbers of assemblings necessary, and the fact that the local rates are now much higher than they were in the past. The proposed increase of 10 cents per hundred pounds on dried fruits is $40 on a minimum car, or $360,000 on an average season's shipment of say 9,000 cars. As in the case of canned goods this condition must tend to decrease the market for California dried fruits because of the inability of the shipper to meet the competition under the increased freight rate, there being only one other alternative and that is, that the fruit grower must bear the loss to the consequent injury of the fruit growing industry of California and the resulting injury to your companies from the retarded development of California. It is also true that in the case of dried fruits California has to-day a large holdover stock of some varieties. Accordingly, pursuant to the custom of the carriers in the past, the dried fruit shippers are justified in expecting instead of a raise of rates an emergency rate. A low emergency rate is particularly necessary at the present time on raisins.

Tanning Industry—

The California tanners present a strong case for relief. Their market is largely in the Missouri River territory. Their shipments are entirely less than carload and are accordingly essentially railroad shipments. They present no feature of actual water competition. The capital employed in this industry in California is between seven and eight million dollars. It is shown that the proposed advance of 20 cents per hundred pounds is impossible for this industry to bear, and, if insisted upon, will result in its substantial ruin, or in other words, if your companies insist upon this increase, the eastbound transportation of California produced leather will cease, together with substantially all of the other local shipments which your companies enjoy on hides, bark, leather and supplies of all kinds which are used by and shipped to these tanning industries. The tanners have, however, presented their case clearly and succinctly, and we take the liberty of attaching their protest to this letter, as it contains what seems to us a conclusive demonstration of the un wisdom of the proposed increase on the eastbound rating on this commodity.

WESTBOUND RATES.

Linseed Oil—

We have also a protest on file against the advance in the rate on linseed oil which has been advanced from 90 cents to $1.00 per hundred pounds, notwithstanding the fact that the rate on this commodity was advanced in May, 1907, from 78½ cents to 90 cents per hundred pounds.

Linseed oil is an article that enters very largely into the manufacture of mixed paints and white lead, and the Pacific coast paint manufacturers use large quantities of this oil for this purpose. The advance, it is claimed, is unjust, owing to the fact that the manufactured article coming from the East containing linseed oil has been advanced only 5 cents per hundred pounds as against the advance on linseed oil of 10 cents per hundred pounds. Moreover, it is plainly inconsistent, as well as discriminatory against coast manufacturers, to charge the rate of $1.00 per hundred pounds on linseed oil, a raw material, and 95 cents per hundred pounds on mixed paints and 85 cents per hundred pounds on white lead, both of which are manufactured products containing linseed oil. We are confident that the inconsistency and injustice of this advance on a raw material will be at once admitted and remedied. It seems plain that the 10 per cent advance on linseed oil should not have been made, and that the rate should remain not higher than 90 cents.

A similar condition exists in the case of roofing and building paper. The rate on raw material, such as nails, pitch and rosin, has been raised, while the rate on the finished commodity, that is, roofing and building paper, are the same as formerly on the westbound rates, thus giving the Eastern competitor in these markets a large advantage which he did not have under the former schedule of rates. We can not believe this to have been intentional. Furthermore, in the matter of the rates on roofing, the rate to Colorado points is 65 cents, while the rate from Colorado points to California terminals is 55 cents.

Agricultural Implements—

We have also on file a protest on the increase of westbound rates on agricultural implements and a statement to the effect that the business in this line must necessarily be curtailed if this increased rate is insisted upon.

We have attempted to present to you a brief outline of the nature of the protests against the contemplated increase of rates, both east and westbound, which have been filed with our bureau. We believe that you desire to give to each industry represented in these protests a full hearing in order that the equities may be understood, and the mutual interests of both parties determined and weighed; and we therefore recommend and request that you, as traffic officers of the interstate carriers serving San Francisco, appoint, in the near future, a time and place for a conference with the representatives of the industries herein protesting, to the end that a full hearing and understanding of all of the circumstances and conditions surrounding the traffic of these respective industries be heard and fully understood, and we express the belief that you will, after such hearing, conclude that the interests of your companies, as well as the interests of these industries and of the State of California at large, are vitally concerned in striking from the tariff the raise of rates on the commodities mentioned.

Respectfully submitted.

TRAFFIC BUREAU OF THE MERCHANTS' EXCHANGE.
(Signed) By R. P. RITRET, Chairman.

Traffic Bureau, Merchants' Exchange.

The basis upon which the California tanners contend that the proposed advance in freight rates "is more than the traffic can bear," and will result in decreasing and ultimately eliminating entirely shipments of leather East, is in part as follows:

The tanning industry has, for many years, been conducted on the Pacific coast under many disadvantages, and has not during the last ten years enjoyed reasonable returns on the investment, with the exception of the period of the Japan-Russian war, when ninety per cent of the production was shipped to the Orient for the requirements of the armies in the field. Outside of this short period, which, of course, was profitable to the local industry, the California tanners have found it more difficult each year to compete with the large producers of leather in the East, who enjoy many advantages in articles that enter into the cost of production, as well as much lower freight rates from their plants to leather consuming centers.

Obviously, if under the present freight rates from here to the East, a diminution in production of leather here and shipments to the Eastern market has ensued during the last ten years, then, on the face of it, higher freight rates from California to Eastern leather consuming centers would add a further burden and disadvantage, and in our opinion result in, ultimately, the entire abandonment of the Eastern market, without which the local plants can not be operated except at a direct loss.

About seventy-five per cent of the production of California leather is at present shipped to the territory east of the Rocky Mountains. The consumption of leather on the Pacific coast can not be increased appreciably; therefore, if our surplus of leather can not be successfully marketed in the East, it signifies that the production must be curtailed, which means shutting down of at least fifty per cent of the producing capacity of the California tanneries. The increased cost of production for leather in California, as compared to tanneries located in the East, is due to the higher cost of almost every item which enters into the manufacture of leather. Outside of hides, which relatively are generally higher here than in the East, some of the most important articles in the cost of production are labor, bark, extract, insurance, chemicals, all of which are, in the aggregate, about twenty-five per cent (25 per cent) cheaper in the East than here. The difference in cost in producing a pound of leather is two cents in favor of the Eastern tanner; in other words, given a certain hide the Eastern tanner could manufacture it into leather at a lower cost of approximately 2 cents per pound. This difference is irrespective of the freight, in which also the Eastern tanner has an enormous advantage, in so far as the average freight rate from Eastern tanning centers to leather consuming points, such as Illinois, Iowa, Ohio, Missouri, Pennsylvania, Massachusetts, etc., is not more than one half of our rate, and in many instances is not more than the proposed advance now contemplated by the railroad company.

There has not been, nor is there contemplated, so far as we know, any change in the rate from Eastern tanneries to points above mentioned; even if the same percentage of advance was added to the Eastern rates, it would be of little consequence because their present rates, upon which the percentage would be figured, is so small as compared to ours. Our rate to Chicago, St. Louis, etc., is $1.05 per hundred pounds at the present time. The rate from Milwaukee and Kenosha, Wis., to Chicago is about 12 cents per 100 pounds, and to St. Louis about 41 cents per hundred pounds.

It is proposed to raise our eastbound rate 20 cents per hundred pounds. The advance on leather, as a matter of fact, seems to be the most radical change in the schedule, and has been arbitrarily made without investigation on the part of the railroad officials, so far as we are aware, of the material facts involved.

That the railroads did, at the time they placed the present eastbound freight rates on leather, consider them just and fair and equitable, is irrefutable because of the fact that they have continued these rates, as now existing, in force for about fourteen years without any changes whatsoever; and furthermore, such rates were never at any time based upon water competition rates. Leather shipped from California to Eastern and Middle Western leather markets never has been shipped by water, and probably never will be, because water competition reaches so few of the American leather markets, because time in transit is an important factor to the consumer; as eastbound California leather moves principally in less than carload lots, consequently, California leather eastbound becomes practically an exclusive railroad freight commodity, and the rates on same enter into competition with no other rates whatsoever.

The amount of capital employed in the production of leather in California is between seven and eight million dollars. These plants are distributed in various parts of the State and are under separate ownership. The proposed advance of 20 cents per hundred pounds is impossible for this industry to bear and, if persisted in, will place this important industry in jeopardy. The annual production of leather from these plants is about eighty million dollars per annum. Eastern shipments are approximately five million dollars, representing as tonnage about fifteen million pounds.

The crippling of the California tanning industry would be far reaching, hundreds of workmen directly and indirectly depend on tanning of leather on this coast for their livelihood. Again, the bark producers of our coast depend entirely upon the local industry for the sale of their product, which annually means the distribution of between six hundred thousand and eight hundred thousand dollars in Humboldt, Mendocino and Santa Cruz counties. A home market for this forest product must exist; it can not be shipped long distances.

The within State tonnage of the railroad in handling hides, bark, leather and supplies of all kinds is very large and it would appear that an effort should be made to foster so important an industry, rather than impair it, and perhaps destroy it entirely.

It can not be successfully contended that the unit of cost of handling freight has increased. As a matter of fact, our conviction is that by the adoption of modern methods of facilities, larger locomotives, etc., that the cost is less per unit ton per mile now, notwithstanding the increased cost of labor and some other items.

It is not our purpose to invoke a sentimental argument, but we feel that it is appropriate to say that the leather manufacturing industry should be zealously guarded and protected; manufacturing in general is lamentably small in California, and those California manufacturers that have been able to do business outside of the State, thereby bringing outside money into circulation here, can be enumerated on the fingers of one hand.

Respectfully submitted.

Filed with the Committee on Federal Relations by Mr. Bradley at meeting of said committee, held to investigate increased rates of railroads and Wells-Fargo Express Co., March 16, 1909, at Sacramento.

EXHIBIT G.

At a mass meeting attended by producers, merchants, shippers, and consumers, held in ——— on rate day, December 30, 1908, to consider the proposed advance in east and westbound freight rates, effective January 1, 1909, the following resolution was adopted:

WHEREAS, The Transcontinental Freight Bureau, in behalf of all the railways sharing in transcontinental traffic to and from California terminals announces an increase of east and westbound freight rates, effective January 1, 1909; and

WHEREAS, The plea has been made that the transportation companies require large revenues: be it therefore

Resolved, That the following statement be declared our deliberate opinion:

First—That the relations between carrier and shipper should be based upon mutual understanding and protection, and that the proposed radical changes were agreed upon by the carriers, who make up the Transcontinental Freight Bureau, without giving adequate hearing or consideration to the producers, merchants, shippers, and consumers of California.

Second—That many obvious economies have been accomplished in the maintenance and operation of railways since the present tariff went into effect, such as reduced cost of fuel in the extreme western and most expensive part of the haul; in the reduction of grades and curves; in the improvement of roadbeds of the railroads, motive power and equipment; while, on the other hand, the earning power of the railroads has been largely improved by the increased requirement of freight necessary to enjoy the minimum carload rate; by the enormous development of California's trade; also by the effect of the interstate commerce law, prohibiting rebates and passes.

Third—That if the railroads are operating at a loss, the shippers of California, who have serious burdens to bear at this time of depression, and who are now to be taxed in order that the dividends of the transportation companies may be continued, propose to ascertain by an exhaustive legal inquiry what the deficit is, and in what instances and to what extent the earnings of the railroad companies have been impaired.

Fourth—That we endorse the general and specific protest of the shippers of California against the inauguration of the increased freight rates as expressed in the document presented to the traffic officers of the roads having their terminal lines in California, and as endorsed in the general meeting of business men held in the rooms of the Chamber of Commerce, in San Francisco, on December 5, 1908.

Fifth—That in the event of the advances not being withdrawn, we request the executive committee appointed at the meeting of December 5th, in San Francisco, to take legal steps to enjoin the said changes in rates.

Sixth—That, in our opinion, the jurisdiction of the Interstate Commerce Commission, should have far wider scope in the matter of rate making, and more particularly that they be given the power to review changes of rates before they shall have become effective, in order that exact justice may be done and proper protection afforded to all parties interested.

Seventh—That the Shippers' Executive Committee be instructed and is hereby empowered, to memorialize the Legislature of California at its present session, urging the immediate enactment of a law to provide the State Railroad Commission with adequate power to deal with any exigency which may arise in the proper regulation of carriers within the State, and that a general appropriation bill be passed simultaneously, to enable the said Railroad Commission to employ whatever aid is necessary to meet such exigencies.

Eighth—That the Legislature be urged to appoint a committee, made up of the Governor and Lieutenant-Governor of the State, the Speaker and members of the House and Senate, to begin an inquiry into transportation conditions in the State, with a view to enacting good and adequate laws for the proper regulation of all carriers in California.

Ninth—That the attention of the national administration be called to the fact that the Panama Railway Company is, apparently, basing its rate upon a certain percentage of the transcontinental rail tariff, and that, instead of giving the relief to California shippers, which the road has given in the past, it is in the anomalous condition of having its rate determined by the transcontinental railroads.

Tenth—That copies of this resolution, shall be immediately furnished to the news service corporations engaged in disseminating items of public interest in the United States, and sent by the chairman of this meeting to our representatives in the State Legislature, and our representatives in Congress; that the executive committee above referred to, be requested to send copies of this resolution to the traffic officers of the railroads interested, to the Isthmian Canal Commission, to the Interstate Commerce Commission, and to President Roosevelt.

Eleventh—That we hereby pledge our moral support, and, if necessary, our financial support, and authorize the chairman of this meeting to appoint a local committee to keep in touch with the general movement, and to take such action as hereafter may seem necessary.

The above resolution was adopted at mass meetings held at the following cities and towns in California, December 30, 1908:

RESOLUTION—OUT OF ORDER.

The following resolution was offered:

By Senator Burnett:

WHEREAS, On the third day of February, 1909, the Senate of the State of California passed the following Senate resolutions which are committee substitutes for two Senate resolutions referred to the Committee on Federal Relations, and which read as follows:

RESOLUTIONS AS AMENDED BY COMMITTEE ON FEDERAL RELATIONS.

WHEREAS, Wells, Fargo & Co.'s Express, now engaged as a common carrier of interstate and other commerce, has lately made material advances in express rates from points outside of California to and from all points in the State of California, as well as in local rates on transportation within the State; and

WHEREAS, It is alleged that a combination limiting territory and for the maintenance of rates exists between the various express companies of the United States, whereby the express business of the Pacific Slope is to be carried by Wells, Fargo & Co.; and

WHEREAS, It is alleged that some of the transcontinental railroads are also interested in said combination, and are aiding same by special privileges; and

WHEREAS, Such combination, if any exists, is in restraint of trade and unlawful; therefore, be it

Resolved by the Senate, That the Committee on Federal Relations be, and it is hereby, directed to investigate the advance in such express rates with relation to the reasons therefor, the effect thereof on the merchant, the shipper, the consumer, and commerce generally. Said committee is hereby also requested to report to the Senate the results of such investigation, together with such recommendations and suggestions for remedies looking to relief in the premises as in the judgment of the committee may seem suitable; be it further

Resolved, That said committee shall have power to summon witnesses and to send for persons and papers, also to issue subpoenas when necessary; be it further

Resolved, That the Secretary of the Senate is hereby instructed to assign for duty to such committee such stenographers and clerical assistants, now in the service of the Senate, as may be necessary in such investigation, and that said committee be furnished with all necessary assistants and equipment for the proper conduct of said investigation.

Also:

WHEREAS, The various railroad companies engaged in transportation of interstate commerce have, it is alleged, since the first day of January, 1909, made a material advance in freight rates from Eastern points to and from all points in the State of California;

WHEREAS, It is alleged such advance in such rates means a yearly tax on the merchants, shippers and producers of California of about ten millions of dollars.

WHEREAS, It is alleged such new rates are unjust and unreasonable, in view of the alleged fact that the increased and ever-increasing earnings of said companies have enabled them to pay larger dividends to their respective stockholders, besides making vast expenditures for new roads and betterments;

WHEREAS, The merchants, shippers and producers of the State have united in a protest against such increase, and have organized with the object in view of securing relief from the burden alleged to be imposed thereby;

WHEREAS, It is alleged that the consumers of this State are sufferers by this action of such companies in common with the merchants, shippers and producers; therefore, be it

Resolved by the Senate, That the Committee on Federal Relations be, and it is hereby, directed to investigate the advance of such freight rates with relation to the reasons therefor, the effect thereof on the merchants, the shipper, the producer, the consumer, and commerce generally. Said committee is hereby also requested to report to the Senate the results of such investigation, together with such recommendation and suggestions for remedies looking to relief in the premises as in the judgment of the committee may seem suitable. Said committee is hereby also requested to report to the Senate a memorial to the President of the United States, the Congress of the United States, and the Interstate Commerce Commission, embodying the attitude of the people of California on the subject, and asserting their rights to relief from the unjust burden, if any there be, as aforesaid alleged, to be placed on all material interests of California and her people; be it further

Resolved, That said committee shall have power to summon witnesses and to send for persons and papers, also to issue subpoenas when necessary; be it further

Resolved, That the Secretary of the Senate is hereby instructed to assign for duty to such committee such stenographers and clerical assistants, now in service of the Senate, as may be necessary in such investigation, and that said committee be furnished with all necessary assistants and equipment for the proper conduct of such investigation.

Also:

WHEREAS, The committee has held two meetings at Sacramento, at which a number of shippers and merchants have testified, as well as a representative of the Atchison, Topeka & Santa Fe Railroad, and also a representative of the Salt Lake Railroad, and a representative of the Merchants and Manufacturers' Association of Sacramento;

WHEREAS, It was the unanimous opinion of the merchants and shippers appearing before the committee that the committee would be of great assistance in collecting data upon the subject of freight rates, both transcontinental and local, from an unprejudiced standpoint if it should hold over after the adjournment of the Senate, thereby creating a healthy public sentiment;

WHEREAS, They were of the opinion that recommendations made from time to time by the committee would assist them;

WHEREAS, It has been impossible during the session of the Legislature to make a proper investigation of the subject owing to the press of business upon the Senate and Senators;

WHEREAS, The various shippers of both westbound and eastbound freight state that a great number of both shippers and merchants, and also associations, are ready and willing and will gladly testify before such committee if given the opportunity, and produce a great mass of evidence, both oral and documentary; and that the great body of unorganized shippers and producers, as well as the consumers, (who are also vitally interested), look to this Legislature to help them, and have no other place from which to look for help—as stated by Mr. Bradley to the committee.

WHEREAS, It has been stated by the various merchants and shippers before the committee that the recent increase in freight rates, both by Wells-Fargo and the various railroads, was thought by them to be too great, and that they would like to have the question investigated by the committee: and

WHEREAS, Wells, Fargo & Company, and a number of transportation companies, have not had a representative appear before the committee, and no representative of any railroad other than as herein stated has appeared:

Resolved, That said committee shall hold over after the adjournment of the Legislature and have the powers that it has at the present time, as set out in said resolutions, and shall investigate the question of all freight rates, both interstate and intrastate; that it shall report the result of its labors from time to time to the Governor of the State of California: shall have them published in the press, and otherwise as in its discretion may seem best; and shall make a report thereof with recommendations to the next session of the Legislature.

Resolved, That the sum of five thousand dollars be, and the same is hereby set aside from the contingent fund of the Senate for the purpose of defraying the necessary traveling and contingent expenses of the said committee.

REPORT OF JOINT COMMITTEE.

The following report of joint committee was ordered printed in the Journal:

SACRAMENTO, March 23, 1909.

MR. PRESIDENT: The joint committee of Senators and Assemblymen appointed at the thirty-seventh session of the California Legislature to investigate the needs of the harbors of the State, beg leave to submit herewith a printed report of its labors, and requests that the same be printed in the Journal.

LEROY A. WRIGHT, Chairman.

REPORT AND RECOMMENDATIONS OF THE JOINT COMMITTEE ON HARBORS.

On March 14, 1907, the Legislature adopted the following Senate Concurrent Resolution No. 3:

WHEREAS, The constant increasing commerce of the ports of California demands greater facilities for the handling of shipping; and

WHEREAS, The interests of the entire State are affected by the harbors of the State; be it

Resolved, That a special committee of six members be appointed from the Legislature of the State of California, consisting of three members from the Senate, to be appointed by the President thereof, and three members from the Assembly, to be appointed by the Speaker thereof, to investigate the conditions of the harbors of the State and to make recommendations for legislation necessary to be enacted at the next session of the Legislature:

Resolved, That it is the sense of the Legislature that the report should be comprehensive in all respects, and that it should include not only existing conditions and facilities, but also recommendations for financing future permanent improvements:

Resolved, That the said joint committee shall have the power to subpoena witnesses and to send for persons and papers, and to issue subpoenas when necessary;

Resolved, That the necessary traveling and incidental expenses of said joint committee shall be paid out of the contingent expenses of the respective houses.

At the sixth semi-annual meeting of the Counties Committee of the California Promoter Committee, held at Coronado, San Diego County, on December 15, 1906, a resolution, was adopted asking for the appointment of a legislative committee to inquire into the conditions and needs of the harbors of the State of California, and to report a comprehensive plan to the Legislature for the improvement of said harbors in order to facilitate commerce. In compliance with this action the above concurrent resolution was adopted by the Legislature of 1907, and Senators Leroy A. Wright, E. J. Wolfe, and T. J. Kennedy, and Assemblymen Walter Leeds, Percy Johnson, and Louis Strohl were appointed on such joint committee by the presiding officers of the respective houses.

All the members of the committee attended sessions held at San Francisco, Los Angeles, San Diego, Oakland, Eureka, Port San Luis, and Newport Beach, making personal examination of the present physical conditions and consulting with the officials of the various ports as to the work that can be properly done by the State in the way of permanent improvements. Joint meetings have been held with the Harbor Commissioners of San Francisco, Los Angeles, San Diego, and Eureka, at which present conditions were exhaustively entered into. There have also been consultations with Engineers Luther Wagoner and Colonel W. H. Heuer, U. S. A., representing the Federated Harbor Improvement Association of San Francisco, and also with officials and members of commercial bodies at Oakland, San Diego, San Pedro, Port San Luis, Newport Beach, and Los Angeles. In its work of informing itself the committee has been aided by officials and residents at all the ports visited, and facts and theories have been cheerfully furnished, even at points where State assistance at the present time is not practicable.

SAN FRANCISCO.

In San Francisco, one of the important world ports, the committee found such a congestion of shipping and freight that the facilities provided through the indebtedness already incurred for the accommodation of vessels and the handling of freight, even though the moneys have been judiciously and economically expended, are entirely inadequate to provide for the rapidly increasing business with the countries across the Pacific, as well as that of the coast trade along the line of the two Americas. As the leading port on the west coast of North America, San Francisco has continued the work of the earlier years in improvements of the harbor, and only of comparatively recent date has there been the idea of permanency in the construction of piers and docks. Where world ports of less importance than San Francisco have had millions of dollars expended in permanent improvements, especially those in European countries that have been made to meet the demands of future generations, the San Francisco Harbor Commissioners have been compelled to be most frugal in their expenditures for much needed improvements, having at their command only hundreds of thousands of dollars where there should have been millions. Much has been done from the earnings, and in addition payments have been made annually on principal and interest, to lessen the amount secured by loans and the issue of bonds.

Having faith in themselves, their State, and their harbors, Californians have not realized to the fullest extent the importance of permanent improvements of their ports, and, as a consequence, much of the money expended has been for work of a temporary character, the short life of which will imperatively demand future appropriations to replace what has been done. In the matter of piers, docks, seawalls, and bulkheads there is no longer excuse for experimentation. The needs of the future, even the distant future, are known and should be anticipated.

All the piers and docks excepting two, the Pacific Mail docks, are owned and operated by the State. There are thirty-one of these projecting piers, and in addition there are 6,620 lineal feet of bulkhead wharfrage, making an aggregate length of 25,229 lineal feet of wharfrage. The average cost of maintenance during the past five years has been approximately $170,000 a year, not including dredging. Your committee understands the annual cost to include all fixed charges and the reduction of indebtedness. At the present time the actual indebtedness amounts to $1,525,672.95, of which sum $125,672.95 is what is known as "deferred payment," which will be cleared in 1911. Payment of $50,000, with 4 per cent interest, will clear the $250,000 borrowed from the school fund after the San Francisco disaster. The sum of $600,000, known as the depot bond issue, will expire in 1911 and disappear from the indebtedness. Of the seawall fund of $2,000,000, authorized bonds, the sum of $250,000 was issued in 1906, and in 1908 the further amount of $500,000 was issued. The remaining $1,250,000 will be issued as needed in the work of extending the seawall which is now under construction. The income of the port provides for all the fixed charges, being the current expenses and the redemption fund and interest.

Your committee will not enter into the cost of piers and docks, owing to the diversified form of construction, the variation in cost being from 50 cents to $2.50 a square foot. By referring to the answer to question 10 in the report of the San Francisco Harbor Commissioners this matter of cost can be studied in detail. It will be found, in comparing the cost and the length of life of piers, that the cheaper kind is the more expensive. One kind has an average life of only a few years, while the concrete structures have indefinite durability extending into generations. The concrete docks and piers are in good condition, needing but little in the way of repair, while the wooden ones are in range, as to condition, from good to the verge of collapse, according to the few years they have been in use.

The present dockage is inadequate. The seawall should be immediately extended from the union depot to pier 42, a distance of 5,160 feet, which work is being built under the $2,000,000 bond issue already authorized. One thousand feet of this wall extending northerly from pier 42 is nearing completion. There should follow the reconstruction of at least twelve of the old piers, and an addition of four new ones. That these should be constructed of cement follows from the mere fact that existing piers are now ready to be replaced by new ones. This work will eventually cost $5,000,000. In addition to the accommodation of shipping, with its attendant income, there will follow the reclaiming of seawall lots and property valued at more than $2,000,000. It will be noticed that of the $2,000,000 in bonds authorized for the extension of the seawall there remains at the present time the sum of $1,250,000 that is yet to be sold as required.

The pierhead line should be redrawn to include the whole of China Basin, followed by twelve or more piers to serve the Potrero and Mission sections. The old piers north of the ferry house must be modernized at a cost of over $2,000,000. A seawall should be extended westerly from Taylor and East streets to the government reservation at Black Point, thus acquiring valuable seawall lots and pier sites, demanded by the commercial extension along North Beach. The whole of this work done in a permanent manner will cost approximately $20,000,000.

The dockage charges at San Francisco are moderate, and compare favorably with those of any other port in the world (see answers to questions 20 and 21 in report of San Francisco Harbor Commissioners).

It has been said that San Francisco is one of the important ports of the world. This may be seen from the imports and exports for the fiscal year ending June 30, 1907. There were shipped to foreign ports 1,613,822 tons of freight, to domestic ports, 2,744,776 tons, making a total of 4,358,598 tons during the year. The average imports for five years amounted to 3,506,395 tons a year. During the year ending December 31, 1907, 6,900 steam and 748 sail vessels docked at the port of San Francisco, having a total of 4,615,603 tonnage. Of these vessels 3,963 steam and 729 sail were deep seagoing.

One feature in the dockage system of San Francisco deserves especial notice—the ownership by the State of the belt railroad connecting the numerous warehouses and factories around the bay front with the transbay railroads. During the year 1907 over 50,000 cars were handled by the belt line, a uniform rate of $2 having been charged for this service. As shippers know, the average railroad charge for switching at terminal points is in the neighborhood of $3 a car. The extension of the second rail naturally demands the enlargement of the belt line facilities, as new piers and warehouses will necessitate the extension of the rails of communication.

The Harbor Commissioners of San Francisco call attention to a state of affairs requiring legislative action. Existing laws hold the Harbor Commissioners responsible for any abuse of State property, but do not give that board sufficient control over the same for the abatement of nuisances. The Harbor Commissioners also call attention to the necessity for the enactment of laws compelling the Pilot Commission to make its report to the Governor of the State, or to the State Legislature, and also to the wisdom of a material reduction of pilot charges. It has been suggested that pilots be paid on monthly salaries instead of fees, and that a nominal charge be made against incoming and outgoing vessels. The present pilot charges are as follows:

"All vessels under 500 tons, $3 per foot draught: all vessels over 500 tons, $3 per foot draught and 3 cents per ton for each and every ton registered measurement. In all cases where inward bound vessels are not spoken until inside the bar the rates of pilotage herein provided shall be reduced 50 per cent. Vessels engaged in the whaling or fishing trade shall be exempt from all pilotage, except where a pilot is actually engaged."

The Legislature of 1903 made a reduction in pilotage charges. The payment of monthly salaries to pilots would be the means of still further reduction, and any decrease in the charges upon shipping will naturally tend to increase the commerce of the port.

Attention is called to the high rate that vessels docking in San Francisco have to pay for the water they use. Attention is also called to the absence of warehouse facilities along the water front, and to the total lack of facilities for the handling of bulk freight. This overcharge and those lacking facilities naturally increase merchandise cost to the detriment of California, for, as the importance of the port of San Francisco is increased throughout the world, the State of California is benefited. Increased commerce and the prosperity of California at large, even while a single port may receive the direct benefits, are inseparable. The fixed charges under the control of the State Harbor Commissioners at the port of San Francisco are reasonable and bear favorable comparison with those of any of the ports of the world. The wisdom of permitting them to remain as they are until the improvements contemplated are all made should at once be apparent.

SAN DIEGO.

San Diego Bay is also destined to become one of the great shipping points of California, and is already one of the leading ports of call for the steamer lines plying between the Tehuantepec Railroad in the south and points farther north. Having an anchorage area of 9½ square miles in the bay, with a depth of from 30 to 50 feet and a depth of 28 feet over the bar at low tide, San Diego Bay, which is always a safe port under all weather conditions, only awaits the completion of the eastern railway lines, a second one of which is now under construction, to become the ocean port of a vast country reaching to the Mississippi River and to the Gulf of Mexico. While the State owns and controls the tide lands, conservancy appraised at $1,691,884, the nine large and ten small docks and piers are owned by private parties, excepting a small wharf at Fort Rosecrans, which is owned by the Federal Government. San Diego now has coal bunkers of sufficient capacity to supply all freight and passenger steamers, and when the Federal coaling station with 40,000 tons capacity, under construction, shall have been completed, this port will have received the recognition due it as the rendezvous for all war vessels on the Pacific when on southern duty.

The construction of a seawall will bring into immediate use much and valuable reclaimed tide lands, which will be utilized for commercial purposes, for warehouses and spurs of railroads, and will be the direct means of considerable revenue to the State. Add to these reclaimed lands the contemplated State wharves, which will have 30 feet of water, and San Diego will have ample facilities for the handling of an immense commerce. The present State revenue from the nine large private wharves is in the form of rentals for franchise privileges. This revenue is not large from the fact that eight of the nine wharves are devoted principally to the business of the corporations and companies owning them. All the piers are constructed of wood, and only two can be said to be in good condition, these two having the piles protected by cement covering. The piling at the Federal coaling station is of a more permanent character, being, like all other government work, constructed for the future as well as for the present, even though the first cost is so much the greater.

So far as berth room is concerned, the present dock facilities are sufficient for immediate business demands, but there is need for structures of more permanent character, and especially is there need for a State pier that might be used by all not having wharf facilities of their own. Upon completion of the San Diego and Arizona Railroad, now being built, the shipping demands will be largely increased. The construction of a State wharf, it is believed, would greatly increase the value of this port as a shipping point. A new wharf for the State would cost approximately $100,000, but this amount would be much smaller if the State builds a seawall and utilizes its own tide lands. The Federal Government is at the present time constructing a naval coaling station at a cost of about $250,000, and a bill is before Congress providing for a dry dock. In addition to this expenditure by the Federal Government it is more than possible that a naval training station will be established at some point on the bay. While these improvements may not directly cause increased commerce, they will naturally have a bearing upon the future business of the port.

There is room at the docks for twenty-four vessels, and the dockage charges are one cent per ton for 200 tons or less, three-fourths cent per ton for balance, net register tonnage. Freight is unloaded from ship and loaded into cars at a cost of 50 cents per ton for merchandise, 75 cents per thousand feet for lumber, and 60 cents per thousand feet for ties. Warehouse charges are subject to contract, making evident the desirability of and the necessity for a state wharf and state warehouses. No demurrage charges are made.

During the year 1907 there were 73,057 tons of freight, not including coal and cement, received by vessel, and 64,688,700 feet of lumber received by vessel and raft. During the same period over 10,000 tons of coal and nearly 15,000,000 pounds of cement were received at the docks. The receipts during ten months of the year 1908 prove that these amounts will be greatly exceeded during the year 1909, while in the matter of lumber the amount will be nearly if not quite doubled. The records for 1907 show that 10,976 tons of freight were shipped out, consigned to both foreign and domestic ports.

There were 423 steamers and 80 sailing vessels that entered this port during the year 1907, not counting those engaged in the fishing trade. War vessels of this and other nations are not included among those figured above.

The principal articles of import were coal, coke, pig iron, cement, domestic animals, copper matte, hides, guano, bran, onyx, firebrick, lumber, flour, feed, structural iron, iron pipe, machinery, groceries, dry goods and leather goods. The leading exports were honey, tallow, hides, pelts, fish, wool, oranges, lemons, and grain.

The commerce of the port of San Diego is rapidly growing, owing to the development of southern California and the increase of imports from Europe and New York via Tehuantepec Railroad over the isthmus, and from Baja California. There is at the present time but one transcontinental railway entering this port, but the preliminary work has been done for a second that should be in operation within two years. Even before the completion of the Panama Canal a considerable business has been established in connection with the Tehuantepec Railroad, this being the port of call for all steamers receiving freight from that Mexican line and operating in conjunction with the several Atlantic lines. The commerce by this line is constantly growing, the last steamer to dock at the Oriental wharf having discharged at the port of San Diego 1,300 tons of freight for distribution throughout the southwest territory.

At present southbound vessels do not call at this port. Late this year an experimental shipment of oranges and lemons was made from the port of San Francisco for the purpose of determining if San Diego could be made an important fruit shipping point for eastbound fruits. Oranges and lemons produced in southern California were bought in the open market at San Francisco and shipped East by the Tehuantepec line. The oranges landed in New York in first-class condition, but the lemons were badly damaged. The officials of the Tehuantepec line, however, are of the opinion that the damaged condition of the lemons was wholly due to the fact that they were bought in the open market, having been intended for home consumption, and were not properly picked and packed for Eastern shipment. The last southbound steamer took eighty tons of freight which originated in the San Diego territory and billed to New York. As soon as the territory offers a minimum of two hundred tons for each steamer San Diego will be made a port of call for southbound steamers. Inasmuch as the territory tributary to San Diego produced oranges and lemons last year of the total value of $23,000,000, on which the railroads were paid for freight approximately $14,000,000, it will readily be seen that if oranges and lemons can be shipped with safety by the Tehuantepec steamship line a very large commerce will grow up in the shipment of these and other fruits through the port of San Diego to the East. As there is a saving of at least one third in freight rates on both east and westbound shipments by steamship line over the railroads, the importance of the establishment of this line of steamers will be at once apparent. It will be seen that there will be such an increase of shipping that greater facilities than at present obtain here will be necessary.

In spite of the efforts of private individuals to secure water front rights that they would make perpetual, if possible, the Harbor Commissioners have rigidly preserved the integrity of State ownership. The last Legislature having appropriated $10,000 for that purpose, they have taken steps that will enable them to enforce all the claims of the State to the tide lands, having instituted suits and made provision to perpetuate the testimony of witnesses in a competent court. As these tide lands of the State extend nearly the length of the bay, and front all the deep water, there is need for definite action, especially as the future demands and valuations will be such a large increase over the present.

There is a total of 1,265.46 acres of these tide lands, having an assessed valuation of $1,691,884. The following table, taken from the report of the Harbor Commissioners, will show that the assessments are not excessive, being based on present conditions rather than on future possibilities:

Government Work. The Federal Government has expended up to the present time $665,214 in the improvement of San Diego Bay, which has been in the way of dredging, deepening the channel across the bar, and the construction of jetties. Capt. Amos A. Fries, of the Corps of Engineers, under date of May 7, 1907, made a report to the Navy Department in which he made recommendation that the further sum of $125,000 be appropriated for dredging a deep channel 600 feet wide and 30 feet deep from the bar at the entrance of the harbor (over which there is at the present time a channel 28 feet deep at low tide), and 400 feet wide and 30 feet deep through the middle ground in the harbor, so that the sharp turns of the present channel may be avoided. This recommendation, taking its regular course to the Navy Department, has been approved by Lieut. Col. John Biddle, Corps of Engineers, Division Engineer; Col. D. C. Lockwood, Corps of Engineers, senior member of the board; Wm. S. Cowles, Chief of Bureau of Equipment; C. McR. Winslow, Acting Chief of Bureau of Navigation; Admiral George Dewey, President General Board; J. E. Pillsbury, Chief of Bureau of Navigation; V. H. Metcalf, Secretary Navy Department. There is now nothing in the way to prevent the appropriation asked for especially as it is for the benefit of the war vessels that will come here to coal, as well as for all vessels carrying foreign commerce which draw up to 27½ feet of water.

HUMBOLDT BAY.

A careful personal inspection of Humboldt Bay reveals the possibilities of that port if there is proper assistance by the Federal Government and the State. The former is already doing efficient work in the way of dredging, but much more needs to be done. There are a number of deep basins having from 27 to 40 feet of water, and even more in places, that are separated by shallow "hogbacks" on which from 9 to 18 feet of water found. The expense of dredging these will not be great, but private parties, after having deepened the water at their wharves, can not undertake the work. This port (Eureka) has now a business worth $15,000,000 annually, and while in time its character may be changed, the amount will continue to increase. The commerce of Humboldt Bay is principally with coast points, lumber constituting the greater portion of it, but there is a growing trade with the Hawaiian Islands, the Central American States, South America, England, and Australia. The products other than lumber are constantly increasing in volume and value as well. The amount needed to properly prepare this bay to care for the largest vessels afloat need not necessarily be large, but there must be an expenditure in order to secure the greatest facilities for shipping.

The port of Eureka is the most important one on the Pacific coast between San Francisco and Seattle. Humboldt Bay has an area of about 23½ square miles, and is the most important center of the lumber industry in the State of California. It is also the most important shipping point for dairy products on the Pacific coast, these for the past year having exceeded $1,500,000 in value.

For the purpose of making the entrance to the bay safe to all vessels the Federal Government has constructed twin jetties into the ocean at an expenditure of over $2,000,000. By reason of the sandy ground upon which they rest, and the effect of heavy storms, these jetties have been considerably damaged and the entrance to the bay has also shoaled. Shortly after the completion of the jetties there was a uniform depth of 30 feet at the entrance, and all vessels entered with perfect safety. The channel at the entrance has shifted considerably, so that deep draft vessels must now enter from the northward instead of going straight in from the sea. As the ocean is often rough, a few laden vessels have been injured by striking the bar in passing out and in. It is, therefore, important that the Federal Government should make additional appropriations for the purpose of repairing and extending the present jetties. Congressman W. F. Englebright has persistently urged upon Congress the necessity of this work, and has reason to believe that the necessary steps will be taken to complete it within the near future.

At the present time the only commercial connection between Eureka and the outside world is by vessel through Humboldt Bay. There remains a gap of about 100 miles on the Northwestern Pacific Railroad to be completed along the Eel River to connect Eureka by railroad with San Francisco and the outside world. At the present time Eureka has a population of about 15,000 people. It has one of the most equable climates on the Pacific coast, and its business men are as enterprising as any to be found in the State of California. It is now, and will continue to be, one of the most important ports on the California coast, and its interests should be zealously guarded.

Practically all the tide lands in front of the city of Eureka were sold by the city at less than one dollar per front foot to private individuals under Act of the Legislature of 1857. It is doubted whether under the Act of Congress admitting California into the Union the State could legally authorize the issuance of such deeds. If void when issued the title to these tide lands is still in the State.

SAN PEDRO.

With an outer harbor of 700 acres inside the breakwater, 300 acres having an average depth of 40 feet, 400 acres having an average of 30 feet, and 3,000 front feet owned by the city in the inner harbor having an average depth of 24 feet, there are at the present time no facilities for deep ocean going vessels at San Pedro. The Federal Government is doing effective work in dredging the channel in the inner harbor, and all difficulties in securing deep water may soon be overcome. In addition to the 3,000 feet of frontage owned by the city, most of which has been leased to private parties, San Pedro owns over 20,000 feet, which includes the outer harbor frontage, on which no franchise has been granted. On the west side of the harbor the city owns 214 acres of submerged lands with a frontage of about 8,000 feet on the outer harbor, which can in time be utilized after having been filled in. While the city has leased much of its water front, it has reserved in one place a strip 1,480 feet long and 200 feet deep for dock and warehouse purposes.

There are nine docks, with an aggregate length of 15,000 feet, owned and operated by private parties. While sixty vessels can work at one time at the docks, the dockage of the inner harbor is barely sufficient for the present business. In the outer harbor there are no docks as yet, although they can be constructed in from 30 to 40 feet of water. As conditions now exist, the larger vessels must anchor in the outer harbor and discharge by lighter a portion of their cargoes before they can enter the inner harbor. This constitutes a great drawback to the commercial possibilities and needs of San Pedro as a port. The Federal Government has expended $3,000,000 on the breakwater, and in addition over $1,000,000 for dredging in the inner harbor. The business men of San Pedro feel that the most needed improvement at the present time is the construction of docks in the outer harbor at an estimated cost of $2,500,000.

The 1,217 steamers and 385 sail vessels entering this port during the year 1907 brought in trade from all the coast ports and also a considerable amount from foreign ports. San Pedro is an important port for the shipment of oil, 491,323 barrels having been sent out during 1907 to coast points and foreign ports. Being a distributing point for Los Angeles and a number of lesser cities, the receipts of lumber have been large, there being recorded 466,405,000 feet of lumber and 178,844,000 shingles, with great quantities of other building material of wood for the year 1907. The foreign receipts and shipments aggregate a considerable amount and are constantly growing factors in the shipping business of San Pedro.

Your committee held two sessions to consider the needs of San Pedro harbor. That city was visited by the committee early in 1908, when a meeting was held and the needs of the harbor discussed. At that time public sentiment had not crystallized, and there was a great difference of opinion as to whether there should be a state harbor commission and improvements made at the expense of the State, or the city retain control. A second meeting was held at the Chamber of Commerce in the city of Los Angeles on Monday, the 16th day of November of this year, at which the city of San Pedro was represented by Senator Savage and members of the Chamber of Commerce. Wilmington was represented by its city attorney, and Los Angeles by the Los Angeles Harbor Commission and members of the Los Angeles Chamber of Commerce.

Senator Savage contended for a state harbor commission, and the control of San Pedro Bay by such commission. The members of the Los Angeles Harbor Commission, as well as the Chamber of Commerce, representatives from Wilmington and one or two representatives from San Pedro opposed State control, and contended that the State should not interfere with conditions at San Pedro. Some time since the City Council of Los Angeles by ordinance created a harbor commission of three members. This commission, in conjunction with the Chamber of Commerce, has been working to bring about a consolidated city government under the borough system, which shall include San Pedro, Wilmington, and other beach cities. It is their purpose, then, to have the city vote bonds to the extent of several million dollars, and build municipal docks and wharves at San Pedro.

While the record title to a greater portion of the water front at San Pedro is vested in private corporations, suit was filed in the month of October of this year for the purpose of testing the validity of these titles. All the private ownerships are based upon titles obtained between March 5, 1880, and January 16, 1891, under the general law of 1868, as amended in 1870 for the sale of swamp and overflow, salt marsh and tide lands. The State Legislature has never passed any special act for the disposing of any part of the inner portion of San Pedro Bay, but under the interpretation of the swamp and overflow law State patents were issued to about seven eighths of the tide lands of the bay. It is now claimed that under the act of Congress admitting California to the Union, providing that all navigable waters shall be forever free, and the constitutional provision that all tide lands within two miles of any incorporated city or town of this State and fronting on the waters of any harbor or bay used for the purpose of navigation shall be withheld from grant or sale to private persons, partnerships or corporations, these State patents are illegal. As much of these tide lands has been occupied by private individuals claiming ownership for a great many years, it is contended that the statute of limitation would bar the State from recovering the same, even though the State patents might have been illegally issued. In the case of People vs. Kirker, decided by our Supreme Court within the year, it is decided that tide lands are held in trust by the State for the people, and that in such cases the statute of limitation does not run against the State. The contest over these tide lands will be bitter, and contested by both sides with determination. It may be several years before they end. Your committee, therefore, is of the opinion that in view of the unsettled conditions of the tide lands at San Pedro, and the wish of a large number of people in Los Angeles and adjacent cities that the improvement of that harbor should be left to the municipality, it would be unwise to recommend the appointment of a state harbor commission, or the submission to the people of a bond issue for the improvement of this port.

OAKLAND.

Oakland has eighteen piers and docks, none of which are owned by the State, and which are under the jurisdiction of the city, which has expended much money in the way of improvements. In order to remedy the disadvantages of crowded docks and shallow water the city has in contemplation the issue of improvement bonds to carry on the work that is estimated will cost at least $25,000,000 when completed.

The business done at Oakland is given for three years, being from January 1, 1905, to December 31, 1907. During this period 4,513 vessels entered the port, having a total of 2,019,918 tonnage. The greatest obstacle to an increase of business is shallow water, which must be deepened, no matter what the cost may be. This is essential in order to maintain the commerce in deeper bottoms. Oakland has about four miles of berth space, which takes in all the frontage on piers and wharves. New docks are needed, those now in use being inadequate even under present conditions. The dockage charges are regulated by city ordinances, and are practically the same as those that have been fixed by the State at San Francisco. As five railroads, including the belt line, are doing business on the Oakland wharves, demands for more room will constantly be made, and will necessitate the expenditure of a greater amount of money than is contemplated in the $5,000,000 bond issue now under consideration. All new work should be of that permanent character that will last for all time.

MONTEREY BAY.

Monterey Bay is situated south of San Francisco Bay, and was one of the earliest shipping points in the State of California. The great necessity for that port is a breakwater, and earnest effort has been made to secure the building of the same by the Federal Government. It is claimed that if the breakwater were constructed in Monterey harbor fourteen million acres of farming land held by residents along Monterey Bay contiguous to that port, would be enhanced in value, and that much land now vacant would be made available for farming and grazing. Speaking of Monterey Bay, Captain Davis, of the United States lighthouse service, wrote: "For twenty-five years I have been running in and out of the port of Monterey. There is no harbor on the coast where finer anchorage can be found. Monterey is the best harbor between San Francisco and San Diego. It is thoroughly protected from the southwest winds, which can not be said of any other harbor on the coast."

The great obstacles to shipping in Monterey Bay are the ground-swells and undertow. The ground-swells sometimes sweep into the bay, causing surging to a degree dangerous to the larger vessels, while smaller craft are seldom disturbed. The several attempts made by the people of Monterey to induce Congress to appropriate funds for the building of a breakwater have been ineffectual, as the engineering board has always reported adversely, giving as reasons that the shipping is not sufficient to justify the expenditure. Monterey has, however, become an important California port, as the tonnage which passed out of the harbor in the last year amounted to over 500,000 tons. It is true that this was largely shipments of oil, but oil is now an important factor in our commerce. The present tonnage represents an increase of over 200 per cent in the two years last past.

It is estimated that the breakwater necessary to divert the current and cut off the undertow should be built out into the bay in an easterly direction about 2,000 feet, and that it would cost approximately $1,000,000. This, it is claimed, will enhance the value of several million acres of land and assure better freight rates to a large population inhabiting the territory contiguous to Monterey Bay.

The entire water front in Monterey is owned by the municipality, and the city is determined that it shall always be free from monopoly holdings. It is to be hoped that the Federal Government can be induced at an early date to provide the necessary funds for the building of the Monterey breakwater.

PORT SAN LUIS.

Port San Luis has achieved commercial importance largely because of the immense shipments of oil, there having been 3,000,000 barrels of this product exported during the year 1907. There is a depth of 34 feet at the entrance, and an anchorage area of ten square miles with an average depth of 30 feet. The county, at an expense of $90,000, raised by bond issue, has constructed two wharves and owns one of the two docks at Port San Luis, the other being the property of private parties. The tide lands are all owned by individuals. The Federal Government has taken the preliminary steps toward completing a breakwater which has been under construction several years. The facilities for shipping are adequate for all present demands, and possibly for years to come.

SANTA BARBARA.

Santa Barbara was visited, but that city had nothing to ask, being in a very large measure a coast shipping point and pleasure resort. Although there have been moderate amounts of shipments in and out, this being a regular port of call for the Pacific coast steamers plying between San Francisco and San Diego, the one pier into the roadstead is sufficient for all the needs of the city.

NEWPORT BEACH.

Newport Bay, once a shipping point, is at the present time wholly a pleasure resort. The people living at that point justly believe the Federal Government should follow up the preliminary expenses of a survey made several years ago, and build twin jetties which would give them a safe and deeper channel into the bay, and a reasonable chance to gain back the lost trade. At the present time the bay is more an inland sea than a bay because of the little depth at the bar which renders navigation almost impossible. It is there believed that the State can influence the Federal Government to afford the necessary relief, which can come only in the way mentioned—the construction of twin jetties and a reasonable amount of dredging.

PETALUMA AND SAN RAFAEL.

These two ports are on the tide waters of San Francisco Bay, and enjoy a rapidly growing commerce. Several thousand dollars have been expended by the town of San Rafael in dredging a channel from the bay to the city, giving a depth of four feet at low tide. It is estimated that $5,000 appropriated by the State would increase the capacity of the channel so as to give competing water rates with the railroad.

Petaluma is the port for a great section of country bordering on the north shore of San Francisco Bay. Several vessels arrive and depart daily, carrying great quantities of grain, dairy products, and general merchandise. An appropriation is needed to straighten the channel in the river above the head of navigation and to dredge the bar where the river empties into San Francisco Bay. It is estimated that $15,000 will suffice for this work.

NECESSITY OF HARBOR IMPROVEMENTS.

California is at present, as it were, merely a transfer station where freight is received and forwarded to Asia, Australia, Pacific island ports and the more eastern of the United States. It is true the oil fields have been instrumental in the development of a commerce with the Far East, and the fruit and other productions of the State have made their own market in all of the states of the Union, and our lumber is in demand in many foreign countries, but we have not kept pace with other portions of the world in a manufacturing way. We have increased shipments into the State at the expense of our export trade, making but comparatively little use of the raw material that should greatly increase our commerce.

On the California coast are extensive deposits of iron ore, and in time great smelters will be established and our manufacturing interests will be multiplied many fold. In addition to this raw material California has a power that is but partially utilized, which should be sufficient to operate all manufacturing, lighting, and power plants that may be required within this State during the next twenty-five years. All this can the water in the mountains do if properly harnessed, and not a drop be wasted that might be required for irrigation and domestic purposes. The impounding dams of San Diego County, the great Owens River project now in operation of the system, in the opinion of the engineer, the service will amount to the cost of the fuel and the cost of the labor of the engine, and the cost of the fuel will be the same as the cost of the labor of the engine. The engine, however, will be the same as the cost of the labor of the engine, and the cost of the fuel will be the same as the cost of the labor of the engine.

Under the plan, the engine will be the same as the cost of the labor of the engine, and the cost of the fuel will be the same as the cost of the labor of the engine. The engine, however, will be the same as the cost of the labor of the engine, and the cost of the fuel will be the same as the cost of the labor of the engine.

in San Francisco have apparently been ample. But periods of depression do not stay the life of wharves that were erected in the past without having in view longevity, and which must soon be replaced by modernized structures. There must also be additional docks and wharves, not only to provide for the increased tonnage that is inevitable, but also to accommodate the larger vessels that are year by year growing in size. To provide room for these new wharves there must be extension of the seawall and the reclamation of land for commercial purposes.

That it is wisdom for the State to expend money on such improvements admits of no question. Or rather, it should be stated in another way, it is wisdom for the State to loan its credit for such improvements as will not only care for present demands, but also to meet all the requirements of the commercial world in the years to come.

There are two harbors to which the State can consistently loan its credit, having power to adjust the schedule of charges and to provide for the repayment of all moneys obtained on the credit of the State. These are San Francisco and San Diego. In the first named the State owns all the wharves except two, and the additional ones now necessary can be built only as property of the State, subject to its regulations. In San Diego the State does not own any of the wharves, but with the erection of a seawall there will not only be the wharves to the pier line, but there will be the reclamation of tide lands worth nearly the cost of construction; and immediately following the building of the seawall and wharves at San Diego the State charges will naturally be the basis for the regulation of all dockage charges, and eventually cause all wharves now owned by private parties and corporations to practically come under State supervision.

Great as has been the expenditure at San Francisco, that harbor has been self-sustaining. With the improvements so badly needed, costing probably $10,000,000, there will come increased revenues with the increased commerce, while there will be but little increase in administrative expenses. At the present time wharfage facilities are taxed to their utmost to care for the 9,678,792 tons of freight annually handled. The increase since the earlier days has been constant, and it requires no imagination to prove that within a few years this port will be handling 13,000,000 tons of freight annually. To meet this increased business, and to accommodate the additional shipping there is the necessity of providing greater facilities than now exist, and which can not be provided for in time from the annual revenues of the port. The report of Luther Wagoner and Wm. Heuer, U. S. A., the engineers of the Federated Harbor Improvement Association, says:

The commerce of the port is growing, not with regularity, but with constant acceleration, and in twenty years the commerce should amount to 13,000,000 tons (annually). What increase of this acceleration will follow the completion of the Panama Canal is suggested, but not figured in the calculation. It is predicted that the proper extension of the docks and wharves would enable the port to do a commerce of 30,000,000 tons annually. This would mean the covering the ten miles of water front with docks.

There are five plans for extension presented, as follows:

A. Development of the water front continued along the bay in a southerly direction beyond what is now the boundary line between San Francisco and San Mateo counties.

B. In case a Greater San Francisco were formed, embracing other cities on San Francisco Bay, construction of other wharves on the Oakland side of the bay.

C. Cut down Yerba Buena Island and build up an adjacent shoal.

D. Acquire land now submerged and in private ownership between India Basin and what is known as Islais Creek channel, which would permit of an inner basin being formed, in which nine additional wharves may be constructed, to furnish more than four miles additional berth room.

E. Slips and solid piers may be constructed between Fort Mason and Presidio. This will furnish 19,200 lineal feet of berth room.

Obtain permission of the Secretary of War to reestablish the bulkhead or seawall line 150 feet bayward of its present location, and for a corresponding alteration of the pierhead line, especially at Mission Rock, to furnish 5.3 miles of additional wharf room, or 10.8 miles additional berth room from between Channel street and Hunter's Point, or, including that in Paragraph D, more than 15 miles additional berth room.

The engineer's report referred to shows that with one fourth of the cost of the Liverpool harbor San Francisco's harbor could be extended to accommodate twice the business of Liverpool. It is further shown that under the recent amendment to the constitution, authorizing 75-year bonds, the cost of extension and improvement of the harbor would not in the least be burdensome, as the percentage of earnings would provide for maintenance, repair, and management, and leave ample for interest and sinking fund for redemption of the bonds. The engineers make a detailed statement, showing the cost of the harbor complete. The estimated cost is for the erection of docks, wharves, and appliances sufficient to accommodate a traffic of 30,000,000 tons annually. The total cost, not considering the price of real estate, would amount to $43,284,195. It is estimated that the value of the present water front improvements now amounts to $10,000,000, and this added to the proposed development would make the entire cost $53,284,195. Continuing, the engineers say:

"It is proposed to pay for these improvements with long term (75-year) bonds, a synopsis of the commerce of the port showing that the sum could easily be paid from the port itself. The Federated Harbor Improvement Association suggests that $10,000,000 long term bonds be issued for the work that is to be completed by 1920. These bonds would not all be issued before 1920. As before shown, the revenues of the port are ample to pay all harbor expenses, pay the interest and eventually redeem the bonds.

The only too frequent congestion of freight notwithstanding the efforts of the harbor commissioners and their associates, aided by the business men of San Francisco, fully warrant the commissions as to present conditions and requirements for the future, as set forth in the report of the Federated Harbor Improvement Association.

The present wharves are inadequate for an increased commerce.

New wharves and additional seawall should be constructed in advance of the immediate requirements of commerce.

Harbor lines should be modified as soon as practicable. Applications to change these lines and to build solid piers extending outside the pierhead lines should be made to the Secretary of War.

Funds from existing dock revenues are not sufficient to make the improvements as rapidly as required. The present port charges should not be increased. Two millions more to be made in the next ten years will cost between $10,000,000 and $11,000,000. Funds for this purpose may be obtained by an issue of $10,000,000 four per cent 75-year State bonds, sinking fund for their redemption to begin twenty-five years after their first issue.

Wharves at the head of wharves are essential. A change in the bulkhead line in accordance with recommendations should afford suitable warehouse space.

Notable the most important segment on the western coast of the United States, San Francisco has for its harbors, in a commercial way, all the land to the Atlantic Ocean. Hence it is that the great trans-continental lines are doing their utmost to reach that point, as well as the more southerly ports, for all the year the way is open to traffic on land as well as on the ocean. Taking into consideration the increase in population in the Western States during the past twenty years, and the work now being done by the Federal Government in the reclamation of desert lands, there will unquestionably be within the next twenty years millions of people whose there are now hundreds of thousands. This means added production and almost numberless new manufacturing establishments throughout the West and the State of California, a largely increased commerce that will tax to the utmost the capacity of all the ports of California, and especially that of San Francisco. There will come a time when American ships will be made possible, and under the American flag will be carried the breadstuffs and manufactured articles demanded by the advanced and enlightened nations of the world. California will be the first to reap the benefit of the extended commerce, for she has the things that the people of the world need and must have. To prepare for that time the ports must be made ready.

NECESSITY FOR STATE ACTION.

We found at San Diego a condition as to the water front largely in favor of the State. The building of a seawall will not only make it possible for the State to construct and own a number of wharves, but there will follow the reclamation of lands that will at once be worth almost the cost of constructing the seawall and will be a source of revenue for all time to come. The Federal Government is making improvements in San Diego Bay that will not only necessitate the expenditure of millions in the way of deepening the channel in places, but will require a promulgation for harboring the cattle fleet of the Pacific when occasion requires. Not as great in area as San Francisco Bay, San Diego Bay is large enough and deep enough for the entire Pacific fleet, and not in any way interfere with commerce. Another thing that will eventually cause the business of this port to largely increase is the shorter distance to the Hawaiian Islands, Japan, China, and Australia. It will be the most port of call for vessels coming through the Panama Canal and having two transcontinental railroad lines never disturbed by the rigors of winter or the flooding of melted snows, commerce from the Middle West, Eastern, and some of the Southern States will naturally seek the Pacific at this point.

If present conditions alone were to be considered, San Francisco and San Diego says could still be without wharves of any kind, for in the past "present" there was no need for innovations of that kind. In the light of the future San Diego, a most important port, having all the requirements of a safe harbor, with practically no limit to its capacity, and the State being in possession of its rights as to tide lands, there must be substantial improvements in the way of a seawall and wharves. California can not afford to neglect this important point, nor can the business done be pressed over to private individuals and corporations. No reflection is cast upon private persons, for the business of San Diego harbor has been well and honestly done, to the encouragement of commerce. The Harbor Commissioners have at all times been earnest and faithful in their duties, but honesty and faithfulness do not build seawalls and wharves.

The Board of State Harbor Commissioners for the bay of San Diego recommends the building of a seawall and wharves by the State as the best way to secure low wharf charges, as well as making provision for future increased business from the ocean trade. The method of building and paying for the same as applied to San Francisco would apply to San Diego as well. The State would be merely loaning its credit, the bonds and interest to be paid from the business of the harbor.

CALIFORNIA HARBORS AND LATIN REPUBLICS.

While it is not within the province of this committee to suggest methods and means of extending trade, or the building up of a great commerce for State ports, yet the connection between improved harbors and an increased commerce is so close that your committee deems it proper to make reference to the possibilities of closer trade relations with the twelve Latin Republics having frontage on the Pacific, and with are spending immense sums of money in the improvement of their ports. Mr. John Barrett, of Oregon, Director of the Bureau of American Republics, who has not only made a most exhaustive study of the resources of the republics south of the United States, but who has as well made personal examination of their trade relations, gives some valuable information. He calls attention to the wonderful development in all the Latin Republics, in which business enterprises have been inaugurated that involve the expenditure of many millions of dollars. He asserts that if one twentieth of the expenditures that have been made for trade relations in Japan and China had been devoted to establishing closer relations with the Latin Republics the results would have been incomparable. In illustration Mr. Barrett shows that the Argentine Republic, with 6,000,000 population, had a greater foreign trade than Japan with its 50,000,000 and China with its 400,000,000 population. And yet the United States has made but little effort to secure a fair proportion of this immense trade. That which we have neglected has been eagerly sought by England and Germany.

An expenditure of $15,000,000 has been ordered by Chili for the improvement of the harbor at Valparaiso, and other ports are receiving practical attention. Heretofore, the development of Mexico has been largely limited to the more eastern and central parts of that republic, but of late years the officials of Mexico have been giving attention to the western or Pacific portion, having brought to completion improvements and enterprises that have already been of vast benefit to California ports and to the State at large as well, besides inaugurating others that California should be prepared to utilize.

One of the first steps toward an enlargement of trade and an increase of manufacturing and commercial interests is the proper improvement of the harbors of the State, even before the shipping fleet of the United States can be increased to proper proportions, as it will be. The attention of the commercial bodies of the State should be called to an almost neglected field, which promises for greater results than does the Orient. While the latter is being cultivated there is no excuse for apathy in the extension of trade relations with the Latin Republics, which are so rapidly developing their natural resources. The proper improvement of the State's harbors will have much to do with the establishment of closer trade relations with republics which should be brought into a great commercial union, the United States being the leading member, and California the most important factor.

Your committee recommends to the Legislature the advisability of State aid in securing for our commercial interests full information as to the natural resources of all the Latin republics, especially those bordering on the Pacific, as well as their needs for the manufactured products and commercial articles originating in this State, which should find a market in those southern countries now almost monopolized by Germany and Great Britain. It is true such information would be of general use, but California is in position to reap the greater reward owing to its almost unlimited supply of raw materials, its unlimited power for manufacturing purposes, and its harbors that, with proper improvement, can not be excelled.

ADVISORY BOARD OF HARBOR COMMISSIONERS.

Your committee recommends an amendment to the Political Code providing for an Advisory Board of Harbor Commissioners, to be comprised of the presidents of the several boards of harbor commissioners in this State. The desirability of such a board should be apparent. It might be well to add to such advisory board the Governor and the Controller, in view of the proposed increase in the expenditure of State moneys and in order to protect the people's interests. This is a matter to which serious consideration should be given, your committee having, during its researches, realized the advisability and the necessity for such a board.

CONCLUSIONS.

At the present time the accommodation for ocean freighters is in its infancy as compared with Atlantic ports, although the total number of vessels discharging cargoes during 1907 in California ports was 15,775. It has been said that facilities are sufficient for the present tonnage entering our ports, but increase of population within the State, a like increase in the states farther east, and the extension of trade territory will soon place present conveniences among the things of the past. To permit port facilities to remain at a standstill will be to acknowledge that all that has been said regarding the great anticipated growth of commerce is false, and we do not believe with our money that which we say with our mouths.

The State owns the tide lands at San Diego, and a portion of the tide lands at San Francisco, where the building of seawalls gives the State the ownership of wharf and warehouse privileges on its own reclaimed lands, a valuable acquisition that is worth millions of dollars in present values. Naturally concessions and rentals will add more millions of dollars, and eventually return to the State all that may have been expended, with interest, and still keep port charges at a minimum. Increased facilities will work to the advantage of consumer and shipper alike, while the benefits to the entire State will be inestimable.

For commercial purposes there are in State ports thirty-one wharves owned by the State, two owned by county, and thirty-eight owned by corporations and individuals. Added to these may be counted some thirty piers and docks occasionally used for commercial purposes, but which are in the main designed for pleasure or merely for private interests. Of these privately owned two are in San Francisco, nine in San Diego, nine in San Pedro, one in Santa Barbara, fifteen in Oakland, one at Port San Luis, one at Monterey, and one at Newport. The aggregate length of all the piers, State and private, has been estimated at 81,000 feet, affording accommodation for about 350 vessels at one time, a small number for the growing business being developed at all the ports. The cost of these wharves or piers is impossible of determination, varying so greatly with conditions. In San Francisco the cost varies from 50 cents to $2.90 a square foot, the character of piling and bottom being taken into consideration. At San Pedro the cost has been placed at $40 a running foot. In San Diego Bay there has been found the same conditions that prevail in San Francisco Bay as a whole, although the cost of concrete piling may be a little less. There is a demand for improvements by the State, confined principally to the building of seawalls, the construction of piers, and dredging. The approximate of aggregate ultimate cost is not less than $50,000,000.

The maintenance and repairs of all the ports aggregate for 1907 only $247,200, showing economical management, and this when the commerce in these ports represented in value hundreds of millions of dollars. This cost of maintenance, of course, is the aggregate of only those ports making report.

How shall these improvements, if decided upon, be made? Your committee has asked this question of many people, and the answer has invariably, with one exception, been, "By the issuance of long term bonds bearing a low rate of interest." The reason is obvious. As the benefits to be derived from these improvements will extend to future generations, it is desirable that the expense of making the improvements should be partially borne by those who receive a portion of the benefits. This is generally understood by the people of the State of California, inasmuch as the Legislature at its last session submitted to the electors of the State a constitutional amendment which provides for the issuance of 75-year bonds, and their redemption by a sinking fund which shall not begin for a period of eighteen years after their issuance. This amendment was carried by a large vote, and it was generally understood by the electors that these bonds were intended for the improvement of the harbors of the State. The Legislature will, therefore, only be carrying out the will of the people in submitting to the electors of this State the bond issues recommended for the ports of San Francisco and San Diego.

RECOMMENDATIONS.

From the investigations made, as set forth in the foregoing report, the Joint Legislative Committee recommend as follows:

San Francisco.—That there be submitted to the electors of the State of California, under constitutional amendment adopted at the 1908 election authorizing 75-year bonds, a bond issue of three million dollars for the purpose of building a seawall and appurtenances for the port of San Francisco; a bond issue of six million five hundred thousand dollars for the purpose of building wharves and docks at the port of San Francisco; a bond issue of fifty thousand dollars for the purpose of extending, repairing and improving the belt line railroad at the port of San Francisco; a bond issue of one million dollars for the acquisition of land at or near Islais Creek Basin; and a bond issue of four hundred thousand dollars for dredging in the port of San Francisco.

We further recommend that provision be made for the sale of these bonds, when authorized, by the State Treasurer upon direction of the Governor of the State of California, after a resolution requesting such sale shall have been made and adopted by the State Harbor Commissioners. Such bonds to be sold only as the funds are needed for the specified improvements.

San Diego.—We recommend for the port of San Diego a bond issue of one million dollars for the purpose of building a seawall and its appurtenances, and a bond issue of five hundred thousand dollars for the purpose of building wharves and docks at said port, under the same terms and conditions as contained in the recommendation for the bond issue for the port of San Francisco.

Humboldt Bay.—We recommend that a direct appropriation of twenty-five thousand dollars be made for the purpose of removing by dredging the hogbacks or sand deposits which are at the present time a destruction to shipping in Humboldt Bay.

Oakland.—As a majority of the people of Oakland prefer municipal control of harbor improvements at that point and advocate an issue of municipal bonds to pay for the same, we recommend that the State take no action so far as the improvement of the water front at Oakland is concerned.

San Pedro.—Inasmuch as the title to the tide lands at San Pedro is in litigation, and as the people of Los Angeles, and a portion of the inhabitants of San Pedro and Wilmington desire municipal control of that port, the committee recommends that the building of walls and docks at San Pedro be left entirely to the municipality.

Petaluma and San Rafael.—We recommend that a direct appropriation of fifteen thousand dollars be made for the purpose of dredging the channel and also dredging across the bar at Petaluma, and that the sum of five thousand dollars be appropriated for dredging the channel to the city of San Rafael.

Joint Committee on Harbors.

REPORT OF THE BOARD OF STATE HARBOR COMMISSIONERS, SAN FRANCISCO, CALIFORNIA.

SAN FRANCISCO, CAL., March 2, 1908.

Answers to questions proposed by the Joint Committee appointed at the last session of the Legislature regarding harbors in the State of California, Senator Leroy A. Wright, Chairman:

1. What is the depth of water over the bar at the entrance to harbor?

The average depth is five and one half (5½) fathoms, and there is a commodious channel having a minimum depth of nine (9) fathoms.

2. What is the average depth of channel in the harbor, and what is the area of anchorage ground?

The average depth of the channel is nine and one half (9½) fathoms. The area of anchorage ground in the immediate vicinity of the city, and now used as such, is twenty-four (24) square miles, exclusive of fairways, which occupy seven (7) square miles. In addition to this, there is available for anchorage in San Francisco Bay forty-eight (48) square miles, and in the adjoining extension of this inland sea, known as San Pablo Bay, twenty-one (21) square miles; a total anchorage ground of exactly one hundred (100) square miles.

3. What is the average depth inside the bay at piers and docks, or where piers and docks may be constructed?

The average depth inside the bay at piers and docks is twenty-three (23) feet; although at some places the depth is thirty-three (33) feet, which will allow the largest ships being safely docked.

4. How many piers and docks in your harbor are owned and operated by the State?

All of the piers and docks in the port of San Francisco are owned and operated by the State with the exception of two, viz.: the docking facilities of the Union Iron Works and those of the Western Sugar Refining Company.

5. How many piers and docks owned by the State are leased to private persons or corporations?

The Pacific Mail Steamship Company have a fifteen year lease on piers 42 and 44, commonly known as the Pacific Mail docks. This lease was executed and became effective February 2, 1907, and $371,673 rental was paid in advance. The piers are each 650 feet long and 140 feet wide.

The Atchison, Topeka and Santa Fe Railway Company have a lease for a period of 168 months, executed and effective March 14, 1907, on what is commonly known as China Basin wharf, for which they paid in advance the sum of $24,930 rental. This wharf is 720 feet long and 60 feet wide.

The Atchison, Topeka and Santa Fe Railway Company have a lease for a period of 72 months, commencing November 23, 1904, on what is commonly termed the Fourth Street Car Ferry Slip, located at the intersection of the water front line and the northerly line of the China Basin property, also leased to the said company. The sum of $30,000 rental was paid in advance.

The Atchison, Topeka and Santa Fe Railway Company have a lease for a period of 96 months, effective February 17, 1904, on the addition to what is known as the Little Main Street Wharf, for which they paid in advance the sum of $19,897 rental.

The Loop Lumber Company are to have a fifteen (15) year lease on dockage facilities on Central Basin, which will become effective upon the completion and acceptance of the wharves, which are now under construction. They have paid in advance for this privilege the sum of $44,760 rental.

6. How many piers and docks are owned and operated by private individuals or corporations?

The Union Iron Works and the Western Sugar Refining Company own their own docks and piers.

7. What is the cost of each of such docks and piers, and what revenue do they produce to the State?

The docking facilities used by the Union Iron Works are not operated for commercial purposes, and therefore produce no revenue to the State. They are used solely for the building and launching of vessels, and their cost is unknown.

The Western Sugar Refining Company use the docks and piers, which were built by them, as an adjunct to their business, viz.: the importation and refinement of sugar. They produce no revenue to the State and their cost is unknown.

By the extension of the seawall, as is proposed, both of these docking facilities will come under the jurisdiction of the State, and will then be subject to tolls and wharfage rates, the same as other State docks.

8. What is the total number of piers and docks in your bay, how are they constructed, and what are their estimated lives?

The docking facilities of the harbor consist of thirty-one (31) projecting piers, in addition to which there is 6,629 lineal feet of bulkhead wharf.

The older piers, of which there are nineteen (19), are constructed of preserved piles with wooden caps, joists, and floorings; twelve (12) of more modern construction rest on huge concrete cylinders, eight (8) of which have wooden caps, joists, and flooring, and four (4) of which have heavy steel caps over the cylinders.

The estimated lives of the piers built on preserved piling and having wooden superstructures is from seven (7) to eight (8) years, after the expiration of which time extensive repairs are necessary. The life of a pier built on concrete cylinders is indeterminable and of indefinite length, some having been put in over thirteen (13) years ago are still standing and are apparently as good as ever as regards foundation.

9. What is the aggregate length of the piers and docks now in use?

The aggregate length of the piers and docks now in use is 18,600 feet, exclusive of the 6,629 feet of bulkhead wharf above mentioned.

10. What has been the cost of construction of your piers and docks?

Owing to the diversified forms of construction employed in the erection of docks and piers it has been deemed best to classify the answer to this question according to the mode of construction used, as follows:

A dock constructed of unpreserved or green piles will cost approximately fifty ($0.50) cents per square foot.

If constructed on preserved piling the cost will be about eighty ($0.80) cents per square foot.

If constructed on cylinders piers, with wooden caps, joists, and flooring the cost will be about one and ($1.25) 25-100 dollars per square foot.

If constructed on cylinder piers with steel caps and wooden joists and flooring the cost will be between one and ($1.60) 60-100 dollars and two and ($2.20) 20-100 dollars per square foot.

An amount of approximately thirty ($0.30) cents per square foot should be added to the above prices if the pier is to be covered with a wooden shed.

A dock constructed on cylinder piers with steel caps and having a reinforced concrete flooring and an iron fireproof shed, will cost approximately two and ($2.90) 90-100 dollars per square foot.

It is understood, of course, that the prices given above are subject to variation, according to the demands of labor and the cost of material.

11. What is the present condition of your docks and piers?

The docks and piers constructed on concrete cylinder piers, that is, on piles protected by concrete piers, are in good condition; those on preserved piles are in every condition from good to that of being on the verge of collapse.

12. Are your dock facilities adequate for all demands of the trade at any season of the year?

The docking facilities of this port are inadequate in so far as they do not permit of specific assignment of wharves to regular lines of steamers, which is deemed desirable.

13. What pier improvements are needed in your harbor?

The seawall must be extended from the Union Depot Ferry House to Pier 42, a distance of 5,160 feet. One thousand feet of this wall extending northerly from Pier 42 is now nearing completion. Abutting this wall there will be built three of the most modern type of concrete fireproof piers. This work should be followed by the reconstruction of at least twelve of the old piers and the addition of four new ones, all extending to the pierhead line. This work will cost ultimately $5,000,000, and will acquire in seawall lots alone property worth at least $2,000,000. The pierhead line should be redrawn to include the whole of China Basin, followed by twelve or more piers to serve the Potrero and Mission sections.

All of the old piers north of the ferry house must be modernized as dilapidation demands at a cost of over $2,000,000. A solid wall pier should be built to the pierhead line from the neighborhood of the foot of Taylor street to protect modern docks required between Lombard and Taylor streets. The seawall should be extended westerly from Taylor and East streets to the Government reservation at Black Point, thus acquiring valuable seawall lots and pier sites demanded by commercial extension along Black Beach.

Ultimately Central Basin must be enclosed by the seawall, with a drawbridge as provided in the law, and thence extend to the intersection of Islais Creek.

14. What would be the approximate cost of such needed improvements?

The work above outlined, if done in permanent manner, will cost approximately $20,000,000.

15. What improvements, if any, are expected to be made by the Federal Government; state character and probable cost of same?

The Federal Government will probably cause the removal of two small rocks near Mission Rock.

16. What steps, if any, has the Federal Government taken towards making such improvements?

The Federal Government has made surveys and estimates of this work, but the results are not obtainable.

17. What is private enterprise doing toward developing the shipping facilities of your port, and building up its commerce?

Private enterprise is doing nothing toward developing shipping or commerce, except the Western Pacific Railway Company, who contemplate the construction of terminal facilities along Islais Creek. To date there has been approximately 14,000 yards of material placed for a mole. The aforesaid company own approximately $6,000,000 worth of property in this section of the city, and contemplate its development for an Oriental terminal. Ultimately this will mean the expenditure of an enormous sum of money, and as a natural consequence the shipping of the port will receive an impetus.

18. What has been the annual cost of maintenance of your docks and piers?

The average annual cost of maintenance for the docks and piers in San Francisco Bay for the last twenty-five years has been approximately $170,000 per year. This amount does not include dredging.

19. If wood and piling have been used in the construction of piers and docks, what is the average life of the piling?

Piers and docks constructed on preserved piles last seven (7) or eight (8) years. On green piles from three (3) to six (6) years.

20. What are your dockage charges?

The port charges in San Francisco are extremely moderate and bear favorable comparison with those of any port in the world.

The following dockage charges are quoted from "Harbor Rules, Regulations, and Rates, adopted by the Board of State Harbor Commissioners, San Francisco, 1906," and to which reference is hereby made:

RATES OF DOCKAGE.

Each rate is for a day of twenty-four (24) hours, or any part thereof, including Sundays, holidays, and rainy days.

61. For all ocean vessels, steam or sail, and all sail vessels, steamboats, and barges navigating the bay of San Francisco and the rivers and other waters flowing into it, of two hundred net registered tons or under, 2 cents per ton; for all such vessels of over two hundred net registered tons, $4 for the first two hundred tons, and three quarters of a cent for each additional ton.

Full rates should be charged as follows:

62. (1) Vessels with cargo on board docking at wharf while discharging cargo.

(2) Vessels with cargo on board docking at wharf while discharging or taking on passengers and baggage.

(3) Vessels with no cargo on board docking at wharf while discharging passengers and baggage.

(4) Vessels with cargo on board docking at wharf while taking on stores, supplies, or fuel oil for fuel for such vessel.

(5) Vessels with cargo on board docking at wharf while lying idle.

(6) Vessels that are engaged in towing.

(7) Vessels that are not engaged in carrying freight or passengers.

Half rates shall be charged as follows:

63. (1) Vessels with no cargo on board docking at a wharf while loading cargo.

(2) Vessels with no cargo on board docking at a wharf while receiving passengers or receiving stores, supplies, or fuel oil for fuel for such vessel.

(3) Vessels with cargo on board docking at a wharf while taking on a reasonable amount of cargo, exclusive of stores, supplies, or fuel oil for fuel for such vessel.

(4) Vessels with no cargo on board while lying idle at a wharf.

(5) Vessels while receiving or discharging ballast or receiving stiffening.

(6) Vessels either discharging, loading, or lying idle while occupying outside berths.

(7) Vessels while moored in docks, slips, basins, or canals.

(8) Vessels engaged in towing and vessels not engaged in carrying freight and passengers not entitled to half rates.

64. When the per diem dockage of a vessel, as above described, is not a multiple of five, it must be reduced or increased, as the case may be, to the nearest such multiple; provided, that if it be equally near to two such multiples, it must be increased to the first such multiple above.

65. All bills for dockage must be paid when due, whether approved by the master or not. Failure to pay said bills on presentation will subject the vessels to be placed on the delinquent list, and to the penalties provided by law. Errors, if any, will be rectified by the board.

66. When a vessel of any kind is charged or has paid dockage at a wharf for any day, she may use the same or any other wharf during that day without further charge, no matter how often she may leave and return: provided, a receipt for payment or transfer card from the wharfinger at the first wharf be produced, and on application of the master the wharfinger is required to issue such transfer card.

RATES OF DOCKAGE ON LIGHTERS.

66a. A lighter is understood to be a vessel which has neither power nor steering equipment.

REPORT OF JOINT COMMITTEE ON HARBORS.

67. A dockage rate of 1 cent per ton net tonnage per day will be charged on all lighters in the following cases:

- (1) When discharging or loading at a wharf.
- (2) When discharging into or loading from a vessel lying at a wharf or in a slip with or without cargo on board.
- (3) When transporting from a wharf to a vessel, or from a vessel to a wharf, but one dockage charge will be made per day.

21. What is the cost of handling freight per ton?

For an answer to this question, the following is quoted from the "Harbor Rules, Regulations," etc., above mentioned:

RATES OF TOLL.

Both a discharging and a loading toll shall be imposed on all merchandise (including vessels' stores and supplies and fuel oil for such vessels) except where otherwise specified, and must be paid by the vessel discharging or loading same.

68. A ton is by weight 2,000 pounds, unless otherwise specified; by measurement, 40 cubic feet.

69. Merchandise, for the purpose of tolls or wharfage, must be computed by weight or measurement, as the one mode or the other will give the greater number of tons.

70. Of the following articles 2,240 pounds constitute a ton: coal, railroad iron, pig iron, gypsum, asphaltum, ores, crude or boiled sulphur, paving stones, sand, and ballast.

TOLLS PER TON.

71. On merchandise (except where otherwise specified) including vessels' stores and supplies and coal and fuel oil for such vessel, per ton, 5 cents.

On flour, grain, and millstuffs, 5 cents.

On 400 pounds or less, 1 cent.

On 800 pounds or less and more than 400 pounds, 2 cents.

On 1,200 pounds or less and more than 800 pounds, 3 cents.

On 1,600 pounds or less and more than 1,200 pounds, 4 cents.

On 2,000 pounds or less and more than 1,600 pounds, 5 cents.

Tolls on merchandise when measured or charged a higher rate, to be collected according to the foregoing subdivisions.

TOLLS CHARGED OTHERWISE THAN BY THE TON.

72. On the following articles tolls must be paid as follows:

On fir, redwood, spruce, and all softwood lumber, per 1,000 feet, board measure, 10 cents.

On oak, hickory, ash, and all hardwood lumber, per 1,000 feet, board measure, 20 cents.

On lumber or timber discharged in the water in any slip, dock, basin, or canal, the same as if discharged on a wharf.

On piles discharged on any slip, dock, basin, or canal, per pile, 6 cents.

On fence posts, per 100, 10 cents.

On railroad ties, per 1,000 feet of lumber, board measure, contained therein (32 or 24 feet to a tie, according to size), 10 cents.

On shingles, per 40 bundles, 10 cents.

On laths, per 60 bundles, 10 cents.

On shakes, per 100 bundles, 10 cents.

75. Grain, flour, millstuffs, beans, and seeds will be subject at all wharves to the same rules and rates of tolls and wharfage as are imposed on other merchandise.

Amendment to Rule 75. Grain, flour, millstuffs, beans, and seeds may remain on the wharves at Sections Nos. 1 and 2 of the seawall until five o'clock P. M. on the third day after discharge, free of wharfage charge; for the next five days, or any part thereof, there shall be a wharfage charge of 5 cents per ton; to each additional day thereafter the wharfage charge shall be 5 cents per ton; provided, that where any owner or consignee fails or refuses to pay, on demand, bills rendered for wharfage, or refuses to comply with other rules and regulations of the Board of State Harbor Commissioners, the provisions of Rule 82 shall apply and become immediately effective as to such owner or consignee.

76. The term "grain" is intended to and does include wheat, barley, oats, corn, and rye; the term "flour" includes only the flour of wheat, and "millstuffs" includes only bran, middlings, shorts, and ground feed.

78. No tolls will be charged on donkey engines or stevedores' tolls when taken on the wharf for the purpose of loading or discharging a vessel, nor on milk, butcher, baker, ice, or laundry supplies furnished daily to vessels.

79. Merchandise landed on a wharf and not removed therefrom, may be reshipped from the same wharf without payment of further toll, but the wharfage, if any due thereon, must be paid.

80. Merchandise, except bricks (other than fire bricks), discharged from a vessel lying at any wharf or within any slip, into lighters or other vessels, is subject to the same rates of tolls as if discharged on or loaded from a wharf.

81. When tolls have been paid on merchandise, on its being discharged from a vessel it may be landed thence on a wharf, or discharged into another vessel, without the payment of further tolls; except bricks (other than fire bricks), which shall be charged as follows: On bricks, 5 cents per one thousand.

In addition to the above specified tolls a charge for stevedoring should be added, amounting to between thirty ($0.30) cents and forty-five ($0.45) cents per ton.

22. What warehouse charges are made on the piers and docks?

Reference is again made to "Harbor Rules, Regulations," etc., from which the following is quoted:

WHARFAGE.

82. Merchandise must be removed from the wharf before five o'clock P. M. on the day following the one on which it was placed thereon; but wharfingers are hereby authorized, when the owners or consignees of merchandise desire it, and it can be done without interfering with the business of the wharf, to allow merchandise to remain on the wharf after the prescribed time, a wharfage charge equal to an additional toll for every forty-eight hours or part thereof. If merchandise be not removed within twenty-four hours after notice by the wharfinger, it shall be liable to the penalties of Section 2524 of the Political Code.

Exception to Rule 82: Lumber discharged from vessels carrying 500,000 feet, board measure, or over, and from vessels of no lesser capacity, may remain on wharf until five o'clock p. m. of the third day following its discharge. Then and thereafter all provisions of Rule 82 shall be effective and must be enforced. This exception to Rule 82 to become effective July 31, 1907, and to continue in force until further notice.

23. What are the demurrage charges for the first twenty-four hours?

This question is answered by Rule 82 above quoted.

24. How many vessels can secure dockage facilities at one time?

This question is not entirely clear, the answer depending entirely upon the tonnage of the vessels. Certain piers in this port will accommodate four large ships, while the same pier will accommodate several steam schooners. It is estimated, however, that from one hundred and eighty to two hundred vessels can secure berth room.

25. Are dockage facilities ample, or nearly so, for the present demands?

Owing to present national financial conditions, and local shipping labor conditions, the dockage facilities of this port are at the present time ample for needs of trade. The demands of commerce made on this port, however, are so excessive that to comply with them would take years of time and millions of money. By constant re-arrangement of berth space, the facilities of this port are now accommodating the commerce. This answer should not, however, be taken as a criterion of future development of trade.

26. Are your tide lands owned by the State or private individuals?

The State owns no tide lands in San Francisco Bay whatever, except the land acquired by the construction of the seawall, commonly termed seawall lots. The tide lands of the bay were sold by the State under the Tide Lands Act.

27. If portions of your tide lands are owned by individuals, give the area as nearly as possible of private ownership and its location.

The approximate area of private ownership of tide lands is four (4) square miles, and extends along the entire water front to the Presidio.

28. What are the dockage and shipping charges proposed by owners of private docks and piers?

No dockage or shipping charges are proposed by owners of private docks and piers, as the facilities under private ownership are used solely in connection with the business of the owners.

29. From what ports is freight received, foreign and domestic?

From all ports in the United States and the world.

30. What is the amount of freight in tonnage shipped to domestic and foreign ports? Give aggregate in each case.

During the year ending June 30, 1907, there was shipped from San Francisco to foreign ports 1,613,872 tons of freight. During the same period there was shipped to domestic ports 2,744,776 tons.

31. What is the amount of tonnage annually received?

The average tonnage for the past five years has been 3,506,395 tons per year.

32. What is the amount of tonnage annually shipped?

The average tonnage shipped for the past five years has been 3,476,395 tons per year.

33. How many steam vessels entered your port during the year 1907. Give tonnage.

During the year ending December 31, 1907, there were docked at the port of San Francisco 6,900 steam vessels, with a total tonnage of 3,895,454. Of this number 2,937 were bay and river craft, and the balance, or 3,963, were deep seagoing vessels. This does not include the ferry boats which ply between the city of San Francisco and trans-bay points, which make 170 trips daily and carry 100,000 passengers.

34. How many sail vessels with tonnage entered your port during the same period?

For the calendar year ending December 31, 1907, there were docked at the port of San Francisco 748 sail vessels, with a total tonnage of 720,140. Of this number 729 were deep seagoing vessels and 19 bay and river craft of over ninety tons registered measurement.

35. What are your leading imports?

The leading imports of the port of San Francisco are cereal products, coal, iron, lumber, cement, gravel, shingles, shakes, laths, bricks, glass, hemp, sugar, cotton, tobacco, pelts, whale oil, petroleum, and products, tropical fruits, hardwoods, nitre, and all other general merchandise.

Manufactured products of all kinds, flour, hay, malt, liquors, wines, canned goods, canned and dried fruits, fresh and citrus fruits, etc.

37. Where private parties own the water front land, can the title be secured by the State at reasonable prices without condemnation?

It is not necessary for the State to secure title to tide lands of private ownership, as the construction of the seawall creates the State's own water front.

38. What railroads have spurs to or on the piers and docks, and to what extent is there interference with the convenience of the public?

The Southern Pacific Company have spurs on Piers 42 and 44. The Atchison, Topeka and Santa Fe Railway Company have spurs on Piers 26 and 28. The public is interfered with only to the extent that traffic is sometimes delayed by switching cars across the street in front of these docks.

39. What interior territory in this or adjoining states may be economically served by shipping to or from your port?

All of the Sacramento and San Joaquin valleys from Shasta on the north to Bakersfield on the south; every navigable river in the State; and the entire state of Nevada.

40. What are the immediate prospects of an increase of the shipping of your port? The immediate prospects are good, and a lively increase in shipping may be expected within the next month or two, and to continue indefinitely.

41. What are your warehouse and railroad facilities for handling freight?

The warehouse facilities have recently been augmented by the erection of a grain warehouse 1,000 feet long by 80 feet wide. Exception to Rule 75, above quoted, applies to grain discharged at this point. As stated above, the sheds on the wharves are used for warehouse purposes for a stated period of time. (See answer to question 22, Rule 82.) As an adjunct to the docks the State owns and operates what is known as the belt railroad, with four miles of trackage, connected with which are about two miles of private spurs in addition. This railroad receives car loads from transbay railroads and distributes them among the freight houses, warehouses, and factories around the water front. Over 50,000 loaded cars were handled on the belt railroad during the past year. A uniform rate of $2.50 per loaded car is charged for this service.

42. What are the prospects of an immediate enlargement of such facilities?

The construction of the seawall contemplated will enlarge the shipping field, which will, of necessity, have to be served by the belt railroad, thus demanding an enlargement of this facility.

43. What, if any, suggestions have you to make to existing laws regulating harbors?

It is to be regarded that existing laws, while holding the Harbor Commission responsible for any abuse of State property, does not give it sufficient control over the same for the abatement of nuisances. A striking illustration of this has recently been presented to the traveling public, when certain daily newspapers of this city set decency and good order at naught.

The case in question has been reported upon by Commissioner W. E. Dennison, acting as a committee of one on abuses of privileges connected with the approaches to the ferry building. Mr. Dennison submitted the following report:

"In recognition of the necessity of having free and unassailed passage through the union depot and ferry house of San Francisco, used daily by more than 100,000 people, the Board of State Harbor Commissioners on November 21, 1907, established and marked lines defining a strip 12 feet wide along the curb of the north and south wings and all of the space about the main facade to a distance at least 100 feet from the building. All vehicles standing for hire, except street cars, and all itinerant persons soliciting baggage or passengers, or selling or crying for sale wares or merchandise of every kind, including newspapers and racing programmes, were ordered to remain beyond said lines. During inclement weather only were the news vendors allowed the shelter of the building.

"For a period of fifty-six days the public enjoyed a peace and freedom at the main gateway of this city that had never before been known. No resistance was made to the regulation until the afternoon of January 16, 1908, when a mob of more than 100 crossed the lines and defied the police. The regular newsboys were reinforced and led by hoodlums from 16 to 22 years of age, carrying papers. After unavailing efforts to keep back the offenders the police made a number of arrests in the most humane manner.

"When the first of these offenders was brought to trial in the police court the State's attorney for the Board was curtly denied by the district attorney the customary privilege of appearing for that official in the interests of the State. Therefore a presentation of the case from the standpoint of this Board was not permitted. The case was dismissed without even as much as a reprimand, save for the Board of State Harbor Commissioners and its officers.

"In the absence of a fixed penalty for this particular violation of a sound regulation, made solely in the interest of a long-suffering public, the police court and the district attorney's deputy derided the efforts of the Board and through it the State of California."

The laws should be amended so that a proper end would be accomplished, and in case of conflict with municipal authorities the matter should be adjusted in the State courts.

Laws should be made compelling the Pilot Commission to make its report to the Governor of the State or the State Legislature, and the pilot charges of the port should be materially reduced. As a remedy we would suggest that the pilots be placed on monthly salaries instead of fees, and a nominal charge, if any, be made against incoming and outgoing vessels.

44. What, in your opinion, is it practical for the State to do to assist in the building up of commerce at your port?

Authorize the issuance of sufficient bonds to make the required improvements, moderately anticipating the wants of commerce.

45. If improvements are made by the State, should they, in the judgment of your business men, be made by direct appropriation or by the issue of bonds bearing a low rate of interest, and covering a period of many years?

By the latter.

46. What are your pilotage charges?

The rates of pilotage into and out of the harbor of San Francisco are as follows (Section 2466, Political Code): "All vessels under 500 tons $3 per foot draught; all vessels over 500 tons $3 per foot draught, and 3 cents per ton for each and every ton registered measurement. * * * In all cases where inward bound vessels are not spoken until inside of the bar the rates of pilotage herein provided shall be reduced 50 per cent. Vessels engaged in the whaling or fishing trades shall be exempt from all pilotage except where a pilot is actually employed."

The pilotage inside the heads to the anchorage opposite San Francisco and about the harbor, or between the harbor of San Francisco and the ports of Mare Island, Vallejo, and Benecia, must be at such rates as agreed upon between the parties, not to exceed $5 per foot draught.

The Legislature of 1903 amended the law reducing the rates of pilotage into and out of the harbor of San Francisco from $5 per foot draught to $3 per foot draught, and from 4 cents per ton registered measurement to 3 cents per ton.

47. What obstacles, if any, have shipping interests to contend with in your port?

The vessels docking at the port of San Francisco have to pay an extraordinarily high rate for the water they use. There is also an absence of warehouse facilities along the water front, which tends to increase merchandise cost. In addition to this there is a total lack of any facilities for handling bulk freight. A limited number of power cranes should be installed on the wharves.

48. If, in your opinion, any of the fixed charges on shipping can be reduced, please make suggestions as to the best method of accomplishing such reduction.

The shipping charges of the port are reasonable and bear favorable comparison with shipping charges of any of the world's ports. There should be no reduction in such charges until such time as the improvements contemplated are completed.

49. Have any private persons or corporations attempted to monopolize the shipping facilities of your port or your water frontage? if so, state what persons or corporations, and what, if anything, has been done to prevent such monopoly?

We have no knowledge of any such attempt either by private individuals or corporations; in fact, it would not be possible under the law.

Respectfully submitted.

W. V. STAFFORD,

President Board of State Harbor Commissioners.

REPORT OF THE BOARD OF STATE HARBOR COMMISSIONERS, SAN DIEGO, CAL.

SAN DIEGO, CAL., March 2, 1908.

1. What is the depth of water over the bar at the entrance to harbor?

The channel on the bar is 250 feet wide and 28 feet deep.

2. What is the average depth of channel in the harbor, and what is the area of anchorage ground?

The channel in the harbor is from 30 to 50 feet deep. The available area of anchorage in the bay of San Diego, which I assume to be that part of the deep water within the 26-foot contour is, as near as can be determined from the small scale maps published by the Government, 9.2 square miles.

3. What is the average depth inside the bay at piers and docks, or where piers and docks may be constructed?

The depth of the pierhead line is rarely less than 25 feet, usually over 30 feet. All wharves should terminate at the pierhead line.

4. How many piers and docks in your harbor are owned and operated by the State?

The State has no wharves in the bay.

5. How many piers and docks owned by the State are leased to private persons or corporations?

The State owns no wharves in the bay, and therefore can lease none.

6. How many piers and docks are owned and operated by private individuals or corporations?

There are nine large wharves, all private ownership; there are ten small wharves, foot wharves. The Federal Government has a small wharf at Fort Rosencrans and a quarantine wharf, with buildings, at La Playa.

7. What is the cost of each of such docks and piers, and what revenue do they produce to the State?

	Cost.	Rent per Year.
Santa Fe wharf.....	$200,000 00	$360 00
Pacific Coast Steamship Company.....	50,000 00	600 00

Coronado Beach Company, ferry wharf.....	75,000 00	96 00
Coronado Beach Company, commercial wharf..	25,000 00	72 00

8. What is the total number of piers and docks in your bay, how are they constructed, and what are their estimated lives?

There are nine large wharves in the bay. The piers or wharves constructed on the bay of San Diego are, without any exception, wooden structures supported on piling. The wharf known as the "Spreckels wharf" is really the only one that can be considered in good condition. The life of any timber structure upon this bay is limited to the activity of the teredo and limnora. As a general thing, no piling will last for a longer period than two years unless it be well protected with hydraulic cement concrete, or is a piling treated with creosotum, or some other preservative agent. Under the best of condition no timber structure will last without a large amount of expenditure for maintenance.

9. What is the aggregate length of the piers and docks now in use?

1. The wharf of the Atchison, Topeka and Santa Fe Railway Company is 40 feet wide at the shore end. It extends into the bay about 2,500 feet, on an easy curve. At the extreme end it is 74 feet wide. About 500 feet from the shore a spur extends westward 800 feet long. The deep water end of the shore is 72 feet wide.

2. The wharf of the Pacific Coast Steamship Company extends into the waters of the bay 1,917 feet, and at the outer end has a head or T 115 feet wide and 415 feet long.

3. The wharf of the Spreckels Bros. Commercial Company extends into the waters of the bay 2,000 feet. It is 75 feet wide at the outer end. The Spreckels coal bunkers are on this wharf.

4. The wharf of the San Diego Lumber Company extends into the waters of the bay 2,038 feet, and at the outer end has a head 75 feet wide by 250 feet long.

5. The wharf of the Russ Lumber and Mill Company is 500 feet wide and extends into the waters of the bay 450 feet.

6. The wharf of Jorres & Son extends into the waters of the bay about 2,050 feet. The head at the outer end is 500 feet long and 80 feet wide.

7. The wharf of the Standard Oil Company is located 2,000 feet out from the shore, and is 200 feet long and 10 feet wide. A pipe line extends from the shore to the wharf.

8. The wharf of the Coronado Beach Company is located on the Coronado side of the bay; it contains the slip for the Coronado ferry. It is 350 feet wide and extends into the bay 300 feet.

9. The commercial wharf of the Coronado Beach Company is located on the Coronado side of the bay. It is 100 feet wide and extends into the bay 200 feet.

10. What has been the cost of construction of your piers and docks?

The answer is given in the answer to Question No. 7.

11. What is the present condition of your docks and piers?

The wharves are all in good condition for traffic, except the wharf owned by Jorres & Son, which is in very bad condition, and mostly fallen down.

12. Are your dock facilities adequate for all demands of the trade at any season of the year?

The present wharf facilities seem to be sufficient for all business demands at the present time.

13. What pier improvements are needed in your harbor?

The commissioners think that a wharf owned by the State, which might be used by all persons and companies not having wharf facilities of their own in the bay, would greatly increase the value of this port in the minds of shippers and seafaring men as a shipping point.

14. What would be the approximate cost of such needed improvements?

A new wharf for the State would cost approximately $100,000.

15. What improvements, if any, are expected to be made by the Federal Government; state character and probable cost of same?

The Federal Government is building a naval coaling station in the bay; the cost will probably be $250,000. A bill has been introduced in Congress this term appropriating $259,750 to build a dry dock and for other work in the bay.

16. What steps, if any, has the Federal Government taken toward making such improvements?

The coaling station is now in course of construction.

17. What is private enterprise doing toward developing the shipping facilities of your port, and building up its commerce?

No answer.

18. What has been the annual cost of maintenance of your docks and piers?

The wharves in San Diego Bay cost annually about $11,700.

19. If wood and piling have been used in the construction of piers and docks, what is the average life of the piling?

Piling properly treated with creosote and cement will last fifteen to twenty years. If piling is not properly treated it will not last longer than from three to five years. The limnora and teredo destroy the piles.

20. What are your dockage charges?

Per day, one cent per ton for 200 tons or less; three quarters of a cent per ton for balance, net register tonnage.

21. What is the cost of handling freight per ton?

Freight is unloaded from ship and loaded into cars. Merchandise, 50 cents per ton; lumber, 75 cents per thousand feet; ties, 60 cents per thousand feet.

22. What warehouse charges are made on the piers and docks?

Warehouse charges on wharves depend on the commodities, time and other conditions, and are made by contract.

23. What are the demurrage charges for the first twenty-four hours?

There are no demurrage charges. Regular dockage is charged when a vessel lies alongside a wharf, whether she discharges or not.

24. How many vessels can secure dockage facilities at one time?

The full capacity of all the wharves, under favorable conditions, is twenty-four vessels at one time.

25. Are dockage facilities ample, or nearly so, for the present demands?

There is sufficient room at the wharves for all vessels that come into the bay at the present.

26. Are your tide lands owned by the State or private individuals?

The State owns nearly all the tide lands.

27. If portions of your tide lands are owned by individuals, give the area as nearly as possible of private ownership and its location?

The Coronado Beach Company owns tide lands on a portion of North Island. We have no data giving the area.

28. What are the dockage and shipping charges proposed by owners of private docks and piers?

No answer.

29. From what ports is freight received, foreign and domestic?

Imports from foreign countries are mostly from France, Germany, England, Ireland, Mexico, British Columbia, Chili, Japan, Hongkong. Imports from ports in the United States are mostly from New York and from Pacific coast ports.

30. What is the amount of freight in tonnage shipped to domestic and foreign ports? Give aggregate in each case.

No answer.

31. What is the amount of tonnage annually received?

During 1907, 73,057 tons; 64,688,700 feet of lumber.

32. What is the amount of tonnage annually shipped?

1907, 10,976 tons.

33. How many steam vessels entered your port during the year 1907? Give tonnage.

Four hundred and twenty-three.

34. How many sail vessels with tonnage entered your port during the same period?

Eighty. Of the total tonnage of vessels entering, amounting to 128,008, 73,057 tons were left at this port.

35. What are your leading imports?

The principal articles of import are coal, coke, pig iron, cement, domestic animals, copper, matte, hides, guano, bran, onyx, fire brick, lumber, flour, feed, structural iron, iron pipe, machinery, groceries, dry goods, and leather goods.

36. What are your leading exports?

Honey, tallow, hides, pelts, fish, wool, oranges, lemons, and grain.

37. Where private parties own the water front land, can the title be secured by the State at reasonable prices without condemnation?

So small a portion of the water front and tide lands is owned by private parties, and this at such favorable locations, that it is very unlikely they would be willing to sell to the State.

38. What railroads have spurs to or on the piers and docks, and to what extent is there interference with the convenience of the public?

The Atchison, Topeka and Santa Fe Railway Company has tracks on its own wharf and on the Spreckels Bros.' wharf; these tracks do not inconvenience the public.

39. What interior territory in this or adjoining states may be economically served by shipping to or from your port?

San Diego Bay is the natural and best port of entry for all the territory south of Tehachapi and eastward of southern California, including Arizona, New Mexico, Utah, Colorado, and Kansas.

40. What are the immediate prospects of an increase of the shipping of your port?

The commerce of the port of San Diego is growing rapidly at present, owing to the rapid development of southern California. When the Isthmian Canal is opened we anticipate that very great amounts of the products of southern California will be shipped to the Atlantic coast through this port and the canal; and that great quantities of merchandise from the cities of the Atlantic coast and from Europe, which is destined for southern California and territory eastward, will be shipped through the Isthmian Canal and will be entered at this port; also that large quantities of the products of the Orient shipped to the United States will be entered at this port.

41. What are your warehouse and railroad facilities for handling freight?

There is at present only one transcontinental railroad reaching the shores of this bay, the Atchison, Topeka and Santa Fe. This company has a large warehouse and a large platform on its wharf.

The Pacific Coast Steamship Company has a large warehouse on its wharf and one on the shore.

The Spreckels Bros.' Company has a large warehouse on the shore near its wharf.

42. What are the prospects of an immediate enlargement of such facilities?

We do not know that there will be an increase of warehouse facilities soon. We think there will be a large increase within two or three years, when the San Diego and Arizona Railroad is built.

43. What, if any, suggestions have you to make to existing laws regulating harbors?

We have no suggestions to make at the present time as to the laws governing harbors. Any suggestions and recommendations which are the results of our experience and mature thought which we may wish to make will be presented in our next biennial report, in October, 1908. [This report was printed in December, 1908.]

44. What, in your opinion, is it practical for the State to do to assist in the building up of commerce at your port?

We think that a wharf owned and controlled by the State, and the building of a portion of the bulkhead or seawall, will tend greatly to increase the business of this port.

45. If improvements are made by the State, should they, in the judgment of your business men, be made by direct appropriation or by the issue of bonds bearing a low rate of interest and covering a period of many years?

The business men of San Diego would prefer that bonds of long term and low rate of interest should be issued for improvements in the harbor, rather than that a direct appropriation should be made for the purpose.

46. What are your pilotage charges?

No answer.

47. What obstacles, if any, have shipping interests to contend with in your port?

Excepting cheap and ready transportation to the interior of the county, there are no great obstacles to shipping interests here.

48. If, in your opinion, any of the fixed charges on shipping can be reduced, please make suggestions as to the best method of accomplishing such reduction.

The building of a wharf by the State is probably the only practical and effective way to secure low rates of dockage, etc., for transient or other shipping not in possession of a wharf in this bay.

49. Have any private persons or corporations attempted to monopolize the shipping facilities of your port or your water frontage; if so, state what persons or corporations, and what, if anything, has been done to prevent such monopoly.

The Santa Fe wharf, by reason of its location and form, covers 1,900 feet of water front.

TIDE LANDS.

In the Matter of Tide Lands of the Bay of San Diego, California, the Title to Which Is Disputed as Against the State.

Witnesses who claim to have known portions of the shore line of the bay of San Diego during the past thirty years, have gone over the ground along what they claim is the original line of mean high tide (before fills were made on the tide lands) from South Twenty-first street to Atlantic street in the city of San Diego, California. A map has been made of that portion of the water front, showing the line claimed by these witnesses as the original line of mean high tide. This line is practically the same as the line laid down by Lockling in his map of Horton's Addition to San Diego, made in 1870, and filed in the office of the recorder of the county of San Diego, State of California, in June, 1871, by A. E. Horton.

The Commissioners intend to have the testimony of these witnesses perpetuated by having the witnesses examined before a court commissioner. After this matter is concluded, the Commissioners think they may be able to proceed with confidence to enforce the claims of the State to these tide lands.

HUMBOLDT BAY.

The secretary of the Eureka Board of Harbor Commissioners made a statistical report for 1907, which was sent to the joint legislative committee in lieu of the detailed report asked for. It was evidently thought that a comprehensive review of the business done, aided by a personal inspection on the part of the committee of the facilities of the port, would enable its members to arrive at a wise conclusion in the making up of its report and the accompanying recommendations.

The business done from this port was principally with coast points. There was in connection with this a valuable and constantly growing trade with the Hawaiian Islands, the Central American States, the South American ports, and with England and Australia. Naturally exports constituted the bulk of the business done by water, Eureka being the center of large manufacturing enterprises. The shipments of lumber (lumber proper, shingles and shakes reduced to lumber feet) were 341,350,188 feet, valued at $6,025,412; to this valuation should be added $1,679,386 for other forest products, making a total of $7,704,798. Were this all, Eureka might be considered an important port on the California coast, well up to the front of the list, but there is more in the way of exports. Adding the 14,589 tons of animals, dairy, farm and ranch, orchard, fish, game and miscellaneous products, valued at $2,022,991, there is a grand total of $9,727,789 in manufactures and products originating at this one port.

The importations for the year 1907 amounted to $3,680,114, and the arriving and departing passengers numbered 32,617.

Some estimate of the importance of the shipping business in Humboldt Bay may be obtained from the following figures of earnings, the true index of the carrying trade:

Lumber, domestic ports.....	$1,219,307
Lumber, foreign ports.....	146,093
Other exports.....	53,230
Import freight.....	216,477
Passenger earnings.....	293,553
Total	$1,928,660

The business of Humboldt Bay (Eureka) has been carried on at great disadvantage at times, so far as shipping is concerned. The bay has a depth of from 27 to 49 feet in many places, while a depth of 51 feet is often found. There is a mean depth of 34 feet in large areas of anchorage, in which there is ample room for an unlimited number of vessels, provided those of larger tonnage could reach these favored basins at all times. There are, however, several "hogbacks" in the channel, separating these basins, on which may be found a mean depth of but 14 feet of water. There are three of these "hogbacks" interfering very materially with free navigation except for vessels of light draft. A judicious amount of dredging would make all these deeper basins available for the largest ocean vessels. The Federal Government is expending $75,000 in the channel in front of the city, but more than this is required to make practical the entire harbor. The dredging of these "hogbacks," which are of comparatively few feet across, would be the means of largely increasing a business now worth more than $15,000,000 annually. There is no deep water at the piers, but this can be secured without much trouble, and will be as soon as the anchorage ground of the bay is made available by proper dredging. Business reasons would lead the owners to prepare for the larger vessels as soon as the deeper basins may have been connected, thus extending the channel.

The future of Humboldt Bay is a promising one. At the present time lumber constitutes the major portion of the business, but the exportations of other commodities are annually increasing, and as in time the manufacture of lumber will naturally be decreased, there will be an even more valuable trade take its place, as shown by the exports other than lumber during the year 1907.

SAN PEDRO.

1. What is the depth of water over the bar at the entrance to harbor?

Twenty-two feet at low water.

2. What is the average depth of channel in the harbor, and what is the area of anchorage ground?

Average depth of water along the docks of inner harbor is 24 feet at low water. The anchorage ground is in the outer harbor, where there are about 700 acres inside the breakwater available for anchorage. Of this over 300 acres has a depth of 40 feet, and there are about 400 acres with an average of 30 feet.

On the northerly city limits the city of San Pedro has water frontage of over 5,000 feet in that vicinity on which no wharf franchise has been granted, but navigable channels have to be dredged to make this frontage available for shipping. The Federal Government has already dredged a navigable channel up to this frontage and this could be continued on in front of the city property. The Government is doing this dredging at a cost of eight cents a yard, as it owns the dredger.

No rock has to be excavated, all the excavating being done with a suction dredger and the dirt removed is used for reclaiming adjoining tide lands. On the east side of the inner harbor, in front of the city of San Pedro, the city owns a frontage of over 3,000 feet, in front of which there is now an average depth of 24 feet of water at low tide. Back of this, to the east, the Pacific Wharf and Storage Company is filling in an area of 86 acres. This work is nearing completion and will furnish the necessary grounds for railroad approach for the frontage referred to.

In the outer harbor the city owns a water frontage, including the inside of the breakwater, of over 30,000 feet, on which no wharf franchise has been granted. There are no tide lands, properly speaking, in the outer harbor; the area not available for purposes of navigation would properly be described as submerged lands. Of this class the city has granted to Randolph H. Miner the right to fill in 153 acres, but reserving the right to lay out streets over this fill whenever it may deem convenient, and has also reserved to itself a strip 1,480 feet long and 200 feet wide at the south end of the fill for dock and warehouse purposes.

The city has granted no wharf franchises with the privilege granted Miner, he simply getting a fifty years' lease on filled area.

A similar grant of 45 acres was made to H. E. Huntington on a narrow strip lying east of the Miner fill, and the conditions of the grant are practically the same in both cases.

On the west side of the harbor the city still owns about 214 acres of submerged lands, with a frontage of 8,000 feet, which could readily be filled in and made available for commercial purposes.

3. What is the average depth inside the bay at piers and docks, or where piers and docks may be constructed?

See answer to No. 2.

4. How many piers and docks in your harbor are owned and operated by the State?

None.

5. How many piers and docks owned by the State are leased to private persons or corporations?

None.

6. How many piers and docks are owned and operated by private individuals or corporations?

Nine wharves are operated by private parties and corporations, as follows:

Southern Pacific Railway Company.....	6,180 feet.
Wilmington Transportation Company.....	224 feet.
Northern Pacific Dock Company.....	420 feet.
San Pedro Lumber Company.....	1,550 feet.
Banning Wharf Company.....	200 feet.
Kerckhoff-Cuzner Lumber Company.....	809 feet.
National Lumber Company.....	350 feet.
Southern California Lumber Company.....	1,500 feet.
Crescent Wharf Company.....	800 feet.
Salt Lake Railway Company.....	3,000 feet.

7. What is the cost of each of such docks and piers, and what revenue do they produce to the State?

The State owns no wharf at San Pedro. The city of San Pedro now collects the tolls on the wharfs here, and this year they will amount to about $3,000.

8. What is the total number of piers and docks in your bay, how are they constructed, and what are their estimated lives?

The ordinary pile, unless creosoted or covered with concrete, does not last more than four or five years.

9. What is the aggregate length of the piers and docks now in use?

Fifteen thousand and seventy feet.

10. What has been the cost of construction of your piers and docks?

The average cost of a wharf in the inner harbor is about $40 per running foot. This, however, varies according to the material used in construction. The $40 refers to the ordinary piling.

11. What is the present condition of your docks and piers?

They are in good condition.

12. Are your dock facilities adequate for all demands of the trade at any season of the year?

The present dockage in the inner harbor is barely sufficient for present needs, and will soon have to be enlarged. In the outer harbor, which is now nearing completion and already available for the deepest vessel built, there are no docks, and deep draught vessels coming to this port have to anchor in the outer harbor and discharge enough of the cargo by lighters to reduce their draught to less than 24 feet, so as to enter alongside the docks of the inner harbor. This is one of the great drawbacks to the development of the commercial possibilities and needs of this port, and could be obviated by constructing docks in the outer harbor in 35 to 40 feet of water.

13. What pier improvements are needed in your harbor?

Docking facilities for deep water vessels in the outer harbor is the most immediate need.

14. What would be the approximate cost of such needed improvements?

Two million five hundred thousand dollars would make the needed improvement.

15. What improvements, if any, are expected to be made by the Federal Government; state character and probable cost of same?

The Federal Government engineers have recommended an appropriation of $287,000 to connect the west end of the breakwater with the shore, and an appropriation sufficient to deepen the bar and channel of the inner harbor to an average depth of 30 feet at low water is to be asked from the next Congress.

16. What steps, if any, has the Federal Government taken toward making such improvements?

Surveys have been made and a hearing held by the Government engineers at San Pedro to show the necessity therefor. The Federal Government has already spent nearly five millions here, and has made all the improvements excepting the docks, which are owned by private parties. The State has done nothing for this port excepting to attempt to grant away nineteen-twentieths of the tide lands to private parties. The city of San Pedro is now considering the advisability of constructing a tunnel under the city from its northerly limits to the deep water of the outer harbor on the south for the purpose of giving an easier entrance to railroads desiring to reach the outer harbor, where the State could construct wharves in 40 feet of water.

17. What is private enterprise doing toward developing the shipping facilities of your port, and building up its commerce?

The Southern Pacific Railroad Company has just completed a slip 250 feet wide, 1,860 feet long, with a depth of 35 feet of water at low tide. This slip is said to have cost over $500,000.

18. What has been the annual cost of maintenance of your docks and piers?

That depends on the type of construction. It now costs about $50,000 per year to care for all of the present wharves.

19. If wood and piling have been used in the construction of piers and docks, what is the average life of the piling?

Unless protected, about five years.

20. What are your dockage charges?

From $3.50 to $14.75 per day, based on tonnage. Vessels 200 tons and under, $3.50 per day, and 1,200 tons and over $14.75 per day.

21. What is the cost of handling freight per ton?

Fifty cents per ton.

22. What warehouse charges are made on the piers and docks?

No charge at present; there are no warehouses.

23. What are the demurrage charges for the first twenty-four hours?

According to agreement.

24. How many vessels can secure dockage facilities at one time?

About 60 vessels can work at one time at the wharves.

25. Are dockage facilities ample, or nearly so, for the present demands?

The docking facilities have now reached their limit and more are imperatively demanded.

26. Are your tide lands owned by the State or private individuals?

The State has attempted to grant nineteen-twentieths of the tide land to private individuals.

27. If portions of your tide lands are owned by individuals, give the area as nearly as possible of private ownership and its location?

Seventy-five acres within the city limits of San Pedro are claimed by private parties under tide land patents from the State. It is claimed, however, that these patents are void in most cases.

28. What are the dockage and shipping charges proposed by owners of private docks and piers?

The county board of supervisors fix these rates, to wit: $1 per ton on crude oil, coke, ores, grains, etc.; 60 cents on fruits, and merchandise $1.25 per ton; on lumber, 75 cents per 1,000 feet.

29. From what ports is freight received, foreign or domestic?

Coast trade with all ports, north and south, and trade with most all the foreign ports.

30. What is the amount of freight in tonnage shipped to domestic and foreign ports? Give aggregate in each case.

31. What is the amount of tonnage annually received?

32. What is the amount of tonnage annually shipped?

33. How many steam vessels entered your port during the year 1907? Give tonnage. Steamers, 1,217; net tonnage, 573,361.

34. How many sail vessels with tonnage entered your port during the same period? Sailing vessels, 385; net tonnage, 217,710.

35. What are your leading imports?

Lumber, cement, and general merchandise.

36. What are your leading exports?

Crude oil.

37. Where private parties own the water front land, can the title be secured by the State at reasonable prices without condemnation?

Yes.

38. What railroads have spurs to or in the piers and docks, and to what extent is there interference with the convenience of the public?

Salt Lake Railroad on the east side and Southern Pacific and Pacific Electric railroads on the San Pedro side.

39. What interior territory in this or adjoining states may be economically served by shipping to or from your port?

California to Fresno in the interior and San Luis Obispo on the coast, and all of southern California; east to Chicago and El Paso, and all the intervening states and territories.

40. What are the immediate prospects of an increase of the shipping of your port?

Good prospects, owing to dredging operations going on, and reclamation of lands and enlarging wharf facilities.

41. What are your warehouse and railroad facilities for handling freight?

For coasting vessels good; we have no facilities for deep water vessels.

42. What are the prospects of an immediate enlargement of such facilities?

Facilities for deep water vessels can be provided at a moderate cost.

43. What, if any, suggestions have you to make to existing laws regulating harbors?

Wherever possible provide public docks and amend the law regulating railroad commission so that it can do something practical.

44. What, in your opinion, is it practical for the State to do to assist in the building up of commerce at your port?

Make an appropriation for docks in the outer harbor.

45. If improvements are made by the State, should they, in the judgment of your business men, be made by direct appropriation or by the issue of bonds bearing a low rate of interest and covering a period of many years?

A bond issue would be best.

46. What are your pilotage charges?

Five dollars per foot draft for entering inner harbor, and 5 cents per gross ton for entering outer harbor.

47. What obstacles, if any, have shipping interests to contend with in your port? There are at present no facilities for docking deep water vessels, and San Pedro is not a terminal point.

48. If, in your opinion, any of the fixed charges on shipping can be reduced, please make suggestions as to the best method of accomplishing such reduction.

Municipal docks and a municipal road to Los Angeles would reduce the charges to one fifth of those now charged.

49. Have any private persons or corporations attempted to monopolize the shipping facilities of your port or your water frontage? If so, state what persons or corporation, and what, if anything, has been done to prevent such monopoly?

No one has or can monopolize the harbor of San Pedro, as the city of San Pedro owns over eight miles of its own frontage and can build municipal docks wherever it so desires.

OAKLAND.

From a report made to this committee by the Oakland Chamber of Commerce, dated April 30, 1908, the following has been gleaned:

There is a depth of 25 feet over the bar, and an average depth of 20 feet in the channel in the center of the city, varying from 8 to 25 feet. In what is known as Brooklyn Basin, there is an anchorage area of 300 acres, in addition to the channel which is two miles in length. There is a great variation of depth at piers or at places where piers may be constructed, varying from practically nothing to 25 feet.

The State owns none of the piers and docks at Oakland, of which there are eighteen owned by corporations and private individuals. As reports of expenses are not required by the State the cost of maintenance of these piers and docks can not be ascertained, this being a matter of private concern and subject to private expenditure. They are constructed entirely of wood, possessing the usual lifetime of wooden piers and piling.

Oakland has about four miles of berth space, counting all the available frontage on piers and wharves. To accommodate shipping the city has expended about $50,000 in docks and $1,000,000 more for dredging, and is contemplating a further expenditure of from $1,000,000 to $2,000,000. Other dock owners have expended over $5,000,000 for docks and dredging. That other improvements are needed is apparent from the present condition of the docks, which are reported to be in only fair condition. There must, in addition to the improvement of the present docks, be new docks added, present facilities for shipping having been found to be inadequate. To remedy the evil of crowded docks and shallow water in the channel and at pierhead lines the city of Oakland has in contemplation an issue of improvement bonds, being but the beginning of improvements estimated to cost $25,000,000 when completed. One of the first steps to be taken is the dredging of the channel to an average depth of 30 feet, a contract having been let for a portion of this work, which will amount to $515,000, the ultimate cost not yet having been determined. The War Department has ordered new surveys in furtherance of this work. Dredging is being done on private property to secure the average channel depth, while the railway companies contemplate projects of great magnitude which will involve the expenditure of millions of dollars.

All dockage charges are regulated by city ordinances, and there seem to be no complaints from vessel owners or consignees regarding overcharges or discriminations. Until the channel can be dredged to the required depth the dockage facilities are reported to be ample for the demands made upon them, but present conditions are not favorable to the prospective increase of business, such as will naturally accrue to those points where commerce centers and trans-shipment is made from hull to car and from car to hull.

The State owns the tide lands to a little beyond the old city limits, this being one of the few ports in which complete State ownership has not been parted with, although the report of the Oakland Chamber of Commerce, by inference only, indicates that there is a considerable private ownership.

Some conception of the shipping business of Oakland may be obtained from the report of vessels entering that port from January 1, 1905, to December 31, 1907, there having been 4,513 vessels, not including ferries or river steamers, having a total of 2,019,918 tonnage. The leading imports have been lumber and coal, while the exports have been principally manufactured articles and canned goods.

The railroads doing business on the Oakland piers are the Belt Line, the Southern Pacific, the San Francisco, Oakland and San Jose, the Santa Fe and the Western Pacific. It can be stated that the entire United States seeks this port with a portion of its Pacific Ocean business. The latest of these railways, the Western Pacific, will very materially increase the business of this port, especially from the Middle West and the Southern States. It naturally follows, therefore, that there will soon be demanded an increase of facilities, especially in the accommodation of the greater ocean vessels. The legal rights of the city have been established by favorable court decisions, so that the much needed improvements will be proceeded with without unnecessary delay.

The official utterance of the Chamber of Commerce is to the effect that if improvements should be made by the State direct appropriations might be the proper method of payment, although no arguments have been advanced in support of this position, and possibly a vote of the members of that body would not sustain it.

On one point there is no uncertainty—the one great obstacle that shipping interests have to meet is the lack of depth of water in the channel. On this one point there is no difference of opinion. Not only increased shipping, but constantly increasing size of vessels, demands greater depth in the channel than the average of 25 feet reported, an average that is of little value while there remains the much shallower waters reported.

PORT SAN LUIS.

Port Harford, on San Luis Obispo Bay, is about twelve miles from Port San Luis. The shipment of 3,000,000 barrels of oil to domestic and foreign ports, with an added export of 3,500 tons of cereals, and 5,000 tons of imports, give evidence of the importance at the present time of the future possibilities to be found in and about San Luis Obispo Bay.

With a depth of 34 feet at the entrance to the channel there is an average depth of 30 feet in the anchorage ground of the ten square miles constituting the available portions of the harbor. The practical utility of this great anchorage area is shown from the average depth, and the mean depth inside at the piers and at the places where docks can be constructed. At the present time there are but two piers, one of these being owned by the county and the other by private parties. They cost $40,000 each, estimated. As the State has no interest in these piers there is naturally no revenue produced for the commonwealth, although the dockage charges are $5 up to 950 tons and $10 for that number and over.

The tide lands are all owned by individuals, as is found to be the case in many other ports. The dockage facilities are deemed to be sufficient for all present purposes. Naturally the demands made upon them are by the oil interests to a very large degree, interests that may be extended in volume, and which may follow the results of continued production, as found in other oil fields.

The Federal Government has taken the preliminary steps toward providing a breakwater, which has been under construction several years, the work being done on its extension. A small appropriation has been made for that purpose. Private enterprise, content with the present facilities in the way of dockage, does not seem to be adding to the present accommodations, there being room at the present time for eight vessels at the piers at one time, possibly a greater provision than has ever been taxed for use.

During the year 1907 the vessels calling at this port were as follows: Sailing vessels, 21; steamers, 327; tugs, 65; barges, 85; gasoline schooners, 12.

Mr. Myron Angel, under date of January 25, 1908, wrote this committee a letter dealing with the present advantages and the future possibilities of Port San Luis, from which the following extracts have been made:

"SAN LUIS OBISPO, CAL., January 25, 1908.

I. F. Fitzgerald, Esq., President Chamber of Commerce, San Luis Obispo, Cal.

"The view obtained from the bay by the passing traveler is not impressive of the resources of the country the harbor is to serve; even our own county people seldom contemplate the vast area to be accommodated commercially by the harbor of San Luis Obispo, and to which a perfectly protected harbor free from monopoly, is a necessity. The area concisely stated, is fully fifteen thousand square miles of exceedingly productive country. This is immediate—the area may be greatly enlarged in the future. To be more explicit, the region to be benefited by a good harbor at the bay of San Luis Obispo is bounded on the north by the valley of the Nacimiento extended east to crossing of the Monte Diablo range by a low pass of 1,500 feet, then northerly, including Fresno; east by the Sierra Nevada, and south by the Tehachapi and the Santa Ynez Mountains. All this area used the harbor by wagon transportation before the construction of the Pacific railroad through the San Joaquin Valley.

"In resources for the comfort and wealth of mankind this section as outlined is unsurpassed by any equal area on earth, being of soil and surface elements of great value, and beneath the fertile soil minerals in abundance and variety, explored to a depth of 4,000 feet, finding oil, clays, cement, and other rocks, sand, sulphur, soda, salt, and other substances of utility of manufacturing and commercial value.

"The immediate area now using the harbor is that west of the Monte Diablo range north of the Santa Ynez, equal in extent to that of the states of Connecticut and Rhode Island combined. I have included the county of Fresno in the ultimate area when the harbor is completed and transportation to it perfected. It is not usually understood that the distance from the city of Fresno to the harbor of San Luis Obispo is precisely the same as to the harbor of Monterey, while the mountain passes leading to San Luis Obispo are of less elevation and the route much more feasible for a railroad."

SANTA BARBARA.

There is an average depth of water at Santa Barbara of from 7 to 10 fathoms, with from 4 to 6 fathoms at points where piers may be constructed. There is but one pier, owned by private parties, constructed at a cost of $125,000, this being 2,300 feet in length, and which pays a State license. Some repairs on this pier are needed at the present time, the estimated cost of which is $30,000. This, however, is a private matter. The dock charge is $10 for each steamer taking berth room at the dock. There being room for six vessels at one time, the present dockage facilities are considered ample.

The tide lands at Santa Barbara are partly owned by the State, and as no commercial demands will likely be made upon them the ownership will in all probability remain as at present.

The tonnage, being business principally with San Francisco, Los Angeles, and San Diego, for 1907, amounted to 13,000 tons of incoming and outgoing freight, consisting of general merchandise, grain, lemons, beans, and walnuts. No pretense is made at serving interior points in competition with the ports north or south, owing to lack of railroad and other facilities. There is no immediate prospect of an increase in the shipping at Santa Barbara, local conditions being fully served. The business men of this place have expressed an interest in the conditions at Port San Luis, and expressed a desire that this committee pay especial attention to conditions at that place.

Having nothing to suggest for Santa Barbara in the way of improvements by the State, the Chamber of Commerce of that place indorses the plan of long-time bonds at low rate of interest to secure funds for improvements to be made in harbors where State assistance is required.

NEWPORT BAY.

Newport Bay, a beautiful sheet of water enclosed on three sides by commanding hills and on the ocean side by a sand peninsula that has been utilized by a railroad, an electric line and by town builders, is at the present time a pleasure resort, although with aid from the Federal Government in the way of building twin jetties it can be made a profitable business point. The depth of water over the bar is but 4½ feet at mean low tide, increasing to 10 feet at mean high tide. There was a time when the depth was so much greater that vessels of considerable size entered this bay and passed up the channel two or more miles before unloading. The drift of sand has never been interfered with, until at the present time the entrance to the bay is practically closed. Only twin jetties and much dredging can render the bay serviceable in any degree. Within the bay is a channel three miles long and 600 feet wide, varying in depth from 8 to 12 feet, with some locations showing greater depth. It has been estimated that a depth of 20 feet can be secured over an increased area by dredging, which would bring the same depth to the pierhead line.

There are a number of small piers, built to accommodate the pleasure demands, there being no other call upon them. There are no docks. The Southern Pacific has a pier extending into the ocean on which has been expended much money, and which, affording dockage for two vessels at one time, is deemed adequate for all present demands.

The tide lands in the bay are owned by both the State and by private individuals, the former possessing about 1,000 acres and the latter about 1,500 acres. Should the State ever have need of the lands owned by private parties there will be no trouble in securing title at reasonable figures without condemnation proceedings.

The Pacific Electric Railway Company and the Newport Beach Dredging Company have been granted permission to dredge the channel in the bay covering one and one half miles in length and averaging 500 feet in width. But this improvement is not intended for commercial purposes, nor will there be need for such until the construction of twin jetties by the Federal Government. The business men of Newport express the hope that the State will take some steps whereby the Federal Government will be induced to make the desired appropriation. It is their opinion that whatever improvements may be made by the State at and in harbors should be by a bonded issue of long time bearing low interest.

The following, by Lew H. Wallace, secretary of the Newport Beach Chamber of Commerce, is a comprehensive review of past conditions and suggestions of what may be:

"Records show that in 1873 the steamer at Newport plied between San Francisco and Old Newport wharf, three miles inside of the entrance. This steamer made the trip twice a month, bringing merchandise, which was freighted by team to Santa Ana, San Bernardino, and as far inland as Arizona and New Mexico. She always returned fully loaded with cargoes of grain, hay, barley, honey, peanuts; in fact, products of every description, as well as ores from the mines. This continued until 1888, when an outside wharf 1,200 feet long and 60 feet wide was constructed. With the increased facilities for handling, commerce increased immediately to two steamers per week which loaded and unloaded full cargoes the full year around until 1891. Commerce increased to such an extent in this year that an extra passenger steamer, with a cargo capacity, was added to the list of regular weekly service, thus making three steamers a week operating on a regular time schedule. Imports consisted of lumber and every known commodity. Exports became so heavy that the three regular steamers could not handle the trade, and many tramp steamers were called to this point to take care of surplus traffic. During this time Newport was the extreme southern port for the steamers Coos Bay, Santa Cruz, Eureka, and Bonita, owned by the Pacific Coast Steamship Company. During this period and the following years large numbers of cattle and sheep were carried from this port. In 1893 the steamer Al Ki carried from this port the largest cargo of grain which up to that time had entered Golden Gate. This cargo consisted of 26,000 sacks of barley or 110 carloads; and in the same year there was landed on this wharf a cargo of 105 carloads of lumber, or nearly one million feet by the four-masted schooner Prosper. Beginning February, 1894, and continuing until June, 1899, the amount of lumber landed at this port would indicate the volume of imports that would be handled if adequate improvements and facilities were established. The figures covering the shipments from one wharf only during this period showed an average of 365 cargoes yearly, or more than one cargo a day, because the owners of the wharf and short railroad line at this time refused to operate on Sunday. These cargoes average 640,000 feet of lumber to the cargo, and records show that this was distributed to practically every commercial center known in the United States. In addition to this the regular three steamers a week unloaded and loaded at this port, with many tramp steamers interspersed. In June, 1899, the wharf and railroad line to the interior passed into the hands of the Southern Pacific Railway Company, which effectually cut off the Santa Fe Railway feeding from this port. Immediately upon the acquisition of this property by the Southern Pacific commerce and trade stopped, and where, within a week or two prior to this transaction, there were as many as five to seven steamers and schooners waiting their turn to discharge their cargo, the week following the change of ownership there was but an occasional vessel that stopped at this port. This data was obtained from the books of the wharf box for the private road and wharf during the years 1888 to 1899."

EXECUTIVE DEPARTMENT, STATE OF CALIFORNIA,
SACRAMENTO, March 22, 1909.

To the Senate of the State of California:

I herewith return Senate Bill No. 232—An Act to amend section six hundred and forty-four of the Penal Code, relating to enticing seamen to desert their vessels—for the following reasons:

This bill repeals section six hundred and forty-four of the Penal Code, which makes it a misdemeanor to entice a sailor to desert his ship. A similar bill was vetoed at the last session of the Legislature. Section 4601 of the Revised Statutes of the United States, which made it a misdemeanor to harbor or secrete a sailor who had deserted his ship, was repealed by an Act of Congress in the year 1898. A similar law covered by Section 645 of the Penal Code of this State was repealed at the last session of the Legislature.

The reason for repealing these two laws, State and Federal, was because by amendments to the shipping laws of Congress desertion was no longer an offense, therefore it could not be a crime to harbor a person who had the right to desert and leave his ship. But this reason does not obtain as far as section six hundred and forty-four is concerned. The purpose of this section is to protect shipping and commerce and prevent a stranger, or any other person, from unlawfully going upon a ship or otherwise, and by means of promises, persuasion, or threats of violence, induce or entice sailors to desert, thereby depriving the ship of a crew and delaying its voyage. All nations have enacted laws to protect their shipping interests and to promote their commerce, and their vessels visit all ports of the world in carrying on this commerce.

The laws require that vessels must be seaworthy and must carry a sufficient crew of sailors to insure its safety and complete its voyage, and no ship is permitted to proceed to sea without such a crew. It is important that these ships should make their voyages without unnecessary delay, and without unlawful interference, and this furnishes, to a large extent, the reason for the enactment into law of said section six hundred and forty-four, which Senate Bill No. 232 seeks to repeal.

Sailors may be enticed to desert a ship which is ready for sea by promises made or inducements held out by rival companies who desire to prevent or interfere with a ship carrying out its charter party, or by some organization which is engaged in some industrial controversy with the charterers of the ship, and is endeavoring to prevent its voyage until the ship yields to its proposed terms.

In the past many wrongful acts have been committed in every port of this State in enticing or forcing sailors to desert or leave the ship upon which they were employed, and from which shipping has greatly suffered. In Humboldt Bay, to my own knowledge, ships have been, in the past, many times detained in their voyages because their crews have left through enticement or fear of personal injuries. New crews were engaged in San Francisco and upon their arrival were met by a committee whose members were unknown to them, and if they could not be persuaded to leave the ship violence was frequently used, and in doing so sailors were stabbed in their bunks, beaten on the streets of Eureka, and some were bound hand and foot, gagged and thrown in the bay. These men were satisfied with the articles signed and the wages paid them, and could not be induced or enticed to leave the ship. Many, however, left because of their fear of personal violence and of threats made. This condition has existed in every part of the State, and is likely to arise at any time. Section six hundred and forty-four of the Penal Code offers some relief, and in some degree can prevent these acts from being perpetrated. It is in the interest of shipping and commerce, and affords some protection to those who desire to go to sea from those who wish to prevent them, as well as to the shipowners.

The law, therefore, for the foregoing reasons should be strengthened rather than repealed.

Governor of the State of California.

EXECUTIVE DEPARTMENT, STATE OF CALIFORNIA.
SACRAMENTO, March 22, 1909.

To the Honorable Senate of the State of California:

I have the honor to return herewith Senate Bill No. 703—An Act to add a new section to the Penal Code of the State of California, to be numbered 489a, relating to the possession of any contrivance for preventing the correct registration of any gas or electric meter—without my approval for the following reason:

This bill provides that any person who, with intent to injure or defraud, shall have in his possession a machine, appliance, contrivance, or device of any character used or intended to be used to prevent a gas or electric meter from correctly registering the gas or electricity passing through it, or to convey or transmit around or past such meter any gas or electricity that should pass through such meter, is guilty of a misdemeanor.

This bill is substantially covered, so far as gas is concerned, by the provisions of Senate Bill No. 704, which I have approved. The only material difference is that under the Act returned herewith, it is provided that no person shall have in his possession a machine intended to be used to prevent a meter from correctly registering the gas or electricity passing through it, or to convey or transmit around or past said meter, any gas or electricity that should pass through such meter.

I do not think that this is one of the class of cases which should make the possession of implements of this kind punishable by fine and imprisonment. It is the use of these things that is sought to be suppressed and not the mere possession, and in my opinion a law of this character should not be enacted which would make the possession of such appliances a criminal offense.
